SCENE OF MYSTERY DEATH — Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley seals door of "story book" home at 225 Ferndale Avenue, Homestead Valley, in which body of owner Barry Drew was found early today. Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Bridges watches. A necktie was tightly tied across Drew's mouth and a towel was over his face. Cause of death was not immediately determined. (Independent-Journal photo)

Death Of Night Club Owner Puzzles Marin Authorities

A night club owner and former New York soap opera actor was found dead this morning at his Homestead Valley home with a towel tied around his face with a necktie.

The death presented Marin County authorities with a mystery.

Asst. Coroner William Bradley said the victim, Barry Drew, 53, may have taken his own life by swallowing pills. He said there was no evidence of suffocation or strangulation and no sign of violence in the picturesque home at 225 Fern dale Avenue, Homestead Valley.

Drew, a bachelor, was co-owner of the Purple Onion and Casa Madrid night clubs in San Francisco and the Purple Onion in Los Angeles. At one time, Drew was on the "Ma Perkins" radio program in New York. He also worked for a little theater group in Hollywood. Bradley said Drew also owned some arks in Sausalito.

Drew's partner at the Purple Onion in San Francisco, Irving Eldon Steinhoff, said Drew helped close up the night club about 2 a.m. Monday. When he failed to show up last night, he notified the Marin County sheriff.

Sheriff's Deputy George Reuss found Drew's body about 2:15 a.m. today in the upstairs bedroom.

The victim was fully clothed. A green bath towel was over his face. A black necktie was tied tightly over the mouth and knotted in the back of the head.

An autopsy report indicated Drew had been dead about two days.

Undersheriff Eugene Meyer and Identification Technician Edmond Mauberret said Drew had been ill for the past year and had undergone several operations.

Some green substance found in the victim's stomach was sent to a laboratory for analysis.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Drew leaves a brother, Franklin Edmonds Drew, who lives in Los Altos and works for an oil company in San Francisco. A sister, Mrs. Charles T. Wood, lives in Toronto, Canada.

Officials Doubt City Good For Marinwood-Terra Linda

By ALTON S. BOCK

Incorporation of Terra Linda and Marinwood was discouraged last night at a public meeting attended by more than 80 residents and county officials in the Mary E. Silveira School in Marinwood.

County officials who discussed the choices of government facing the two suburban communities cast doubt on alleged advantages of incorporation. They suggested the area would be better off keeping existing county services.

The meeting was sponsored by the Marinwood Assn. to "inform Marinwood residents about governmental alternatives to the present community services district."

Before the end of the three-hour discussion, some Terra Linda residents expressed dismay over the outlook for incorporation. They protested they had no representation on the Marinwood Assn. committee which is to make a report next week on incorporation, annexation, or retention of the commuity services districts.

(The meeting was led by association members and Marinwood residents outnumbered Terra Linda residents in the audience.)

"I would like to criticize rather than question this panel," said Jack Brandon, Terra Linda Recreation District chairman. "I thought Ter-

Supervisors Yield On Pt. Reyes Road

By RANDALL GOULD

Point Reyes Peninsula subdivider-attorney Benjamin P. Bonelli finally rallied a majority of Marin County supervisors yesterday for a "compromise solution" allowing creation of an an assessment district to improve a dirt road through ranch property and past Drakes Beach Esates.

But what was put forward as the easy and agreed plan, satisfactory to residential neighbors because they'd be excluded from district and costs, churned into much confusion for awhile.

Supervisor George Ludy at one stage called for a standing vote of those in the audience who were interested, but it seemed that by then nobody was clear as to anything. After several queries and assurances that various of those interested wouldn't have to pay anything, Ludy said it appeared the only objector was Thomas Storer of Balboa Avenue.

Gist of the proposed solution was to exclude from the assessment district Balboa Avenue, which runs west off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard a mile west of Point Reyes Station and is a country road six-tenths of a mile long. Also to be excluded was some extension road to a total of 20,000 feet.

The remainder of a crescent road curving northwest to rejoin Sir Francis Drake Boulevard west of Inverness, to an overall length of 7½ miles, would be included in the district. A resolution modifying the initial assessment district was to arrange for this division.

Supervisor Peter Behr immediately said the district would be within a proposed national seashore, and "this will never get my vote."

Issue was promptly joined by Supervisor George Ludy of Inverness.

Ambassador Gavin Resigns Paris Post

WASHINGTON (UPI)—James M. Gavin's resignation as U.S. ambassador to France was announced today by the White House.

President John F. Kennedy accepted the resignation "with great regrets." The retired Army general asked to be relieved of his assignment "for compelling personal reasons."

It was understood that the Paris post had meant more of a personal financial drain on Gavin than he could afford. He, therefore, wanted to return to his private position as an executive with Arthur D. Little Inc., an electronic firm in Boston, it was believed.

White House sources insisted the resignation stemmed from financial considerations rather than any policy differences.

Arson Suspect Begged Mercy, Jurors Told

McDonald Huffman, 35, accused of setting fire to the San Anselmo home in which his daughter died, was heard screaming, "God forgive me; my baby's inside," immediately after the fire.

This testimony came from San Anselmo Police Sgt. Louis Alberigi before a jury of nine women and three men, hearing the case today in Marin Superior Court.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarino is prosecuting Huffman on an arson charge before Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. Deputy Public Defender Jerome Durham represents Huffman.

Huffman was burned about the head and face in a vain attempt to rescue his daughter Donita, 10, who perished in the home at 10 Ivy Lane last March 24.

Sergeant Alberigi and firemen said they saw Huffman running and screaming: "God forgive me! My baby's inside. I couldn't get her out."

Asst. Fire Chief Frank Sousa and Fireman Keith Collette testified this morning. Among those awaiting their turn on the witness stand today were Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani and George Harman, polygraph expert from San Francisco.

Chief Buchignani said Huffman admitted he set the fire because of domestic troubles with his wife.

SAN RAFAEL CITY SALARIES HIKED

San Rafael city employees all will get raises effective today, and in many cases they are just what they asked.

The decision to grant the raises was made by city councilmen meeting over sandwiches at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant yesterday noon. The raises, affecting 142 employees, will add $95,400 to the annual payroll, City Manager Dan E. Andersen said. This puts the total city payroll at $961,800.

The council agreed that the additional money will be taken from an accumulated reserve of $270,000 that has been held for flood control and drainage projects.

The council will not take formal action on the new salaries or the budget adjustment until Monday's council meeting, but the raises will take effect the first of the month—today.

Mayor John F. McInnis wanted it clearly understood that salaries will be reconsidered later in light of requests made by city employees and presented last week by William J. Murphy of San Francisco, an attorney hired by the San Rafael City Employees Assn.

The timing of yesterday's action was brought on by the need to adopt the budget for the city's 1963 fiscal year, McInnis explained. He said he hoped the employees' requests could be reviewed within the next 30 days.

However, the salaries adopted yesterday met the requests of employees in many cases. Police and fire department workers, for instance, received what they asked.

Patrolmen and firemen were raised from $542 to $608 a month top pay. Police sergeants and fire department engineers were boosted from

Unemployment At 2-Year Low Point

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment fell by 445,000 in July, and the idle rate dropped to its lowest point in more than two years.

The job improvement may take some of the steam out of the drive in some quarters for an immediate tax cut to improve the economy.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said in announcing the July job figures today that the employment situation is only one of a mixed bag of statistics which the administration is scanning in seeking a tax cut decision.

Carpenters Seek Better Wage Increase

Day-long negotiations will open in San Francisco tomorrow in an effort to avert a strike of 16,000 Bay Area carpenters who got the short end of recent building trades pay hikes.

"We are seeking the correction of an inequity," Norman Campbell, business representative for the Marin County local, said. "The carpenter has been placed in an untenable position."

About 1,800 Marin carpenters are represented by the local union.

In the three-year contracts, carpenters, who approved tentative settlement first, received a raise of 65 cents an hour to be spread over the three-year period. Later laborers settled for 70 cents and plumbers for

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Finkbines Keeping Plans Secret

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mrs. Sherri Finkbine, who shared with the world her fear of bearing a deformed child, apparently hopes to keep secret when and where she plans to have an abortion.

However, it appeared today the Finkbines will travel to a country which will permit the abortion.

Back in her suburban Scottsdale home after four days of seclusion, the pretty 30-year-old star of a children's television show said yesterday she has been advised that any comment on her destination could jeopardize her chance of obtaining an abortion.

"It's hard for me to say 'no comment' because I've got plenty of comments," she said. "But I can't say anything."

Mrs. Finkbine took the drug thalidomide, blamed for the births of thousands of malformed babies in Europe, Canada and Australia.

Ted Kennedy Spent $50,000

BOSTON (UPI) — Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, the president's youngest brother, spent more than $50,000 in winning the Democratic endorsement for U.S. Senate.

The figure was disclosed yesterday after all Massachusetts candidates filed campaign financial statements under provision of a new law with the secretary of state.

The report said $72,691 was donated to Kennedy's campaign committee and that he spent $43,624.

Kennedy's unsuccessful rival for the endorsement of the Democratic State Convention, Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., spent $31,367 and had liabilities of $12,941.

Train Plows Into 5

NEW HAMBURG, N.Y. (UPI)— A one-car New York Central train plowed into four children and an adult on a drawbridge last night. Three of the children were killed, one was missing and presumed dead and the adult's arm was torn off.

The father of two of the victimes was at the north end of the bridge when the train smashed into his children, their cousins and his brother-in-law.

Police said the victims, who had been fishing at the south end of the bridge, apparently were walking with their backs to the northbound train.

Ice Cube Record

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)— Barbara Fenske, 16, and Marilyn O'Connor, 15, have laid claim to the ice cube tossing record, with a reported 5,599 catches before the cube melted.

Fascist Attacked

LONDON (UPI)—Extreme right wing leader Sir Oswald Mosley was knocked down, punched and kicked last night for the second time in three days while attempting to hold a rally.

The violence erupted in London's east end, where he and his blackshirt followers had bloody clashes with Communist groups in the 1930s.

Newsmen on the scene said the 65-year-old rightist was knocked down by Jewish exservicemen who tricked police into thinking they were Mosley bodyguards. Mosley's jaw was bruised but he was otherwise uninjured.

Bandleader Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Lewis J. Fuiks, 69, bandleader known in his profession as Victor Arden, died yesterday. Arden made numerous records and appeared in many radio broadcasts and movie shorts during the 1930s and 1940s.

Finn Red Rioting

HELSINKI (UPI)—Police used tear gas to break up another anti-Communist demonstration last night in rioting the World Youth Festival in this neutral nation.

Authorities said many of the several thousand participants in the fourth straight night of demonstrations were teenagers. They theorized many were present for lack of anything better to do on a summer night.

The demonstration came as the festival observed its Soviet-Finnish "Youth Friendship Day."

There was no truncheon swinging or use of mounted police, as in previous riots against the Communist-backed festival. At least ten arrests were made and there were no serious casualties, police said.

Some Like Hot, Cold

NEW YORK (UPI)—The lowest temperature reported to the U.S. Weather Bureau this morning was 42 degrees at Marquette City Airport, Mich. The highest reported yesterday was 112 at Yuma, Ariz., and Imperial, Calif.

Fire Kills 42

HONG KONG (UPI)—Fire gutted a crowded Hong Kong tenement today killing 42 of 400 Chinese sleeping inside the building.

PEPPERDINE DIES—George Pepperdine, 76, founder of Pepperdine College, businessman and philanthropist, died yesterday in Los Angeles after an illness of several years. Pepperdine built the Western Auto Supply chain into a multimillion dollar business but he lost a personal fortune estimated at 10 million dollars. He was born in Mound Valley, Kan. (AP Wirephoto)

Safe Landing

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI)—A four-engine DC-7 airliner carrying 95 American servicemen and their families returned safely to Shannon Airport today with one engine feathered.

Airport officials said the pilot feathered the engine about 400 miles over the Atlantic and brought the plane back to Shannon about 7 a.m.

Adventist Leader Sees U.N. Around Gospel Of Christ

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Today's world is being bridged into one compact world community from which a united nation will be formed around the Gospel of Christ, according to a vice president of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Speaking before the 49th World Conference of the church here yesterday, Frank L. Peterson, Washington, D.C., said that the Adventist Church accepts all challanges that this modern day presents.

"It is only in and through the Gospel of Jesus Christ that men can be united and made one," he said.

Peterson said he feels that giant moves toward unity along churches is one of the signs of the nearness of Christ's coming to earth again.

"The stage is being set for the coming of the Lord," he asserted, "and little does the world know of it."

The assemblage later heard Andrew C. Fearing, Washington, D.C., associate world director of the Adventists Ministerial association, declare that "there is one calamity that can really ruin a home—the death of love."

Fearing spoke on "the Christian home" and said "the world's slowest and worst death is in killing your companion slowly through lack of appreciation, tenderness and kindness, by going day after day without a loving word."

Health Officer Notes 12 Strep Throat Cases

Twelve infectious strep throat cases were reported in Marin County during the past week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Other cases of communicable diseases reported during the week include: gonorrhea and measles, six each; infectious hepatitis, four; syphilis, two; and mumps and salmonella, one each.

The 36-year-old Boy Scout world's speed knot-tying record has been broken by a Brookline, Mass., youth, John W. Sim, 13, shaved one-half a second off the 18-second record set by a Swiss Scout at the Second World Jamboree in Copenhagen in 1924.

Anti-Digit Dialers File Incorporation

By LOREN MacARTHUR

An exhuberant group of Anti-Digit Dialers poured into the Marin Courthouse Clerk's Office today to file incorporation papers for the Anti-Digit Dialing League, dedicated to the proposition that LEtters BEong in TElephone NUmbers.

By Aug. 15 Marin County will have its own official chapter of the league, explained director Robert Carrow of Novato, as he pulled one of a large stack of incorporation papers out of a briefcase.

"We'll incorporate in every county in the state," Carrow said. "We plan a public get-together in the courthouse Aug. 15 to organize a local chapter."

Carrow, a Democratic candidate for the Seventh Assembly District in the state legislature, said the fight against the telephone company's new all-number dialing system will go to Sacramento if necessary.

"If we're not successful before the Public Utilities Commission, we'll go to the Federal Communications Commission," declared director Carl May, San Francisco public relations man. "If that fails, we'l introduce egislation in Sacramento."

"I doubt that we'll need to hire a lobbyist," said Carrow. "We have public opinion behind us."

League chapters have been formed in San Francisco, the East Bay, Palo Alto, San Jose and Los Angeles, according to May.

Other Marin County directors for the league include semanticist S. I. Hayakawa and Mrs. Bonita Tayor Burgon, both of Mill Valley.

As the group packed up to move on to Los Gatos, where they plan an open house tonight, league president Hiram Johnson III of Belvedere walked in carrying a newspaper.

"I believe we have some competition," he said, exhibiting a newspaper containing a classified ad for the ADDL. Under it was a second ad, reading: Anti-Anti-Digit Dialers League. Phone 524-0141 or 524-0140 for our recorded message.

Petaluma Reconsiders Marin Water Agreement

Because of a clause on "surplus" water in a proposed agreement with the North Marin County Water District, the Petaluma City Council and city water commission are taking a second and long look at the agreement.

The council called a special meeting for 3 p.m. Thursday in the Petaluma city hall to study the proposed agreement.

David Young, Petaluma water department engineer, said the clause on "surplus water" was objected to by both the council and water commission.

Directors of the North Marin County District at their latest meeting gave tentative approval to the agreement and sent it to Petaluma.

Under the proposed agreement, the North Marin District would furnish "surplus" water to areas south of Petaluma which are not now served by public water, Young said. The North Marin District would decide when the water was "surplus."

If the North Marin District wanted to, it could annex these areas along the Russian River Aqueduct to quarantee them water, Young said.

The proposed agreement was given to the Petaluma city attorney for study before the special meeting Thursday afternoon. Then it will be discussed by the Petaluma City Council and water commission.

ROAD

road that has been in use for 100 years, he said. "Until land is condemned and paid for, it remains in private ownership. Dairy ranches are on either side of this road."

"It's grazing land, like another world," said Supervisor William D. Fusselman. "If they want to pay (37 have signed up for the district) I see no reason why not. It represents no detriment to the park."

Bonelli argued that Congress is posing a threat, local government is being intimidated, and "before the park bill is even passed the local people are being pressured." He said he didn't see how any "freeze" could be properly applied merely because of a potential seashore.

Concerning the "freeze" legislation Behr last week asked County Counsel E. Warren McGuire to draw, McGuire made no statement to the board yesterday. When questioned, he said the matter is complex and will require at least another two or three weeks.)

Behr said that apparently "a boulevard in the wilderness" was being planned, out of keeping with ranchers' needs and for developing subdivisions.

First speaker from the audience was Mrs. Ruth Lockhart. She declared that "with improvement, the dirt road will take the ranchers' traffic instead of having the trucks tear up our road which is now the only outlet. We'll agree to the district if they leave us out. The ranchers are entitled to it."

"I'm entitled to my suspicions of ulterior motive," retorted Behr.

Storer wanted to know if there would be a locked gate on the road to make the ranchers travel northwest. Ludy said the road would remain open "as it has been for over 100 years."

Capt. Adolph S. Oko, Point Reyes Station real estate broker, declared he was speaking for competitors but "the gleam in the national park's eye is still only a gleam" and Marin County shouldn't follow the "neo-Nazi pattern" to repress minority rights.

After time out to prepare a resolution omitting dissenters from the district, four measures were passed to get it under way.

Chairman Walter R. Castro voted against all but Behr supported the resolution exempting Balboa Avenue, to make this vote 4-1 rather than 3-2 like the others. "I don't want anybody penalized by the fact that I'm opposed," said Behr.

Castro said today that he substantially agreed with Behr's view on the Point Reyes situation and that he couldn't get a straight answer as to whether Bonelli's subdivision will joint with the ranchers in the district.

CITY

ra Linda and Marinwood had common problems and objectives, but as I sit here I feel we are looked on as a stepchild."

Kenneth D. Lawson, committee member said there were no Terra Linda representatives on the committee because "we felt we should make our own decision and report to our own association."

"We didn't feel pressed by threats of annexation as you do in Terra Linda," Lawson said. "You've already gone through all of this and voted against annexation to San Rafael several years ago."

County spokesmen at the meeting made these remarks:

Administrator Alan Bruce: "The comparison of a potential city government here with Ross is not valid. In Ross, there is a higher assessed property value, very high incomes, and the people make few demands on their government." (The comparison was made in a letter to residents urging a vote on incorporation.)

Bruce added that the "low pressure" city described by government research consultant William R. Zion "understated" the needs of the area, and residents would make more demands each year.

Lt. Sidney Stinson of the sheriff's department: " A five-man police force as proposed for a city of Terra Linda and Marinwood would not be adequate."

Inspector Harvey Teague of the sheriff's juvenile division: "Juvenile problems in the area will increase, and there should be provisions for a juvenile officer. Recreation facilities such as swimming pools attract the troublemakers, and the number of incidents rise."

Supervisor Walter R. Castro: "The board of supervisors has been agreeable to the sheriff's requests for added men and equipment in this area."

Planning Director B. D. Dobbs said the board of supervisors would more likely be "responsive to the demands of the people regarding zoning and planning" than would a suburban city council.

Marinwood's parks and recreation director, Mrs. Dewey J. Forry, disputed Zion's suggestion of a $38,000 budget for a combined recreation department for the two areas.

"This would at best be a minimum department," Mrs. Forry said. "A budget of $50,000 is what we can expect, and I would say $70,000 would be a realistic proposal."

Zion said he suggested a higher figure of $50,000 in his report "if services were to increase to a high level."

"I proposed a minimum-service city," Zion said. "I won't quarrel with the argument that all budgets will have to go up over the years. All incorporation means now is the continuation of CSD services for one year."

Louis J. Grimard, chairman of the Marinwood Assn. committee, said the committee report favoring the "best political course" will be ready for the meeting of the association Tuesday. The three-man committee consists of Grimard, Lawson and Frank H. Johnson.

OBITUARIES

Services Set For Lost Boy

A memorial service for Allen Visher, 12, of Berkeley, who vanished in the rugged mountains of Kings Canyon National Park after he became separated from a hiking party July 18, will be held at his school tomorrow.

Search crews, which included Michael McLean and his bloodhounds from San Rafael along with several other Bay Area volunteers, could find no trace of the boy. After several days of searching, park officials concluded that Allen probably fell into the rapids of the Kings River and drowned.

Allen was the nephew of Mrs. Robert L. Meyer of 70 George Lane, Sausalito. His parents are Dr. John S. Visher and Mrs. Peggy Anne Visher of Berkeley.

Services will be at 3 p.m. in the Hillside School Auditorium at Buena Vista and LeRoy Streets, Berkeley.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown has a new associate press secretary.

He is John Ryckman, former Chicago newspaper reporter who also served as assistant secretary of the U.S. Interior department and administrative assistant to Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

Marin School Officials Hear Polio Plans

Marin school officials were given a briefing today on the county's oral polio vaccine program to be conducted in the schools this fall.

Members of the K. O. Polio Committee of the Marin Medical Society, and Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, outlined the program at a meeting in Marin General Hospital.

Dr. Albrecht said she hopes 90 per cent of the county's population will take advantage of the vaccination program. The school vaccinations will begin Sept. 4, and clinics for adults will be held Sept. 23, Nov. 4 and Dec. 9.

Advantages of the oral vaccine were described by Dr. Eugene P. Shatkin, committee chairman.

The meeting was attended by Edward R. Credell, assistant county schools superintendent; Bert C. Corona, San Rafael schools superintendent, and Homer Sisk, Fairfax schools superintendent and president of the Marin School Administrators' Assn.

$1.20 increases, over the same period. The plumbers also negotiated a shorter work week.

Campbell, who will be one of eight on the negotiating committee representing carpenters in tomorrow's session, said any call of a strike will be up to members in a referendum vote Aug. 8.

Carpenters will decide then whether to accept the results of tomorrow's negotiation with the Associated General Contractors.

Joseph O'Sullivan, business agent for San Francisco Carpenters Local 22, said, "If management doesn't come in with a reasonable offer, the carpenters are prepared to strike."

United Press International said the carpenters are seeking an hourly increase of $1.05 instead of 65 cents.

Campbell, however, said he did not know where that figure came from. He has been instructed to negotiate a new contract "in line with that given other building trades," he said.

Illinois Governor Spares Crump's Life

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner today granted the gift of life to condemned killer Paul Crump 58 hours before he was to die in Chicago's electric chair.

Kerner said, "I have commuted the sentence imposed on Paul Crump from death to imprisonment for a term of 199 years, without parole."

$579 to $638, police lieutenants and fire captains, from $600 to $687, and police captains and fire battalion chiefs from $641 to $739.

In taking action yesterday, councilmen worked from an 11-page summary that gave the name of each employee, his present pay, the salary recommended by the city manager, and the salary recommended "as amended to date."

With few exceptions, it was this last figure that was adopted. Generally, it was higher than the salary recommended by the city manager, but in some cases it was the same.

Andersen said the amended figure was based mainly on the recommendations of department heads.

Andersen himself received a raise from $1,145 to $1,174 per month, the figure he had recommended. This was over the objections of Councilman Fred E. Jensen, who said he thought the city manager should receive $1,200 per month.

Andersen was asked to leave the room while this proposal was discussed. He returned to find that Jensen had been voted down.

In their discussion yesterday, the last of several in hastily called budget session, councilmen said they were discussing the positions and not the individuals involved.

But in many cases, personalities were discussed.

The few changes made in the figures up for approval yesterday included $525 per month for Assistant Planner Joan Castrillon, instead of the recommended $538. She had been getting $513. City Engineer Dominic Selmi will get $900 a month instead of the recommended $893. He has been getting $871. Recreation Director Joseph Rodota will get $736 $800 per month. He has been getting $629.

Additional benefits requested by the city employees in Murphy's presentation were not discussed. These include an increase of 60 to 120 days accumulated sick leave, assurance of 11 paid holidays, pay or more time off for police and fire department overtime, an increase uniform allowance for police, and a reduction in the firemen's work week from 74½ to 63 hours.

The Salinas Valley in Monterey County, where 60 per cent of all lettuce is grown, is called "Salad Bowl of the Nation."

Permits Delay Ferry Service For Tiburon

Regular public ferry service between San Francisco and Tiburon, scheduled to begin today, has been postponed to Aug. 13.

Reason for the delay is that it took longer than expected for Harbor Tug and Barge Co. to get the necessary California Public Utilities Commission permits.

Scott Pipher, dispatcher for the firm which is to operate the service, said a permit was received yesterday. However, he said, now the ferry company must file a tariff rate and schedule with PUC, which requires a waiting period of 10 days.

First ferry on the regular public service is scheduled to arrive at Tiburon at 6:55 a.m., Aug. 13, and depart for Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco at 7:05 a.m.

The firm, which has had commute club charter service since March, will charge an 80-cent fare one way, $1.50 round trip, or $27 for 20 round trip tickets.

VICTORY IN SIGHT — Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus gives Mrs. Faubus a big squeeze and holds up a "V" for victory sign as steady returns indicate his fifth nomination as governor last night. (AP Wirephoto)

Faubus Treads Light On Race Issue, Wins Easy Fifth Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, soft-pedaling the integration issue which spread his name around the world, swept to an unprecedented fifth term in Arkansas' Democratic primary yesterday.

Faubus, who in 1957-58 became a symbol of resistance to the U.S. Supreme Court's desegregation order, said his reelection proved Arkansas does not want an extremist in the governor's chair.

The role of moderate was a new one for Faubus who courted segregationist votes and got them in waves in 1958 and 1960.

In this campaign he handed the segregationist banner to Rep. Dale Alford and pinned an integrationist label on former Gov. Sid McMath. Alford and McMath waged a spirited but meaningless battle for second place among Faubus' five opponents.

Sen. J. William Fulbright easily won nomination to a fourth term over Winston Chandler, a Little Rock businessman.

Returns from 2,029 of 2,348 precincts gave Faubus 152,332 votes to 134,041 for the combined opposition. Alford got 57,450, McMath 55,817, businessman Vernon Whitten 14,636, attorney Kenneth Coffelt 4,409 and farmer David A. Cox 1,646.

Fulbright had 153,073 votes, Chandler 82,511 in 1,946 precincts.

An anticipated heavy vote failed to materialize. Although the Faubus victory trend was established early, he lost strength from 1960 when he polled 58.7 per cent of a record 407,183 votes.

All five opponents made the fifth term the overriding issue, warning that the threat of dictatorship was inherent in retaining Faubus.

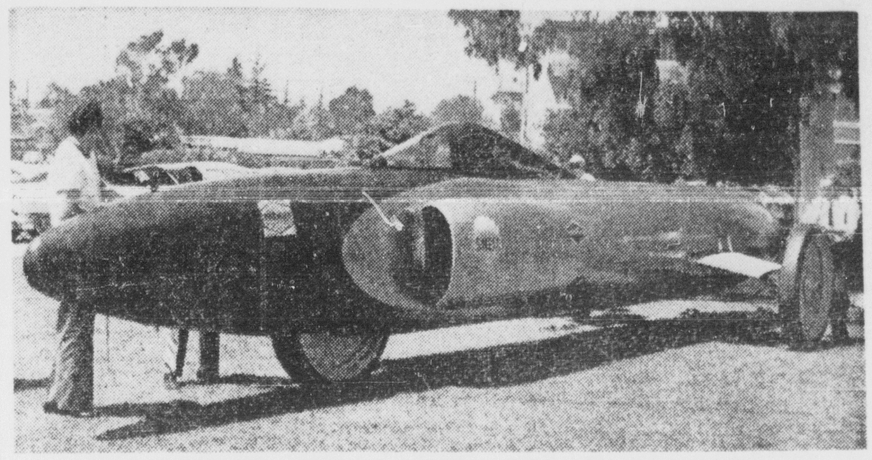
The governor campaigned on his record, citing industrial gains, increasing funds for schools and highways, higher welfare benefits and other expanded state services to support his bid for another term.

The race pitted Faubus against his political mentor, McMath. Faubus was McMath's highway director when McMath, trying for a third term, was beaten by Francis Cherry in 1952.

Two years later Faubus pulled the old McMath organization together and unseated Cherry. Meanwhile McMath campaigned unsuccessfully against Sen. John L. McClellan.

Faubus and McMath broke openly during the integration crisis. McMath criticized the governor for using the National Guard and closing schools in an effort to block integration in Little Rock. Faubus maintained that the break came earlier because he would not let McMath pull strings in the governor's office.

Both Faubus and Fulbright will have Republican opposition in November, but Arkansas has not elected a Republican to a major office since Reconstruction.



DRIVER SEEKS LAND SPEED RECORD

Los Angeles speed driver Craig Breedlove, 25, hopes to break the world land speed mark of John Cobb with this three-wheel jet car, unveiled Monday at Los Angeles. The car, "Spirit of America," is designed to travel 500 miles per hour and will begin test runs Aug. 11 at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah. Cobb's record is 394.196 miles per hour, set in 1947. Friends Breathe Life Into Trapped Lifeguard

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI)— Garrett Giberson, 19, has the "sorest chest imaginable" but is not complaining.

Giberson owes his life to fellow lifeguards William Knight, 21, and Ray Scharf, 24.

Scharf and Knight took turns diving below the surface of the municipal swimming pool and breathing life into Giberson, who was trapped in the pool drain like a cork in a bottle.

The lifeguards had opened a drain valve and removed a grate in the pool to clean it Monday night. Knight, a student at Olivet (Mich.) College, said he was on one side of the drain opening with Giberson on the other side.

"I went to say something to Gary and he wasn't there," Knight said. "I then dove back under and saw him sitting in the drain, covering it like a cork. Apparently he swam in front of it to get to the steps."

Knight surfaced, shouted to Scharf and both dived to the spot nine feet below the pool's surface where Giberson was trapped.

For almost eight minutes the lifeguards took turns surfacing, gulping air, returning to Giberson and forcing their breath into Giberson's lungs.

Knight finally managed to shut off the drain valve. It was several minutes before they could free Giberson.

They brought him to the surface and massaged his heart while applying mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Knight was in good condition today.

Budget Adoption Due By Ross School Board

Final hearing and adoption of the fiscal 1963 budget for the Ross School District is scheduled at the regular meeting of trustees tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Trustees will also discuss the summer program and open bids on a school re-roofing job.

Judge Fines Drivers, Orders Probation

Two drunken drivers were sentenced to $166 fine and six months probation each in Marin Municipal Court yesterday by Judge Leonard A. Thomas.

Edward Leverett Goodrich, 50, of Pacifica was arrested on Highway 101 near Nicasio last Saturday. Richard Francis Wilson ,38, of Palm Beach, Fla., was stopped on Highway 101 in Sausalito on Monday.

Girl Wakes From 13-Month Sleep

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—"Hi daddy."

Those were the first words of a 16-year-old sleeping beauty, Linda Sue Calvert, when she woke up from a 13-month sleep.

Linda, of Houston, Tex., was critically injured in an automobile accident last year on Father's Day. She had been in a coma since June 18, 1961.

She and her mother, Mrs. Harvey Calvert, were visiting Mrs. Calvert's parents in Pine Bluff and decided to return home a day earlier than planned, to surprise Linda's father.

On a curve about 17 miles south of Shreveport, La., their car and a large oil transport truck collided during a rainstorm.

Linda's mother and an aunt were killed.

Linda was taken to a Shreveport hospital. Twenty-four days later she was moved to the Texas Medical Center at the Methodist Hospital in Houston. A blood clot was removed from her brain, but she remained unconscious.

About a month ago, Linda was brought to a Pine Bluff hospital, where friends and relatives visited her regularly.

Finally, after 13 months of giving no sign she recognized anyone, she awoke a week ago and said, "Hi Daddy."

Larkspur Zone Law Clears Hurdle

By FRED WYATT

After several months of long meetings, the Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved a new zoning ordinance to replace the interim ordinance of April, 1960.

"I think the ordinance now is in as good a shape as it's been in the five years I've been on the commission," said Chairman Vaughn Marker.

Niels Schultz Jr. of the Greenbrae Co., principal developer in Larkspur, also complimented the new ordinance.

"I think it is generally fine and will be workable," Schultz said. He pointed out that the interim ordinance will cease effect Sept. 1. So "the commission had to work fast."

As approved 4-0 last night (Commissioner Andrew Gilardi absent), the new ordinance would make these major changes:

1. Standard front setback for residences would be 20 feet instead of the present 25. Builders had urged smaller setbacks.

2. Starting five years of the time the new ordinance takes effect, non-conforming buildings would have to be removed or made to conform—class 1 and 2 buildings 40 years after erection, class 3 and 4 buildings after they are 30 years old, class 5 buildings when they become 20 years old.

3. If a variance is canceled for non-compliance or other cause, no new application may be made before one year. The commission dropped a tentative proposal to cancel variances if a permit was not obtained within three months.

The commission also dropped a proposal to cancel use permits within three months if applicants did not put them into effect.

Action changing front setbacks was the only thing not previously agreed on by Gilardi, said Marker.

The commission met until midnight Monday night and until 10 o'clock last night.

Marker and City Clerk Isabelle More said the new ordinance probably will not be presented to the city council until September. The council will hold public hearings and then vote on it.

"Except for Mr. Schultz and Councilman Lesly A. Daveler, the public was conspicuous by its absence at our meetings on the ordinance, though we sent notices and a copy of the ordinance to all homeowners associations," Marker said. "Daveler attended as a citizen."

Pay Raises Given To Police, No Other Novato Employees

The Novato City Council last night raised the pay of policemen, but did not increase that of any other city employee, at a budget study session at the community building.

All police officers were raised one step, which gives them increases of approximately five per cent or from $22 to $25 per month.

After hearing a report on three plans for improving the community building, the council adopted the cheapest, costing $18,400 to bring the building up to minimum code standards.

The other two plans would have cost $80,000 to completely reconstruct the building or $50,000 to give maximum repairs and make it earthquake resistant.

The council agreed to rent the building directly east of the present city hall on Grant Avenue for $100 per month to house the public works department, drafting department, and the parks and recreation director offices. The public works department will move from its quarters in the telephone building at the corporation yard which costs $50 per month rental.

These increases were made in the fiscal 1963 budget: office squipment from $115 to $165; telephone from $1,240 to $1,500; hospitalization from $2,400 to $2,800; special supplies from $100 to $135; summer teen program from $3,930 to $4,630 and summer playground program from $1,470 to $2,225.

The council hired the firm of Lindquist, Von Husen and Joyce of San Francisco as city auditor for a fee not to exceed $1,000 per year.

It adjourned to 8 p.m. next Tuesday fori ts second public hearing on the budget.

Brothers Dead, Home In Flames, Mother Is Held

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two young brothers, severely beaten, were found dead in their blazing home Tuesday night and their mother was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police Inspector Edward Huegle said Mrs. Cleo Baisa, 37, had apparently struck the children, Alan, 8, and Paul, 5, with a blunt instrument, then set the house on fire and attempted suicide.

The dead boys were found in an upstairs bedroom. Their mother, a divorcee, was discovered lying unconscious in the kitchen below, both her wrists slashed superficially. She was in good condition today.

Dr. Elsa Caswell told coroner's deputies that the older brother's death "almost certainly" was caused by a skull fracture. Head injuries appeared less severe on his younger brother, he said.

Arson investigator Robert Healy said the fire was definitely set in two distinct places.

Five Persons Injured In Highway Collision

Five persons were hurt in a four-car melee on Highway 101 just north of San Rafael at 5 p.m. yesterday.

A one-hour southbound traffic jam developed as the California Highway Patrol sought to straighten things out, including unsuccessful efforts to find the car that caused it all but departed unscathed.

Victims were given emergency treatment at San Rafael General Hospital, none having suffered serious harm.

A black Volkswagen whose driver mistakenly thought he could turn off the highway into Merrydale Road on-ramp was blamed by several drivers for the pile-up. This car started to turn right but swung back into the freeway's slow lane and halted, apparently after the driver discovered his error and wanted to think matters over.

Then the Volkswagen started off just as a chain reaction began.

Lawrence J. Wistuba, San Francisco baker, stopped. His coupe was promptly hit from behind by a pickup truck driven by John A. Carlson, Oakland construction superintendent later cited by the patrol on a charge of exceeding safe speed.

Mary Waters Kennel of 85 Sycamore Drive, Mill Valley, said she saw the accident ahead and stopped but her car was hit by one driven by Gerald John Drew, 2 Eye Street, San Rafael, who said his vehicle also was hit by another.

Mrs. Drew and another passenger in the Drew car, Bernice Wehrli of 83 Marinita Avenue, San Rafael, were treated for injuries of nose and left forearm respectively. Wistuba suffered a wrenched back, Miss Kennell suffered minor cuts. Jack Clough of Oakland, passenger in the Carlson truck, was treated for a back injury and transferred to Kaiser Hospital in Oakland.

Two Prisoners Flee Mountain Prison Camp

Two prisoners, one formerly of San Rafael, walked away yesterday from San Quentin's Deadwood Conservation Camp, in the mountainous terrain of Siskiyou County near Fort Jones.

James Litteral, 35, serving time for burglary of a super market in Marin County in 1960, and James R. Marks, 26, convicted of forgery and second degree burglary in Tehema County, were discovered to be missing at a 10 p.m. check yesterday.

The men, dressed in blue jeans and shirts and heavy brown jackets, were believed to have escaped together, said Associate Warden Dale B. Frady.

They had arrived at the camp June 13.

Litteral, formerly of San Rafael, entered San Quentin in January of 1961 to serve a term of from six months to 15 years. Marks, serving a term of the same length, was sent to San Quentin in September of 1960. Both were recently denied parole.

Pt. Reyes Zoning Is Panel Topic

Future zoning of the Point Reyes Peninsula and adjacent areas will be the topic of discussion on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" from 9 to 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Speakers will be E. Warren McGuire, county counsel; George H. Ludy and Peter Behr, county supervisors, and Benjamin P. Bonelli, president of Drake's Beach Estates, announced moderator Kitty Oppenheimer.

Listeners' telephone questions will be directed to the speakers. A recorded re-broadcast is scheduled at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Postal Authorities Study Expansion In Mill Valley

A study is under way by the Post Office Department to determine whether it is feasible to add onto the present Mill Valley Post Office or whether a new building should be erected.

The announcement was made today by Raymond Germain, assistant to the regional director in San Francisco.

Germain said there has been a steady increase in postoffice receipts and, with more population expansion expected, it is believed larger facilities are needed.

If a new site is chosen, the postoffice would be built by private enterprise and leased back to the government to keep the property on the tax rolls.

The present postoffice, at East Blithedale and Sunnyside Avenues also leases a parking area on Laurelwood Avenue where 11 cars are parked, according to Postmaster John T. Little. Twelve of the city's 18 routes involve the use of vehicles, he said.

Candidate Calls Foe 'Twist Artist'

VENTURA (AP) — Don Rose, Democratic nominee for secretary of state, says his opponent is a "political twist artist."

Rose claimed Tuesday that Republican incumbent Frank M. Jordan is trying to embrace Gov. Brown with one arm "while wrapping the other around Dick Nixon."

Jordan is trying to persuade Democrats that he is nonpartisan, Rose said, when "he is actually an ultra conservative Republican."

"I have the governor's complete support," Rose said.

KANSAS HAS NOTHING ON US

La Vonne Silver of Terra Linda shows what Marin sunshine has done for sunflowers growing in her yard at 589 Wisteria Way. The flowers have grown 12 feet high, with huge heads. It's not unusual for Marin, though, where sunflowers flourish to equal anything in Kansas, the "Sunflower State." (Independent-Journal photo)

Carrots Are Found Unattractive

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nutrition scientists will never understand the worship of the carrot by food faddists. To them it is not a very attractive vegetable aesthetically, what with its elongated shape and its color, nor is it in any way magical nutritionally.

And it has a very definite drawback. Eat enough carrots—or drink enough carrot juice—as a regular thing, and your skin will turn a carrot-like yellow. The word for it is, hypercarotenemia. And it is getting so that when practicing physicians see yellow skin, they say, carrots!

Dr. Ira A. Abrahamson and his son, Dr. Ira A. Jr., of Cincinnati, Ohio, are the newest to express amazement at the carrot craze, in a medical science organ of the American Medical Assn. They are eye doctors and they were examining a child with crossed eyes.

The mother watched, holding a nine-months-old baby. They couldn't help noticing the babe's yellowish skin, and one of them asked, how much carrot juice are you giving that infant?

A pint a day, the mother replied, and she's been getting it since she was a month old! Naturally the next medical question was, what's the idea? To prevent her second child from having crossed eyes like her first, the mother said.

In one day the Abrahamsons had two animated yellow skins walk into their office. One was a 74-year-old woman, and to the opening question, how much carrot juice have you been drinking? she replied, one and a half pints a day for two years.

The other was a 50-year-old man. He was proud of his devoted wife. Every day for a year and a half she had ground up enough carrots to make two quarts of juice for him to drink.

In both cases the idea was to improve vision. But in both cases vision had been impaired by cataracts and it improved when the cataracts were removed. Needless to say, carrots do nothing for cataracts.

"Although not the most expensive form of therapy, drinking carrot juice is probably the most useless, and it should be condemned," the Abrahamsons remarked. But they granted it was harmless.

When people with carrot-yellowed skin abstain from carrots their skin slowly returns to its normal color. The Abrahamsons wanted carrot-addiction "condemned" because it delays the application of workable corrective measures to visual defects.

The factual basis for the superstition that carrots are "eye food" is that the carrot is rich in carotene, which is a pigment manufactured by a number of plants. The plants use it to color their fruits. The tomato is another vegetable which owes its color to carotene.

Chemically carotene is several steps along the path toward vitamin A. In human body chemistry carotene is pushed the rest of the way into that vitamin which among other tasks, maintains the sharpness of vision. But happily for the carrot worshipers, the conversion rate is a very slow one and this prevents vitamin A intoxication and consequent sickness.

Everyone needs vitamin A in his diet, of course, but the needed amount is quite small and it is abundantly present in most vegetables (not only in the carrot and tomato).

Just one mushroom is grown commercially in the United States, the meadow mushroom (agaricus campestris).

Juvenile Treatment Center Put Off At Least To March

A proposal for establishment of a juvenile "residential treatment center" utilizing existing county hospital facilities in Lucas Valley was put before Marin County supervisors yesterday by the Juvenile Justice Commission.

But the supervisors said nothing can be projected before about next March — or whenever the majority of present patients move out of the county hospital into private nursing facilities.

"There will be some people left," said Chairman Walter R. Castro. "We must give them a first priority. There'll be a lot of roads to cross before we get through with this thing."

John Cahill, assistant chairman of the commission, spoke in support of a letter with five specific requests. He said juvenile hall is operating near capacity but the commission has "changed its thinking" on a possible forestry camp as a solution.

Cahill said the commission advocates a "Loma Alta Residential Treatment Center" taking some land to the north of present buildings and employing such vacant space resulting from the hospital changeover.

"We would not only hold the youngsters but give psychiatric care," Cahill said. "We wouldn't lock up the children and thus we don't need expensive buildings. The intention is to start with 10 children though average juvenile hall occupancy now is 38.6."

Under such a program the county would receive $95 per month per child from the state "so cost to the county would be less than juvenile hall, for higher treatment," Cahill reported.

The letter asked for a "decision concerning the extent to which the board will commit existing facilities and land at Lucas Valley for Juvenile Court use."

The board sidestepped that one and moved even faster on a second request, for commissioning an architect to study and update the existing master plan and study exisiting building construction and remodeling costs, with land requirements.

Vagueness greeted other requests, including consideration of ways of financing new and remodeling construction, direction that the county administrator work with the probation officer and the commission in finding operational costs of the new program, and that the board consider support of new legislative proposals increasing the amount of state participation in such county facilities.

Georgia City Battles To Halt Negro Marches

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Racial tension—how much or how little—was the key issue today in a federal court fight over Negro mass demonstrations against segregation.

Police Chief Laurie Pritchett faced more cross-examination on his assertion that mass marches and picketing by Negroes created a tense, explosive atmosphere.

Pritchett is a principal witness in the city's attempt to enjoin permanently several Negro leaders and groups from staging or promoting marches, picketing, boycotting and similar protest activity in this racial test spot.

The case is being heard by U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliott.

Even as the legal battle went on, 39 more Negroes were jailed for prayer-singing demonstrations at the library and city hall Tuesday and Tuesday night.

The demonstrators, mostly teenagers, pushed to more than 300 the number of arrests in the current series of protests. Since December, more than 1,100 arrests have been made as a result of demonstrations.

In yesterday's proceedings, Judge Elliott was kept busy refereeing between lawyer Donald L. Hollowell, representing Negro leaders, and Asst. State Atty. Gen. E. Freeman Leveritt, counsel for city officials.

Pritchett, on the stand for about six hours, testified he firmly believed an injunction was necessary to prevent serious disorder and possible bloodshed.

Book On Memory Does Little Good

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—A chagrined housewife appeared at Oak Ridge Public Library—book in one hand and an overdue notice from the library in the other.

"This is truly embarrassing," she explained. "My husband has been trying to remember to return this book for weeks. I'm afraid the book really didn't do much good!"

The title of the book: "Techniques for Efficient Remembering."

Discoun t Store Now Open To All

The MAC Discount Store, 555 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, has discontinued its special membership requirements.

Charles M. Watt, store president, said the discount house has opened its doors to the public on a permanent, free basis. Anyone can simply walk into the store and buy in any department or in the service station.

He said MAC is offering a membership card refund in the form of merchandise certificates to all members who apply for it by Aug. 15.

As a result of the open-door policy, many brands and new lines of merchandise not available to closed-door operations will be offered, Watt said.

Supervisors Delay Action On 'Open Area' Zoning Law

Instead of acting on a long-debated new "open area" zone ordinance for Marin County as was promised last week, county supervisors continued the matter yesterday until Aug. 14. At that time, they will have two draft ordinances to complicate things further.

The choice, it appeared, narrowed down to voting forthwith on an admittedly imperfect version or delaying to let an improved version come from the planning commission.

Supervisor Peter Behr argued for action. He admitted the draft before the board might be "something less than perfect" but said it would meet the primary purpose of protecting lands of both major water districts.

Chief trouble with the document, it appeared, was that it had been pretty well chewed up in efforts to comply with legal limitations.

"This may not be the best ordinance in the world but it is strictly limited to lands of a 'local agency,'" said Behr. "This would give a classification that could be applied to water district lands. Marin Municipal Water District is thinking of timbering part of its land, also there was a statement that it was considering—with no decision—taking two large parcels and selling to the highest bidder for private and residential use."

Supervisor William Gnoss felt that an entirely new ordinance should be drawn. He said he especially wanted to be sure that agriculture was protected. Behr's motion to approve the ordinance was without a second, and Supervisor William D. Fusselman then put through a two-week continuance.

Planning Commissioner Felix M. Warburg said the commission did not object to the draft, but will send through a "clarified form" by Aug. 14.

The supervisors also:

1. Appointed Dr. Richard V. Wolton psychologist in the Medical Department at $871 monthly, and May Otis intermediate typist clerk in the Welfare Department at $345.

2. Endorsed architect Aaron G. Green's view that the civic center lacks the "intimate and verdant surrounding" necessary for proper display of a fountain at the Marin Art and Garden Center which was offered for sale to the county.

3. Decided to invite Fred F. Enemark to appear Aug. 10 and explain proposals of the Health Facility Planning Council of which he is chairman.

4. Reversed the planning commission refusal to allow allow two four-by-eight signs to Tomahawk Lodge, new restaurant-motel north of Novato.

5. Accepted a proposal for aerial mapping of North San Pedro Road from Highway 101 to near China Camp, at cost of $2,395.

6. Continued to Aug. 28 hearing on abandonment of portions of Beaver Drive, Grove Road and Fern Road at Bolinas Beach.

7. Received from asst. state Public Works Director T. Fred Bagshaw a letter declaring the long-argued question of a Highway 101 off-ramp to the Silveira property north of San Rafael is "an engineering and not an administrative matter," hence must be left with the State Division of Highways.

HIGHWAY CRASH CLAIMS 2 LIVES

Bodega Bay Rescue Station To Be Built

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Coast Guard has ordered full speed ahead with plans to build a search and rescue station at Bodega Bay, Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera) reported today.

He said the Coast Guard's construction schedule calls for advertising for bids within the next three weeks. The contract is expected to be awarded by Oct. 1 and the station should be in operation by next spring.

"Adm. A. C. Richmond, the Coast Guard commandant, has assured me that this urgently needed life-saving facility will be in full operation as soon as possible," Miller said.

The Coast Guard appropriations bill for the current fiscal year includes $279,000 to build and equip the station. Congress completed action on the bill this week.

The permanent, full-time facility will include a permanently stationed 95-foot cutter as well as lifeboats, helicopter pad and a radio station-adding up to a capability for coordinated sea and air search and rescue work.

The Bodega Bay station will serve a 135-mile stretch of coastal waters between the Golden Gate and Noyo Harbor at Fort Bragg, where a Coast Guard cutter is now stationed.

Only existing rescue service in this 135-mile reach is a small Coast Guard lifeboat station at Point Reyes Cove.

BIG STEEL WOULD LIKE TAX SLASH

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger M. Blough says a cut in federal income taxes would help sagging steel industry profits by freeing more money to put into plant modernization.

Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, also favors a cut in federal spending. He praises Defense Department efforts in this direction.

Ever since major steel companies were balked in an attempt to make a price rise stick in April, Blough has argued strongly for increased investment in steelmaking equipment as an answer to stiffening competition from abroad and new materials at home.

Newsmen drew out his views Tuesday after U.S. Steel reported that April-June earnings of 40.2 million dollars or 63 cents a share, failed to cover the regular quarterly common stock dividend of 75 cents.

Nevertheless, directors voted to continue the customary payout.

Like other steelmakers, U.S. Steel was hit hard by slumping production after a new industry-wide wage settlement at the end of March wiped out a strike threat, and ended heavy stockpiling by major users.

In recent weeks, output has risen but remains at about one-half of industry capacity.

Blough said July-September operations probably would fall behind the second quarter but he foresaw significant improvement in the last three months of the year if the nation's economy held on an even keel.

U.S. Steel's second-quarter profits compared with 55.8 million dollars or 91 cents a share, cleared in the first quarter this year and with 59 million dollars, or 98 cents a share, earned in the second quarter of 1961.

For the first six months, earnings amounted to 96 million dollars as against 91 million dollars in the first half of 1961.

Automation Prompts Big Aluminum Strike

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A dispute over automaton led to a strike by about 16,000 workers today against the nation's two largest producers of aluminum.

The AFL-CIO Aluminum Workers International Union began picketing 10 Aluminum Co. of America plants and 12 Reynolds Aluminum plants at about 12:30 a.m.

Negatiators for the two firms and the union were still in session here when their contracts expired at midnight. As the strike began Robert W. Donnohoo of Philadelphia, regional director of the Federal Mediation Service, said "the Aluminum Workers International Union rejected the companies' proposal."

No further contract talks were scheduled.

The dispute involved union demands for job security. Wages were not at issue.

Reynolds began shutting down its plants a few hours before the strike began. Alcoa began tapping smeltering furnaces Sunday night in anticipation of the strike.

The Alcoa plants are at Chillicothe, Ohio, Lancaster, Pa., Cresona, Pa., Warrick, Ind., Lafayette, Ind., Davenport, Iowa, Massema, N.Y., Wenatchee, Wash., Vancouver, Wash., and East St. Louis, Ill.

The Reynolds plants are at St. Louis, Bellwood, Va., Louisville, Ky., Richmond, Va., Massena, N.Y., and Sheffield, Ala. Five of the Reynolds plants are at Louisville, two at Richmond and two at Sheffield.

Eddie R. Stahl, president of the Aluminum Workers Union, said the main issues in dispute were job security and protection against displacement by automation. The union has lost 5,000 members in the last three years because of plant automation, he said.

Tiburon Harbor Petition Signing Is Postponed

Circulation of petitions for a proposed small craft harbor in Tiburon has been temporarily postponed pending clarification of the Tiburon waterfront master plan.

The circulation had been scheduled to begin this week.

Action was taken, according to Robert A. Sterling, following a meeting of a committee of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and property owners Robert Moor, David Allen and Fred G. Zelinsky. Sterling is chairman of the chamber committee made up of Allen, Ernest Chamberlain and himself.

Moor showed the committee sketches of the master plan now being developed by his corporation, Tiburon Tidelands Co., for the Tiburon waterfront.

Hub Man Named Cranston Helper

Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo has been appointed chairman of the Republicans for Cranston committee, State Controller Alan Cranston announced today.

Kettenhofen, who was graduated from the California Maritime Academy in Vallejo and is now a member of the school's board of governors, operates ranching, resort and investor businesses. He maintains offices in San Rafael, Sausalito and Lake Tahoe.

Cranston, a Democrat, is running for re-election in November's election.

We of Ames Ford Sales would be less than truthful if we failed to admit we have not always fulfilled our service obligations to our customers in a manner calculated to insure complete and unqualified satisfaction.

Our failure, however, was not born of intent, but, rather, from inability to cope with the mushrooming expansion of our volume sales and the broadened demands for service generated by these sales, while saddled with physical facilities and traffic approaches designed for a dealership one-tenth our size.

We intend, now, with our new Service and Parts Department at 619 Francisco Blvd. to earn the loyalty and confidence of our Marin neighbors. We value the patronage of our thousands of customers and want them to come to our new facilities for the kind of service they expect from a Franchised Ford Dealer awarded a Distinguished Achievement Award, the only Marin County Ford dealer so honored.

We pledge our personal reputations backed by 403 years of experience to gain the respect and confidence of our Marin neighbors.

ATOP SMOKESTACK—Two girl inmates perch atop the federal correctional institution at Terminal Island in Los Angeles perch on a narrow ledge atop a 55-foot smokestack. (AP Wirephoto)

Girl Inmates Perch Atop Smokestack

TERMINAL ISLAND (UPI)— Two young women inmates today were well into their second day perched atop a 40-foot-high smokestack at this federal prison which once housed Al Capone.

The female Shipwreck Kellys, both under 21 and unidentified because of their age, climbed defiantly to the top of the smokestack about 9 p.m. Monday and have defied all efforts to get them down.

WHEN HUNGRY

"We figure they'll come down when they get hungry," a prison official said last night after the pair had spent more than 24 hours atop their perch without food, water or sleep.

The women, one aged 20 and the other 19, climbed a metal ladder up the side of the brick incinerator smokestack and began their "crow's nest" protest by sitting with their legs dangling over the side.

There they remained throughout the day as ships in Los Angeles Harbor passed beneath them. Crewmen and passengers hooted at them and their fellow inmates cheered them on from the yard of the federal correctional institute.

'BEAUTIFUL VIEW'

"It's a beautiful view up here," one of the women shouted down, "but don't build a fire in the incinerator or we'll jump."

Warden Raymond W. May and the prison's psychiatrist and chaplain tried vainly to reason with the women, one of whom had her hair shaved.

But the pair stubbornly refused their demands.

May said one was serving a sentence for interstate car theft and the other for kidnaping.

The federal facility houses 900 prisoners, of which 180 are women.

U.S. Seeks To End Testing Cycle

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials are reported considering a new bid to Russia designed to break the cycle of American and Soviet nuclear weapons testing.

One proposal reported under serious study would call for a ban on tests which cause radioactive fallout, meaning tests in the atmosphere and under water. These can be detected at great distances.

Such a ban could be policed with present detection arrangements without the necessity of setting up new, international inspection procedures inside the Soviet Union and the territory of other nuclear powers.

President Kennedy scheduled the latest in a series of nuclear test policy conferences for late this afternoon at the White House. He will go into that meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other top policy advisers immediately after his news conference.

The meeting was expected to produce decisions on U.S. moves in the nuclear test negotiations being carried on at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference.

The United States has substantially completed its series of atmospheric and high altitude tests over the central Pacific which began last spring. Underground tests begun earlier have been continued in Nevada.

The Soviet government, which resumed testing last September after a worldwide moratorium of almost three years, has announced its intention to hold a new round of nuclear experiments.

The United States, meanwhile, indicated Tuesday that it might conduct a few more high altitude tests over the Pacific.

It announced that the launching pad for rockets at Johnston Island, heavily damaged by the failure of a rocket launching July 25, will be repaired for "the remaining high altitude tests."

However, officials said the President will make the final decision as to whether more tests will be conducted.

Policy problems before the President and his advisers were authoritatively reported to fall into two groups.

First there are the problems growing out of new scientific advances in the detection and identification of underground nuclear explosions such as would be prohibited by a treaty ban on all nuclear weapons tests.

The United States is expected to present the new scientific data at the disarmament conference and find out whether Russia will agree to negotiate on an inspection on Soviet territory. The Soviet Union has opposed such inspection.

The other problems grow out of this Soviet rejection of inspection proposals. A general review of U.S. policy has led some officials to ask whether it would not be advisable to try for a partial test ban if a total treaty prohibition continues to prove unobtainable.

Van Johnson, Wife To Split

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An attorney for Mrs. Van Johnson says he has an all-star cast ready to testify at her trial for separate maintenance from the actor.

A Superior Court judge granted attorney Ronald Swearingen's request Tuesday to transfer the case to its Santa Monica branch court. Swearingen said it would be nearer the homes of his witnesses who will include actresses Rosalind Russell, Ann Sothern and June Allyson.

Johnson, 45, has filed a cross complaint against his wife, Eve, 41, requesting joint custody of their daughter, Schuyler, 14. The child is now in Mrs. Johnson's sole custody.

Peace Corps Week Decreed By Governor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Californians were urged by Gov. Brown today to observe Peace Corps Week Aug. 6-12 as a tribute to "A fine cause and a gallant group of young Americans."

"We in California have a special connection with the Peace Corps," the governor said in a statement, "because more of its volunteers are from California than any other state."

Mill Valley Map In Color Offered

A four-color lithographed map of Mill Valley and Southern Marin is now available for visitors at the office of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce at 85 Throckmorton Avenue.

The map gives a street index of Mill Valley, Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Marin City and the vicinity. It also lists points of interest about Mill Valley plus Marin County.

According to Granville L. Beedle, secretary-manager, it is the first time the chamber has given out such a map, reproduction of which was authorized by the California State Automobile Assn. No charge is being made, he said.

Fourth Refugee Group Arrives At Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A fourth group of 114 refugees from Communist China arrived today by ship from Hong Kong for resettlement in Formosa.

They brought the total number of refugees from Hong Kong to 383 since the Chinese Nationalist government announced in May it would accept all who chose to come.

CAB Rules Dynamite Caused Jet Crash Claiming 45 Lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board ruled officially today that the May 22 crash of a Continental Airlines jet which took 45 lives near Unionville, Mo., was the result of a dynamite plot.

Summarizing weeks of investigation, the CAB said "evaluation of all the evidence leads logically to the conclusion that a dynamite device was placed in the used towel bin of the right rear lavatory with the express intent to destroy the aircraft."

Making no direct reference to the culprit, the CAB merely said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was still investigating.

It was reported some weeks ago that the FBI had learned that Thomas G. Doty, 34, of Kansas City, Mo., one of the crash victims, bought some dynamite and about $300,000 of life insurance payable to his wife. He also faced prosecution on charges of armed robbery and concealment of a dangerous weapon. Friends said Doty talked of killing himself rather than face the criminal charges.

Geneva Greenwood Fraley, 34, described as one of Doty's business associates, also was among the victims.

The Continental flight, a Boeing 707 jet, left Chicago for Kansas City and, en route, detoured slightly from its planned route to skirt a belt of severe thunderstorms.

However, the CAB report said that at the time of the explosion, at 9:17 p.m., the plane was flying through clear skies. It concluded the weather was not a factor.

Among the evidence of an explosion were deposits of a gray-black material in the lavatory, the fact that the skin of the aircraft was pushed straight out over rivet heads in the area, and there were jagged perforations of metal fragments. The board clinched the question by reporting that these results were caused by dynamite.

Dealing In Junk Is Big Business

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— The number of junk yards dotting the nation's countryside is on the decline, a University of Michigan business expert suggests.

The reason? Junk dealing is becoming big business, requiring large capital investment and greater technical skill.

PLAYERS PASS POLIO PILLS

It was polio vaccination time at Moraga for the San Francisco 49ers this week as Leo Nomellini (left) and Carl Kammerer (right) fed J. D. Smith sugar cubes with Sabin oral vaccine. The 49ers will be playing in Detroit when the local polio inoculation drive gets under way Sept. 23, so they made sure that each man got his Sabin vaccine now. (UPI Photo)

Pierce May Be Key Pitcher In Giants' Comeback Hopes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Like a fighter returning to action after a knockout, the San Francisco Giants launched a comeback starting today which they hope will put them back in title contention.

For their return to action after that three-game bombing at the hands of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the Giants couldn't have asked a better trial horse foe than the Chicago Cubs.

Going into this two-game series, the Giants have downed the Chicagoans seven times in ten outings. Left-handers Billy O'Dell and Billy Pierce, the hurlers today and tomorrow, have beaten the Cubs five times—O'Dell with a 3-0 mark and Pierce at 2-1.

By losing the weekend threesome to Los Angeles, a gap of four games opened between the Dodgers and second-place San Francisco with 56 games left on the schedule.

Pierce could prove a big boost to the Giants pitching corps. He had won eight games by June 14 when he was spiked in the first inning by Don Blasingame of the Cincinnati Reds. It took 12 stitches to close the wound and Pierce hasn't won since.

But he looked strong in relief against the Dodgers and appears ready again for spot starts.

O'Dell was blasted for six runs in the first inning on Sunday and departed hurriedly. Manager Alvin Dark figured he could come back today, a move that could psychologically help the little southpaw.

Third baseman Jimmy Davenport may miss the Chicago series due to an ankle sprain suffered while warming up for the All-Star game. X-rays showed no fracture, but swelling remained.

49er Pass Offense Is Sharp

MORAGA (UPI)—Quarterback John Brodie looked sharp yesterday in passing drills in the San Francisco 49er camp.

Coach Red Hickey planned a one hour scrimmage today.

Halfback Jim Johnson, who lost his contact lenses during practice Monday, sat out yesterday's drills. A new set was being ground for the speedster.

RAIDER LINEUP

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Head Coach Marty Feldman planned to announce the starting Oakland Raider lineup today for the first exhibition tussle against rough Dallas.

The Raiders face the Texans Saturday night at Atlanta, Ga. Yesterday Oakland held a 30-minute dummy scrimmage and Feldman said the blocking and pass protection was better."

End Al Hoisington was sidelined with a groin injury.

Cautious Hurlers Pass Slumping Gus

BALTIMORE (AP)—How's this for being cautious?

Gus Triandos, held hitless in his last 30 times at bat and 1-for-34 since recovering from a fractured thumb, was in the Baltimore Orioles lineup last night.

But Minnesota pitchers apparently were unwilling to take any chances with the big catcher. They walked him in his first three appearances at the plate.

MARINITE GETS ACE AFTER 16 YEARS OF GOLF

Thomas Washington of 201 Orange Blossom Lane, Terra Linda, experienced the thrill of a golfer's lifetime last weekend by scoring a hole-in-one at Indian Valley course in Novato.

Washington aced the par 3, 153-yard 17th hole with a 6 iron. Witnesses in his foursome were his wife, Mary, and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Hamby.

The ace helped Washington, a 13 handicap player, to a card of 78 on the par 72 course. He's been a golfer for approximately 16 years and this was his first hole-in-one.

Washington is a nurse for the Department of the Army at Letterman Hospital in San Francisco.

Hamilton, Novato Clash Tonight In Baseball Tourney

Hamilton-Loma Verde League plays Novato at 6 o'clock tonight in the second annual Invitational All-Star Little League Baseball Tournament at Hamilton Air Force Base.

In earlier games this week the Marinwood All-Stars slammed three home runs to down San Rafael American League 6-3 in major league play Monday night and Hamilton downed San Rafael 9-6 last night in minor league competition.

Marinwood's Monday night victory was powered by home runs by James Steele, Vincent Marcovich and Tim Brennan, the latter two each with a man on. Dave Edson, in relief of starter Marcovich, was winning pitcher.

PALLAVICINI, GEMINIANI

Marin's Tigers Improve Their Pro League Marks

Marin County's two contributions to the Detroit Tigers farm system improved their records in last week's action with the Thomasville, Ga. Tigers of the Class D Georgia-Florida League, reports showed today.

Outfielder Vince Pallavicini of San Anselmo boosted his season batting average six points to .269 while pitcher Nino Geminiani, also of San Anselmo, was credited with his fifth victory of the season.

Marin's other professional rookie, outfielder Doug Wilson of Larkspur, retained his .286 season batting mark with the Fresno Giants of the Class C California League.

For the week Pallavicini batted .368 with four hits in 11 at-bats and two runs batted in. His season average is now .269.

Geminiani saw action in one game, hurled five innings yielding seven hits, and was credited with the win. He walked five, struck out four and lowered his season's earned run average to 4.45. Geminiani, after a slow start as a pro, now has five wins against six losses on the season.

Wilson collected 7 hits, including 3 doubles, in 24 at-bats, scored 3 runs and drove in 4.

Reports on the Marinites are provided by Player Periscope of Novato, a service for sports editors.

Amputees Gathering For Event

DALLAS (AP)—Men with legs and arms missing but still capable of shooting golf in the 70s come here this week for the National Amputee Tournament.

There have been 81 entries and Dee Downs of Dallas, the tournament director, anticipates 10 more before the first round of the 54-hole tournament tomorrow.

Lou Monge of Las Cruces, N.M., who won the championship in a playoff with Burgess Windsor of Stockton, Calif., last year, will be here to defend his title. Windsor also is entered.

Bert Sheppard of Westminster, Calif., the fourth-place finisher and former champions George Campbell of Marshfield, Mass.; Robert Sandler of Des Moines; John Sipriani of West Senesa, N.Y., and Harold A. Carlson of Buffalo also will compete.

There are divisions for leg amputees and arm amputees and also an over-all that is won by the golfer with the lowest score regardless of division. Some amputees are able to dip below 70. The winning score for 54 holes last year was 230.

Cocky Cassius Is Honored As Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Louisville's confident young heavyweight contender, Cassius Clay, was named fighter of the month for July by Ring Magazine today and moved up in the publication's rankings.

The unbeaten 20-year-old, who has been insisting he is the coming heavyweight champion virtually from the start of his career, was picked for his fifth-round knockout of Argentina's Alejandro Lavorante July 20 at Los Angeles. Clay won his 15th straight and scored his 12th kayo after brashly — and correctly — predicting the knockout round.

The victory advanced Clay from ninth to seventh among Ring's heavyweight contenders. In the same division, Mike DeJohn of Syracuse, N.Y., regained the listings, taking over No. 10, after his upset decision over Robert Cleroux of Canada last Saturday night. Cleroux fell from sixth to ninth.

Remember Roger Maris' timetable?

Well, the Yankees have a new one today and if they stick to it, they're a cinch to win the American League pennant by their biggest margin in 15 years.

Here's how it works:

The Yankees already have ballooned their lead to six games. That means they still have two full months in which to better their famous finish of 1947, when they killed off all the contenders early and won by 12 games.

Actually, the Yanks are far ahead of schedule. A year ago this time they were only 1½ games ahead and came home eight lengths in front. So you can draw your own conclusions about their chances of topping that 15-year-old 12-game spread.

Even with Mickey Mantle on the sidelines last night, they still increased their lead by a full game with a 9-5 victory over the Washington Senators.

The Cleveland Indians knocked off the second-place Los Angeles Angels, 5-3, and the Baltimore Orioles beat the Minnesota Twins, 8-7, in the only other major league games scheduled.

Mantle's left knee was still sore from a Sunday injury so he sat in the dugout and watched Moose Skowron and Elston Howard do most of the slugging. Skowron teed off on newly-wed Claude Osteen for a grand-slam homer in the first inning and Howard belted a two-run homer in the third off the Senator southpaw, who married a beauty queen last Sunday.

Bill Stafford scored his ninth victory in 15 decisions although Jim Coates had to be called upon to halt af our-run Washington rally in the eighth. While he was still around, Stafford collected a pair of doubles and drove in two runs.

Prior to the game, Mantle took batting practice and drove three balls over the fence in District of Columbia Stadium. One of his practice shots traveled 450 feet and he indicated to Manager Ralph Houk he'll be ready to return to the lineup Friday.

And if the nine other clubs in the circuit consider that bad news, it would be well for them to bear in mind that Tony Kubek is scheduled to rejoin the Yankees the same day.

That timetable looks better and better all the time.

Gary Bell's effective relief pitching along with homers by Willie Kirkland and John Romano paced the Indians to their victory over the falling Angels.

Kirkland and Romano each connected in the sixth inning to give Cleveland a 3-1 lead and the tribe pushed across what proved to be the winning run in thes eventh with the aid of an error by losing pitcher Dan Osinski.

Bell took over for starter Jim Perry in the top of the seventh and was nicked for a two-run double by Bob Rodgers that tied the score at 3-all. Bell, however, didn't give up another hit the rest of the way to earn his eighth victory, seven of which have come in relief.

North Picked In Prep Grid

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A crowd of 45,000 is anticipated for tonight's 11th annual Shrine interscholastic all-star football game between squads representing Northern and Southern California.

The kickoff is scheduled for 9 o'clock. The game will be preceded by a Shrine pageant.

The South outweighs the North in the line, 214 to 202 pounds, and in the backfield, 190 to 179. But the North seems to be a slight favorite.

Mike Garrett, Rod Sherman and Paul Horgan probably are the South's aces, with Nick Eddy, Jim Wisner and Haywood White the outstanding North players.

The North has won four of the last six games, but the South still holds the edge, 5-4-1.

Billy Maxwell was tenth in PGA money in 1961 with $28,335. He played in 26 sanctioned and approved tournaments.

Louis Concilio

PORTRAIT OF A BRUSQUE SOFTIE

My friends and associates know me as a non-conformist in an all-too conforming business. Sometimes my actions bring a smile of indulgence; sometimes, a disbelieving shake of the head. Conformity is too closely synonomous with anonymity for me, so I'll continue to avoid the beaten path for the more fascinating battle through jungle undergrowth aimed with a mental machete.

I am now kicking over the last stages of accepted behavior conducive to job security and the stodgy "average Joe" existence, by taking pen in hand to write about my boss, Douglas Cowan. The critical review of this effort may well equal the finality of third act curtain, but here goes.

Firstly, and as a pointed explanation of what makes the man, Doug Cowan is a perfectionist who is never satisfied with second best, and is intolerant of average effort in any of his associates. His mania for improvement has kept me on my toes so much, only my lack of figure and sense of balance prevents me from being a serious candidate for the ballot.

The challenge to strive for greater and greater attainments is constant, because he is no less a determined taskmaster on himself. He kept a sustained drive of several years duration upon acquiring control of Ames Ford from its sleepy predecessor, molding a compact organization, and creating an impressive impact upon the community. Competition rose from their comfortable bed of inertia, and knew this upstart would keep them awake from that time forward.

By introducing volume merchandising to Marin County, Doug Cowan provided a local dealership where Marin County residents could and did realize savings only an efficient volume dealer can provide. At the time, the other dealers were forced to deal more liberally or stagnate. This enormous increase in sales provided, and continues to provide, Marin County a considerable economic assist in the form of payroll, purchases, and taxes, resulting in increased purchasing power and municipal improvements.

Even in relaxation, well deserved for the warrior, Doug Cowan strives for perfection, as his unwary adversaries will ruefully attest at the 19th hole. Permitting him a handicap is like letting Joe Louis wear brass knuckles in his six-ounce gloves. When he took up hunting a few years ago, he was persuaded to cease and desist to prevent the total annihilation of the wild duck population.

But the men at Ames Ford have his number. A good part of my activity is diverted to preventing them from overriding my emphatic "no" with a well-rehearsed sob story to Doug, who will almost invariably succumb to the wails and the tears, and then apologetically attempt a plausible explanation for being so easily conned again.

O.K. Doug, breaking my pen won't stop me—it'll only slow me up for a couple of days. I'll be as brash as ever in the next column, and somewhere in between, I'll try to do the job you're paying me for.

Don't Miss Those Oldtimers— They Were, And Still Are, Great

CONNOLLY

"Why are you carrying the torch for the oldtimers?" writes a subscriber.

Madam, I'm glad you asked because this Saturday at Candlestick Park four generations of teams in San Francisco's great baseball background will parade before the eyes of 40,000 fans.

You'll seel six players whose names are in the Hall of Fame and more than 100 former San Francisco and New York Giant players who regard this gathering as "homecoming day." They all have been invited to come back to a glorious get-together and greet the old and new fans of baseball. It is a sentimental gesture on the part of Horace Stoneham, San Francisco Giant owner who wants these men to know that while they may be gone from the playing fields of yore they are not forgotten.

"It is the ex-ballplayers' devotion to baseball that has made the game the national pastime," the old Squire remarks. "Down through the ages the game has hurdled huge obstacles because it really had a solid sports foundation that elevated it to the heights it enjoys today as the cleanest form of entertainment in the world."

The group of oldtimers who will appear at Candlestick Park might marvel at the fancy twists and twirls of the "hotel" clubhouses; the costly lighting arrangements, the great Roman Empire Coliseum-size ballparks and the high-brow jet plane travel used for transportation today.

These oldtimers travelled in rickety buses and cow trains, and slept in boarding houses instead of high-rolling hotels.

In the early days the old-time players were given a charge account for their meals that today wouldn't be "tip money" for the local performers.

All the new setup doesn't mean a thing and it hasn't improved the breed of the players except to keep them in step with the great progress organized baseball enjoys.

The fans who fork out their dough to take a look at a ball game today are not necessarily getting any more for their money than the fans of yesteryear, maybe not as much, but it is served much fancier.

These oldtimers coming from all corners of the globe are here to testify that the faith they had in the game four generations ago hasn't been quenched. Some of these oldtimers really haunted the ballparks and the owners to break into baseball. And some of 'em, salary-wise, played just for fun.

These oldtimers have no axes to grind or noses to pinch about the modern-day ballplayer. They glorify in the feats of the modern players who carried on what they started and brought it to its present level.

If you like baseball tradition, you've got to go along with owners like Strub-Graham and Putnam of S.F. and Jack Dunn of Baltimore who made their towns the cradle of baseball luminaries. Those owners, in the minor leagues, were considered by the New York Giants as the real pioneers of the sport. So it just seems natural that in another generation Horace Stoneham should pick the home of the San Francisco Seals as his choice for a true, loyal and understanding baseball metropolis.

Modern-day baseball has legislated out a lot of the old-time color. You might call it streamlining the game. This is particularly true with reference to the umps. All a modern-day player has to do to get kicked out of the ball game is look mean at an umpire and he hits the clubhouse on the first bounce.

What a difference this is when I think of the time catcher Rowdy Elliott, after what he considered a bad call, wound up and cut loose with a peg for the ump's head, but the ump ducked. Rowdy was given a dressing down but stayed in the game.

Red Held, another old-time ump, gave a first base decision that Jack Fournier didn't like, so Fournier threw his mitt at Held, knocking off his cap and exposing the finest bald redhead ever. Held, more embarrassed than hurt, fired Fournier out of the game and for the balance of a six-game series there was standing room only.

Yep, there was color in the old days, all the colors of the rainbow except yellow.

Some of the characters that endeared baseball to the American people will be part and parcel of Oldtimers' Day Saturday.

Remember, after you meet the oldtimers, you'll see the Giants and Pittsburgh clash in the renewal of their recent feud at Forbes Field.

Blending the glorious background of Giant players with that of former San Francisco Seals players is unusual.

These oldtimer Seals players were colossal in the minors and greater when they went to the majors. Shortstops like Frankie Crosetti, Jimmy Caveney and Hal Rhyne were actually Seals performers but take such San Franciscans as Mark Koenig, Tony Lazzerri, Sammy Bohne and Oscar Vitt, Gil McDougall, Jerry Coleman and Eddie Joost, all San Franciscans, as were Willie Kamm, Lefty O'Doul, Bert Cole, Joe Cronin, Harry Heilmann, Curt Davis and Hollis Thurston. These were natives who, at one time or other, found themselves in the uniform of their own hometown.

San Francisco gave to baseball more topflight big leaguers than any other city in the United States.

New York is bringing a lot of outstanding ex-players whose names are indelible in the annals of baseball. Carl Hubbell, Rosy Ryan and Hal Schumacher are a few pitchers of memory. Chief Meyers, Gus Mancuso, Paul Richards and West Westrum are a few catchers to remember. Add to that the names of infielders like Dick Bartell, Hugie Critz, Leo Durocher, Frank Frisch, George Kelly, Billy Terry and Johnny Vergez and many others, and you get a small idea of the type of turnout billed.

When Joe DiMaggio and his two brothers, Vince and Dom, Paul Waner, Earl Averill, Roy Johnson, Jerry Donovan, Smead Jolley and Harry Wolter show up, you'll know the former Seals' crowd stacks right up against the big leaguers.

But be there and see why I tote the torch for the oldtimers. They're great. Just as great as the oldtimers from the payroll of the New York Giants who are now the San Francisco Giants.

Marin Ski Club Open To Members

The Marin Ski Club has voted to open its membership effective this month.

"This means," announced Dean Greenstreet, president, "that anyone interested in winter sports may apply now for membership in the organization. Since one of the requirements for membership is one or more weekends of work on the new ski lodge built by members during the past two summers, it is advisable to apply this summer in order to complete this requirement before the winter snows."

The club's ski lodge is on Highway 40 between Soda Springs and Sugar Bowl and comfortably accommodates 30 people. Although the organization is primarily a ski club, it does have planned activities during the summer months in addition to the work weekends at the lodge site. These include barbecues, beach parties, and hikes.

Scheduled work weekends are this Saturday, Sept. 11, and Nov. 13. Others will be announced at a later date.

The next regular meeting of the Marin Ski Club will be held on Aug. 8 at 8 p.m. at Pete's Pier in San Rafael. Visitors are invited to attend the meeting.

Marin Teen-Ager Wins Coast Title In Water Ski Racing

A 13-year-old San Rafael girl is the new Pacific Coast water ski racing champion in her division.

Competing on Clear Lake at Lakeport over the weekend, Cindy Sayles took first in the girls' division (ages 13 to 15 years) of the Pacific Coast Water Ski Racing Championships.

In winning the 12-mile grind Cindy thus successfully advanced from the 12 and under division which she had won last year. It was the first time the feat of two such successive championships had been accomplished.

Cindy won out over a field of 17 girl skiers from throughout the West Coast. The previous week she had won first place honors in the same division at the Stockton Regatta and is currently high point skier in her division on the West Coast.

A second Marin skier, Bob Maher of Maherajah Water Skis of Sausalito finished in a dead-heat tie for first place in the 18-mile event for senior men (22 to 32).

The meet was held over a two-day period, Saturday and Sunday, with both Marin winners racing on Sunday.

CHEF'S RAISIN FRUIT SALAD

Cinnamon Spiced Raisins Flavor Summertime Chef's Salad Bowl

This tempting fruit salad makes a lovely picture with its proud topping of cinnamon buttered raisins and strips of ham and cheese. Choose a variety of fruits from the luscious displays at your local market. Spoon on your choice of lemony dressing, then alternate the cheese and meat with the spicy raisins. It's a superb luncheon offering.

Sauteing the raisins in butter and a bit of cinnamon makes them plump, glossy and very flavorful. Use both dark and golden raisins for an extra dramatic effect.

CHEF'S FRUIT SALAD WITH SPICY RAISINS

- 4 cups crisp salad greens
- 6 cups mixed fruit*
- Lemon Celery Seed Dressing
- 1½ cups thin strips cooked ham or turkey
- 1½ cups thin strips Swiss cheese
- Cinnamon Buttered Raisins

Place shredded salad greens in bottom of chilled serving bowl. Arrange fruit on top. Spoon a little of desired dressing over all. Top with ham and cheese strips alternately with Cinnamon Buttered Raisins. Serve with remaining dressing. Make 6 generous servings.

*A selection of 3 or more of the following fruits makes a good combination: Sliced bananas; halved strawberries or whole raspberries; cantaloupe, watermelon (or other melon) balls or crescents; orange or grapefruit segments; diced apples; pineapple chunks; sliced peaches or pears.

CINNAMON BUTTERED RAISINS

- 1 cup dark or golden raisins
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon

Combine raisins, butter and cinnamon in skillet. Cook over low heat, stirring, about 5 minutes. Cool. Makes about one cup.

CREAMY LEMON CELERY SEED DRESSING

Blend together 1½ cups mayonnaise, ¼ cup pineapple juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, ½ teaspoon celery seed, dash liquid hot pepper seasoning. Cover and refrigerate an hour or longer to blend flavors. Makes about 1½ cups dressing.

CLEAR LEMON CELERY SEED DRESSING

Shake together well in a covered jar: ½ cup lemon juice, 1 cup salad oil, 1½ to 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon celery seed and ¼ teaspoon seasoned salt. Allow to stand an hour or longer to blend flavors. Makes about 1½ cups dressing.

PEACH APRICOT DESSERT

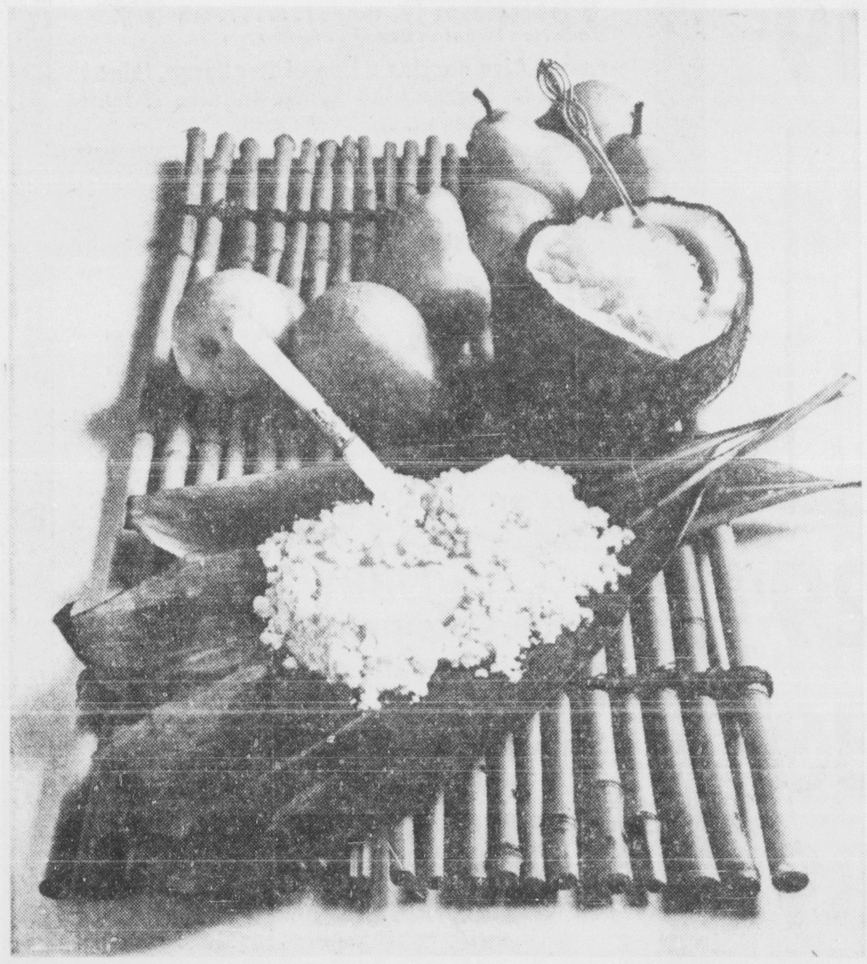
- 1 can (12 ounces) apricot nectar
- 1 package (3 ounces) peach-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 4 small or medium peaches
- Whipped cream or cultured sour cream

Heat 1 cup of the nectar until almost boiling; add to gelatin and stir to dissolve. Stir in remaining ½ cup nectar and the wine. Chill until gelatin begins to set and is slightly thickened. Peel and slice peaches; fold into chilled gelatin. Turn into sherbet glasses or individual glass serving dishes. Chill until set. Top with cream. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: Do not try to unmold this dessert and do not remove from refrigerator until it is served.

Chicken Companion

Fill canned cling peach halves with whole cranberry sauce mixed with a little grated orange rind. Mold in orange or lemon gelatin as a perfect accompaniment for fried chicken.



GOOD TASTE! Fresh California Bartlett pears topped with creamy cheeses and exotic fresh coconut marmalade.

Easy Party Fare

The kitchen never takes a holiday! Especially in summer, the creative cook needs imagination and inqenuity to offer new taste - tempting dishes which will pique those lagging weather-weary appetites. This is the perfect time to take a tip from Oriental cooks and serve crisp, tender vegetables that keep their flavorful goodness to the last forkful. Frozen French fries . . . minutes away from the freezer . . . with no time spent peeling or paring is the magic ingredient in this delicious, quick and easy combination that will bring requests for repeat performances all year 'round.

Tasty frozen French fries combined with fresh tomatoes and crisp cauliflower dressed with piquant spices and steamed to the "just tender" stage will be the star of an intriguing dinner with Oriental overtones. Served with spicy beef strips done to a turn on a charcoal grill, this combination eliminates any need for encouraging the family to be members of the clean plate club.

To top off our Oriental dinner, we like to serve a traditional Far-Eastern dessert that is interwoven with an ancient Chinese legend. Legend has it that, during the Seventh Day of the Seventh Moon Festival in China, everyone indulges in flavorful iced fruits served both fresh and candied. Watermelons are the great favorite of this festival season . . . served as we have pictured it. Made into a beautiful basket and heaped with the traditional seven fruits . . . a picture of cool, succulent dining . . . a delight for dessert on any summer dinner table.

Small-Batch Jam Receipes Make Hit With Homemaker

Young homemakers tell us they like small-batch recipes for jams and jellies, pickles and relishes.

Without risking a great deal of time preparing fruit or vegetables or much expense, new cooks can learn something of the art of preserving and go on to bigger batches. Or they can stay with these limited-quantity recipes and still have the sense of accomplishment and the delicious offerings enjoyed by old-time cooks.

So here's a recipe for small-batch peach relish preserves. We give this peach affair that name because the flavor is sweet and spicy, resembling a relish, and the texture is on the side of preserves.

PEACH RELISH PRESERVES

- 4 cups prepared peaches
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 quart plus ½ cup cold water
- 3 cups sugar
- ½ cup white vinegar
- ½ cup coarsely grated white onion
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- 2 teaspoons mixed pickling spices

To prepare peaches, peel and slice into lengthwise wedges about ¼-inch thick; measure the 4 cups called for, shaking down as measure is filled. Dissolve the salt in 1 quart water; cover prepared peaches with this brine and allow to stand, covered, for 5 hours or overnight; when ready to cook, drain well. In a kettle mix together the ½ cup water, sugar, vinegar, onion and ground ginger.

Include a piece of hot red pepper with the mixed spices and tie in a piece of double-folded cheesecloth; add to kettle. Stir over moderately low heat until sugar dissolves. Add drained peaches; boil gently until fruit looks clear and syrup is thickened, stirring occasionally.

If syrup thickens before peaches are clear, add a small amount of water mixed with a little vinegar. Remove spice bag; skim. Ladle boiling hot peaches and syrup to within ¼-inch of the top of two pint or four ½-pint fruit jars. Place dome lids on jars; screw bands tight. (AP)

Cantaloupe a la Boeuf

A unique and exciting brunch dish is California cantaloupe half-shells filled with hot creamed chipped beef. Be sure to have melons at room temperature. Serve with a lemon wedge.

Pears In Paradise

As the coconut remains almost a useless curiosity, so the lovely fresh pears of the season adorn fruit bowls past their prime. Both can be used simply and elegantly and often, as indicated by this exotic combination.

But first, a word of warning about the pears. They ripen quickly in warm weather, so keep your fruit bowl in the refrigerator when it's not on display. You might keep a running supply of perfectly ripened pears by buying them green and keeping them refrigerated, bringing out five or six at a time to ripen in brown grocer bags. Very green pears require up to a week to ripen.

PEARS HAWAIIAN

- 6 to 8 fresh California Bartletts
- 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
- ½ pint cottage cheese
- Coconut Marmalade*

Chill pears thoroughly. Serve whole with fruit knives or thickly sliced, doused with lemon juice and arranged around platter of cream cheese topped with cottage cheese. Pass the marmalade separately in the broken shell, if possible.

FRESH COCONUT MARMALADE

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1 large coconut, coarsely grated
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix sugar and water in large saucepan. Heat, stirring, until sugar dissolves. Boil to 220 degrees on your jelly thermometer. Add coconut and continue cooking 15 minutes Turn off heat. Stir some of the hot mixture into the beaten eggs and slowly add the egg mixture to the coconut. Cook over low heat for another 5 minutes. Add vanilla and cinnamon and cool. Heap in coconut shell and serve with well-chilled Califorina Bartletts and cream cheese topped with drained cottage cheese.

Cantaloupes At Peak In Market

Fine quality cantaloupes from California production areas are at the peak of availability in western markets and consumers can reap a harvest of good summertime eating by taking advantage of the abundant supply.

Midsummer production of cantaloupes is placed by the United States Department of Agriculture at 8.1 million hundredweight, with 6.6 million hundredweight of the production coming from California.

The USDA is aiding the industry in marketing the crop with a Special Plentiful Foods Program designed to help move the delicious melons to consumers through the normal channels of trade.

Fine quality California cantaloupes have salmon colored meat. Sweetness, fine texture, and a pungent flavor and fragrance are expected of a good cantaloupe.

The netting on a ripe cantaloupe is well raised, coarse, dry and graying in color. The webbing or netting is well developed and stands out in bold relief over the entire surface of the melon.

The background between the netting should be light in color. All of these indications point to the cantaloupe that has developed its full flavor and distinctive aroma.

Place remaining meat patties over the spread ones; mold edges together thoroughly. Brown stuffed burgers on both sides in a little hot butter in a heavy skillet over high heat; reduce heat and cook to desired doneness. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Makes 6 servings.

Be A Lazy Cook!

Breathes there the woman with so much energy that she never to herself has said, "Just for today, I'll be a lazy cook."

When a moment like that overtakes you, we suggest using a soup mix as the main course for lunch or supper.

But don't go so far as to throw the mix into the pot "as is." Feeling lazy needn't keep you from trying a delicious combination.

One of our best lazy-day recipes is creamy onion - clam chowder—a soup that men usually enthuse over. Our guess is that this concoction is so popular because of its onion soup mix base — dehydration seems to bring to the fore some of that vegetable's savoriest qualities.

Crusty French bread is the perfect accompaniment for this soup and a combination or chef's salad a fine follow-up. Dessert can be cheese and crackers, fruit, or something sweet from your freezer.

And another lazy-day tip. When I double the following recipe, I prepare the soup in a single-handle copper kettle that belonged to my mother, and that is handsome enough to bring to the table. If you happen to have one of these antique kettles and haven't used it this way, you may thank me for the tip because it does elegant double-duty.

JANE STREET ONION-CLAM SOUP

- 1 envelope (1⅝-ounce) onion soup mix
- 1½ cups water
- 4 tablespoons (½ stick) butter or margarine
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2⅓ cups milk
- 1 can (10½-ounces) minced clams

Turn onion soup mix into a saucepan and gradually stir in the water. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat; place cover on saucepan slightly ajair and simmer 5 minutes. Meanwhile in another saucepan, make a white sauce: melt the butter over low heat; stir in the flour; add the milk; cook and stir constantly until thickened and bubbly. Mix onion soup, white sauce and clams (including liquid in can). Reheat but do not boil. Makes about 5½ cups—4 hearty servings.

Note: The onion soup mix used in this recipe comes in a 3¼ ounce box containing 2 envelopes (each 1⅝ ounce). To make 8 hearty servings, use both envelopes of mix and double the remaining ingredients. (AP)

Japanese-Americans Triumph Over World War II Trials

By LEIF ERICKSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Just 20 years ago, 112,000 confused and bitter Japanese were making their exodus from Pacific Coast homes into bleak barracks behind the barbed wire of war relocation centers.

From that time of despair and hurt the Japanese Americans have scored a remarkably swift and sweeping triumph over racial prejudice and injustice, and achieved notable economic and career success as well.

"An achievement perhaps rarely equalled in the history of migration," declared Leonard Broom, former UCLA scholar and now sociology department chairman at the University of Texas.

With one spontaneous American idiom a Japanese American who demanded anonymity, lighted up an emphatic flashback picture of the Japanese status before Pearl Harbor.

"Before the war we didn't have a Chinaman's chance in hell," he said, using a vernacular born nearly 100 years ago in the fierce white worker feeling against Chinese railroad building gangs.

"Now the sky's the limit," he added. He is in a supervisory position on the waterfront.

"A Jap's a Jap," declared Lt. Gen. John L. DeWitt, supporting his Western Defense Command's 1942 order for evacuation of the Pacific Coast's entire Japanese population, citizen and alien alike.

"It makes no difference if he is an American," DeWitt told a House Naval Affairs subcommittee hearing. "Theoretically he is still a Japanese and you can't change him."

DeWitt's February, 1942, report urging the evacuation tells the perspective of the time, with Japan's forces rolling on to early Pacific War victories at Singapore and Manila after the surprise Pearl Harbor blow.

"The Japanese race is an enemy race," the general said. "While many second and third generation Japanese born on United States soil, possessed of American citizenship, have become 'Americanized,' the racial strain remains undiluted.

"It therefore follows that along the vital Pacific Coast over 112,000 potential enemies, of Japanese extraction, are at large today."

In March, 1942, as Bataan was falling in the Philippines, the House and Senate speedily passed and Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed legislation drafted by War Department lawyers to give the Army authority to act.

It empowered removing the American-born Nisei, with U. S. citizenship rights, along with the alien Issei, the emigrants from Japan, from their homes and property.

So began a people's enforced exodus which paradoxically turned into their long march back to greater acceptance into American life than they ever had known before.

The opportunities that have opened to the Japanese range from race track to research laboratories, from architecture to the law bench.

George Taniguchi, who finished high school in a relocation camp, was the first Japanese jockey to ride on American tracks. He now grosses $75,000 and more a year as a top jockey at California race tracks.

Kiyo Tomiyasu is technical director of General Electric's research in lasers, amplified light waves which may be harnessed for space communications.

Minoru Yamasaki, who played football and a hot jazz piano as a kid in Seattle, triumphantly returned to his home town as the architect designer of the U. S. Science Pavilion, hit of the World's Fair.

Yamasaki, with headquarters in Detroit, is recognized as one of the nation's top architects.

John Aiso was appointed to the Los Angeles municipal bench in 1953 by then Gov. Earl Warren. Also, he was the first Japanese jurist in the continental United States. He advanced to the Superior Court in 1957 and has been re-elected without opposition.

Gov. Brown last year appointed two more Nisei judges. They are Stephen K. Tamura of Santa Ana, named to Superior Court in Orange County, and Wayne Kanemoto of San Jose, appointed a municipal judge.

Kanemoto, 44, was admitted to the California bar in 1942. He was escorted by armed guard from the war relocation center at Gila Center, Ariz., to Los Angeles to take his bar examination.

The four Shibata brothers have built the Mt. Eden nursery, founded by their emigrant Issei father, Jenjuro, into a $4 million a year flower marketing industry in Alameda County.

Many who stayed with the soil, where their Issei fathers started, are prosperous truck farmers or produce market operators.

Contract gardening has become a specialized green thumb enterprise earning up to $200 a week. Using their own pickup trucks loaded with tools, these Japanese gardeners serve householders who can afford to pay for lawn care.

In whatever field or job they work, they recognize wholeheartedly themselves that acceptance for the Japanese is now community and country wide. It's as real for John Q. Nisei and his average family as for the notable successes among them.

Why and how was this country's deep-seated anti-Japanese prejudice so quickly overcome?

The question has excited and entranced scholars in sociology and history.

A $300,000 four-year study project, sponsored and directed by UCLA, is being undertaken to document and analyze the complex currents of history that so quickly swept away barriers of discrimination imbedded in national and state laws as well as human attitudes.

The ambitious study originated with the Japanese Americans themselves. A fund raising drive by the Japanese American Citizens League has surpassed a pledge of $100,000 toward financing the project intended to produce a definitive "History of the Japanese in America, 1860-1960."

Under agreement reached last May, UCLA undertakes to contribute support and seek additional foundation financing for the work's estimated $300,000 cost.

Dr. T. Scott Miyawaka, Los Angeles-born Boston University sociologist, will direct the research as visiting professor at UCLA.

The goal will be, Miyawaka said, to preserve for America's history an honest, scholarly record of how a people from a very different background, burdened with extraordinary legal handicaps, became creative Americans.

Highway Patrol Cadets Given New Course On Constitution

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California Highway Patrol recruits are studying a new subject this year—the constitution.

"We've always taught them the laws of search and seizure," said Inspector Robert C. Blossom, commander of the training division.

"Now we are going back and teaching them the Bill of Rights so they know why."

It's part of a major revision in the curriculum of the patrol's big academy just outside Sacramento.

Prospective officers now must study 16 weeks, instead of 12, before they get a badge. And, for the first time, they are getting classroom training in enforcing highly technical traffic regulations.

The most striking innovation is a class called "The Administration of Justice," a civics course for adults.

The cadets are told the reason behind the laws they will enforce. They also learn of the protections a democracy furnishes its citizens and study both the federal and state constitutions.

In effect, the recruits are being prepared to deal with a changing society in California, where new social pressures have brought active resentment against police in many areas.

Blossom spoke of "how critical people are of their police departments" and said officers need "a broader understanding of the society's philosophy and of their work."

There's another reason. The patrol figures that officers will do a better job if they know why they are putting their lives on the line every day.

"You can't pay our people for what they do," Blossom said. "We had a boy shot to death on the Peninsula recently. It took place in about five seconds. We figure he got paid about a half a cent for that time."

But the course wasn't started because of a sudden drop in Highway Patrol morale, he said.

"We haven't had any problems," he said. "We just felt that whenever we add something in education, it will improve performance."

Recruits are also being taught public speaking by Sacramento State College professors.

Police Records Officer Promoted

Earl Christensen, in charge of the records department of the San Rafael Police Department, has been promoted from patrolman to sergeant under a salary ordinance informally approved by city councilmen yesterday.

Christensen joined the force March 3, 1950. Prior to that he was a sheriff's deputy.

The council will take formal action on the new position at the Aug. 6 meeting. The promotion, however, takes effect today.

Rome's famous Colosseum withstood nearly 2,000 years of earthquake and plunder, but now is threatened from motor vehicles. To preserve the stone structure, Rome has restricted traffic around it and inserted steel bars into weakened walls and columns.

Mill Valley Crash Hospitalizes Woman

Mrs. Caroline Lauten of 319 San Rafael Avenue, Belvedere, fractured two ribs Sunday in an automobile accident at 388 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

At 8:25 p.m. a car in which Mrs. Lauten was riding with Mary Donaldson Lenn, 42, of 55 Elm Avenue, Mill Valley, collided with one driven by Arthur Able Charlson, 64, of 108 Ethel Avenue, Mill Valley. Mrs. Lauten was treated for two fractured ribs and a cut ear at Marin General Hospital.

Owners Ordered To Clear Property

The City of Sausalito yesterday served notices to abate a public nuisance on four Mono Street property owners.

The four, according to City Manager Charles A. Brown, were asked to remove their buildings and vacate the premises within two weeks or the city will commence action to destroy the structures.

Property owners served are Walter Leaskin, A. Bartow, Philip S. and Louise R. Savage, and Alex Georgiadis.

Removal of the arks and other over-water dwellings is sought for health, fire and sanitary reasons.

The shark is equipped with a powerful jaw and mouth, studded with rows of sharp, pointed teeth. It will eat anything.

Private Money Order Business Rapped

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Some private agencies which operate money-order selling businesses run a "sloppy" operation and are controlled only by "loose legislation," a state assemblyman said yesterday.

Assemblyman Harold Levering, (R-West Los Angeles), made the charges at a public hearing of an assembly subcommittee on finance which is investigating practices of money-order dealers.

He referred specifically to testimony by State Corporations Commissioner John G. Sobieski, who said agents of licensed money-order sellers have a leeway of three days in which to submit remittances to the licensees. He said there was a "definite temptation" for the agents to be slow in turning over the funds.

"This is pretty loose legislation," Levering commented. "It is a pretty sloppy way of doing business."

Sobieski recommended that licensees be required to set up a trust fund for the customer to guarantee funds if an agent happened to get into "financial difficulties."

Voters May Gain Voice In Setting County Districts

The possibility that Marin voters may be able to challenge in court the way the county's supervisorial districts are apportioned will be discussed in Sacramento Friday by the State Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee.

Nicholas Petris (D-Oakland), committee chairman, said he believes a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, which permits voters to seek relief in court from inequities in the boundaries of state legislative districts, also affects supervisorial districts.

Petris said that in Marin County the biggest district has more than 20 times the voters of the smallest. Other California counties have similar disparities.

Volunteers Pay For Keep, Work Free To Build Nondenominational Retreat

By BILL HARRISON

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A pretty Georgia coed working in an old gymnasium here has scaled heights she never dreamed of in her home town of Valdosta.

"I've always been afraid of heights—oooohh," says Peggy Winston, 18. "It was the best feeling when I first got up courage to climb the scaffolding. Now it's not so bad, I climb scaffolding and ladders all the time."

Peggy is one of 15 members of an ecumenical work camp renovating a shut-down gym that belongs to the Grace Methodist Church in the Mission District.

They're living in, and repairing, an adjoining parsonage that has gone unused more than a year.

When the workers — 12 campers and 3 leaders — complete the job, perhaps this week, the parsonage will become Hospitality House, a nondenominational religious retreat, and the gym will be a neighborhood recreation center.

The project, sponsored by the World Council of Churches and the San Francisco Council of Churches, is one of 55 around the world being carried on by 1,100 young people.

The campers pay their way to the project, pay their room and board on the job and work for nothing. But, Peggy and her fellow campers tell you, the fellowship and sense of accomplishment are reward enough.

Like Peggy, who has completed her first year at Emory University, Atlanta, most of the campers are students. Three are teachers and one is a nurse. The campers and leaders hail from 12 states, Austria, Brazil and Bolivia. Six of the campers are girls, six boys.

The leaders are two ministers, the Rev. Irvin Elligan, 46, of a Presbyterian church in Richmond, Va., and the Rev. Ken Moyer, 38, of the United Church of Christ, Akron, Ohio, and Kathy Gingrich, 24, associate director of the Presbyterian Campus Ministry at the University of Texas.

The Rev. Elligan and a couple of the campers are Negro, as Peggy says the most impressive feature she has found at the camp "is the way people of different races, different parts of the world, different denominations, can live and work together in common cause by being united in love for Christ."

She adds, "I just wish that people come to understand their fellow men more and to recognize each other as a person."

The Georgia girl, clad in paint-spattered slacks and blouse, declared, "I've enjoyed all the work because I've gotten to do things I've never done before." The things included removing paint, washing down rafters, lining the gymnasium floor and cleaning shower rooms.

Each takes a regular turn, too, with household duties, shopping, cooking and cleaning.

"The poor campers—one day I fixed Spanish rice with uncooked rice," Peggy relates. She said they couldn't eat much of it the first meal but kept recooking it for subsequent meals "and it got better."

It's not all work; the campers are at their chores about six hours a day, have three daily periods of worship, plus seven hours of seminar.

The Rev. Mr. Elligan says a varied liturgy is used to acquaint the campers with one another's worship practices.

There are sightseeing excursions, volleyball games with neighborhood teams and other planned recreation.

Paint and other materials are supplied by the San Francisco Council of Churches or are solicited by the minister of Grace Methodist Church.

Members of the church volunteer professional help in off hours and they bring in food and flowers for the workers.

"We had just arrived — our first night here — and they brought in some tremendous California strawberries," Peggy remembers. "Oooohh, wonderful!"

Neighborhood children drop in and help make the campers feel at home. One, a red-haired 10-year-old named Stanley, kept inviting Peggy to come outside and fight. Weapons: water pistols.

Sculptor's Son Held For Drunk Driving

Erskine Bufano, 33, of Sausalito was booked in county jail Monday night on a drunken driving charge after his red sports car went over a bank, through 10 feet of hedge and shrubs, and landed in the front yard of Lucille Amman at 27 Spencer Avenue, Sausalito.

Bufano, son of San Francisco sculptor Benny Bufano, lives at 601 Sausalito Boulevard and is a technician at Marin General Hospital. Police charged him with drunken driving and being drunk in and about an auto.

U.S. Chamber Man Visits In Novato

Stark went over the operations of the Novato chamber with Andrew Bretz Jr., secretary-manager and was guest at a luncheon of the board of directors at Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

Hill Pageant Tells Mormon Story

PALMYRA, N. Y. (UPI)—When dusk falls over Rolling Hill Cumorah in this upstate New York hamlet today, 300 actors garbed in exotic and "heavenly" costumes will portray a tale of a civilization that flourished in America 2,500 years ago.

The Hill Cumorah Pageant, one of America's largest and most popular religious-musical events, tells the story revealed in a set of golden tablets given by an angel named Moroni to a local farm boy, Joseph Smith, in 1827.

The tablets and story of the Israeli-Christian civilization they recorded have formed the keystone of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, the two million-member Mormon Church.

This year marks the 25th anniversary performance of the four-night pageant that draws 100,000 spectators from all over the world to New York's Finger Lakes region. The production is free of charge.

The setting on Hill Cumorah, where the tablets were said to have been buried in 421 A. D., conveys some of the magnificence of the ancient civilization.

The hill is laid out with 25 staffs covering an area the size of a football field and the audience sits on a five-acre plain on the west slope. There are about five miles of underground wiring and a 175,000-gallon reservoir holds water used for the colorful curtains and fog displays.

The $500,000 set and production is directed by Harold I. Hansen, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic arts at Brigham Young University. Most of his actors come from the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast states.

"To the best of my knowledge, the Hill Cumorah Pageant now has the finest facilities in the world for pageant production," Hansen said.

Although alcoholism cannot be inherited, the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program says the presence of an alcoholic parent in a child's environment may sometimes produce emotional conflicts in the child which can cause him to be susceptible to alcoholism later in life.

Marin School Operations To Cost $25 Million

It will cost more than 25 million dollars to run Marin schools next fiscal year according to budget estimates completed by 21 school districts throughout the county.

Total estimated budgets of $25,663,811 for 1962-63 represent an increase of more than four million dollars over the 1961-62 total of $21,378,412.

All district budgets have increased except Ross, Nicasio, Tomales Bay Elementary and Tomales High School districts. Largest single increase is in the College of Marin budget, which has nearly doubled because of a 35-cent tax increase for construction approved by voters June 5.

Budgets from five small districts—Burdell, Laguna, Lincoln, Point Reyes and Union Joint—have not yet been received by the county superintendent's office. Since each of the five districts employs only one teacher, state law does not require public hearings on their budgets.

Tax rates for 1962-63 listed below are estimated by the superintendent's office. George L. S. Emmons, county schools business director, said rates may "vary one penny up or down" after final budgets are submitted to the county auditor.

Here are the budgets and tax rates for the new fiscal year compared to last year, and the dates for public hearings and adoption of the final budgets:

Mill Valley Selects Painter For City Hall

The Mill Valley city hall is to be repainted starting in about two weeks, City Manager A. E. Almcrants said today. The work, to cost $2,228, will be done by T. Neal, San Francisco painting contractor, who was low bidder.

Almcrants said the color will probably be the same—cream and brown, but that he will refer the matter to the architectural advisory committee.

Three Named To New Posts At Hamilton

New commanders were announced yesterday for three positions at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Lt. Col. Charles J. Chenault, Korean War fighter pilot veteran, was named commander of the 78th Operations Squadron.

He replaces Lt. Col. James Hollingsworth, who left last week for survival training at Stead Air Force Base, Nev.

Colonel Chenault came to Hamilton Air Force Base in July of 1960 from Olathe Air Force Station, Kan.

He received a direct commission upon entering the service in 1944, and is a command pilot.

During the Korean War, Chenault flew with the 80th Fighter-Bomber Wing in an F80 Shooting Star. On his 62nd mission, while flying ground support, his plane was hit by enemy ground fire. He made a forced landing in a rice paddy and suffered back injuries. His engineers helped him to safety and a hospital. For his combat missions he received the Purple Heart and two Air Medals.

First Lt. Lois J. Minium was appointed commander of the WAF (Women in the Air Force) Squadron.

She replaced Capt. Marjorie Balch, who was assigned to the 78th Fighter Wing's manpower office.

This is the first command for Lieutenant Minium. Prior to her assignment, she served as 78th Transportation Squadron supply officer.

She was graduated from Mexico City College in 1956 prior to joining the service in 1957.

Chief M/Sgt. Jon W. Roggli, former deputy commandant of the Air Defense Command's non-commissioned officers academy, was named first sergeant of the 4661st Support Squadron.

He replaced M/Sgt. Anthony J. Cesero, who will retire in November.

Sgt. Roggli holds a bachelor of laws degree from La Salle Extension University and a bachelor of science from University of Maryland. He attended the Air Defense Command's non-commissioned officers academy in 1960. There he won awards as honor graduate, class spokesman and the academic achievement award.

In 1961, he attended the academic instructor's school, Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., where he was graduated highest in his class of 164.

Foundations Started For Transient Mansion

Construction has commenced on foundations for the $75,000 Moffitt mansion at Belvedere and the home, divided in two since it was floated from San Francisco to Marin July 3, is expected to be joined and set down permanently by Aug. 13.

It is also expected that the structures, now sitting on shore on jacks, will be completed in about 90 days, according to William Slater, partner in the J. B. S. Development Corp., contractors.

New Citizen A Learned One

Her Interests Include Art, Philosophy

by RICHARD LYTTLE

If you have a question about the philosophical background of Ralph Waldo Emerson's ideas on education, as good a place as any to go for an answer is up a wooded canyon near Forest Knolls.

That is where Mrs. Erika Elfriede Zettl lives with her college professor husband and two children. She does not limit herself to discourses on Emerson. With 10 years of university education in Germany and the United States, she can carry on a vivacious and informative conversation on just about any subject.

In addition, she is an artist. She paints as a pastime, but the results are impressive.

The most exciting thing that has happened recently in Mrs. Zettl's interesting life was when she raised her hand one day last month in a San Francisco Federal Court and took the oath as a citizen of the United States.

Mrs. Zettl was born in Mainz, a city in the wine growing area of the Rhine Valley. She coyly declines to give the date of her birth, but at the end of World War II she had just finished her high school education.

She does not recall much about Hitler's Germany, but she remembers the war and the arrival of Allied troops. At that time she was a Red Cross nurse, caring for wounded in a Mainz hospital.

After the hectic invasion period ended, she was able to continue with her education. At the end of five years at Frankfurt University, where she studied languages and philosophy, she won a grant to come to the United States for a year of study under an exchange program.

She attended University of West Virginia, where she earned a master's degree in English. She had time on this visit to tour the United States. She came to California and liked what she saw.

She returned to Germany, but was soon back in California, studying at University of California, first in Los Angeles and then in Berkeley. She was working on a thesis on Emerson's ideas on education and their philosophical background when she temporarily concluded her studies.

It was the pending arrival of her first child that made her decide to give up on Emerson for a while. Since then, Renee, who is now 7, and Alex, 5, are taking most of her attention.

"I think raising children is the most important thing right now," she said. Later she hopes to return to complete her work for the doctorate and perhaps do some writing, probably critical essays and articles.

Her husband, Herbert L. Zettl, also a native of Germany, is carrying most of the academic load for the family now. He is an assistant professor in the creative arts department at San Francisco State College, teaching radio and television techniques.

The couple met on a boat returning to Germany after both had completed a year of study in America. He later returned to Stanford University. They were married in 1953.

Dr. Zettl himself is about to become a citizen. His papers have all been filed and he hopes to take the oath late this summer.

He was the one who interested his wife in painting.

"He's a better painter than I am," Mrs. Zettl said. "He has won several awards."

She said that for a while she could use only the paints that were left over after he was through painting. But after seeing that his wife was an artist too, he has encouraged her to do more than just use up the left-overs.

The Zettl home, on a wooded hillside, stands above a sunny garden. Inside are many modern paintings by the Zettls and their artistic friends.

SLIGHTLY ABSTRACT—Mrs. Erika Elfriede Zettl holds picture of chickens that she painted at her Korest Knolls home. Art is just one of her many interests.

Brown In Los Angeles For Month

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, going where the votes are, moves to Los Angeles today to begin a month's stay in Southern California.

He has rented the same big house he occupied last year when he decided to spend more time in the south. It's on Muirfield Road, in the Wilshire district, and just across the street from the imposing residence of Republican Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell.

Brown plans to return to Sacramento on occasion during his southern sojourn. But he's taking part of his staff with him and he intends to devote most of the month to Richard Nixon bailiwick.

As it happens, the Republican candidate for governor will be in Sacramento this weekend for the GOP state convention and a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee.

Officially, Brown is going south to get to know more about the problems of the sprawling area. But it also provides the Democratic chief executive an opportunity to do some campaigning among the state's biggest bloc of voters.

Brown, in an interview before leaving for Los Angeles, acknowledged that he has a job ahead in his campaign for re-election, and that is to "sell" his record.

He referred to the influx of California newscomers and said they are perhaps not familiar with his record as a district attorney, attorney general and governor.

Asked what he considered his biggest political handicap, Brown said:

"I think the greatest difficulty I have is that, on some problems, I've taken strong positions because I thought they were good for all the people of this state. And they have been.

"But they have aroused powerful minorities to oppose me, and I've been unable in the course of events to place them in all instances. I hope I'll be able to convince these groups that whatever is good for the majority of the people of California is good for them."

While Brown concentrates on the south, Sen. Richard Richards (D-Los Angeles), Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, will be invading the north in his bid to oust Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel.

Brown and Nixon don't plan to open their formal campaigns until around Labor Day. Richards, however, has scheduled a five-day campaign tour from Bakersfield north beginning next Monday.

New York Opens Drive On Freak-Making Drug

NEW YORK (AP) — The City Health Department has asked all persons to search their medicine cabinets for pills containing the baby-deforming drug thalidomide.

The department said the drug distributed by an American manufacturer as tranquilizers has the trade name Kevadon.

The pill is described as blue, slightly larger than an aspirin tablet.

On one side it bears the initial "M," inside a double circle; on the other side it is scored across the middle for breaking in half.

The drug is contained in pills under foreign trade names:

Contergan, Distaval, Softenon, Talimol, Algosediv, Peracon Expectorans, Grippex, Polygripan, Valgis, Tensival, Belgraine and Asmaval.

Queen Mother To Mark Birthday At Scottish County Fair Visit

LONDON (UPI) — There is nothing Queen Mother Elizabeth would like better on her 62nd birthday Saturday than to have breakfast in bed and whistle a tune or two with the bagpiper serenading outside her window at Clarence House.

But this prettily plump grandmother will be spending the day, instead, far away from her beloved London home and family. She will be at her job, making an appearance at a county fair in Caithness, Scotland.

THE QUEEN MOTHER could have stayed in the capital, close to her children and grandchildren, for the usual small gathering at Buckingham Palace with which the royal family marks its personal anniversaries.

There Prince Charles, 13, the heir to the throne, and his sister, Princess Anne, 11, could have presented her with small bouquets of flowers, a pleasant custom dating from their toddling days.

And this year, Queen Elizabeth's youngest child, Prince Andrew, who is two and a half, might even have joined them in affectionate remembrance of the birthday of "Granny Royal."

But the Queen Mother chose duty which is one reason why the British, who love and respect Queen Elizabeth II, adore the gracious lady who is her mother.

The Queen Mother is of Scottish blood—her family seat is Glamis Castle where Shakespeare set Macbeth—and she has many old friends there as well as a castle of her own on the lonely coast.

THE SCOTS will be delighted and honored to have her among them, especially on this day. They will do all they can to make up for the separation from her family. The telephone will do the rest for that is the way the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and their children and Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowdon will pay their respects.

At 62 the Queen Mother looks much younger than her years although she is now permitting her hair to show its gray streaks for the first time. Her face is almost unlined and she still has the famous Windsor complexion. She does not diet and never has and her plumpness bothers her not a whit.

She does not smoke but she is rated an authority on champagne. She does not care much for the expected pursuits of aging royal ladies such as needlework and knitting. She prefers television, dining, when she is alone, off a tray in front of the set.

SHE LOVES people. Now that she has a stable of steeplechase horses she often shows up at the paddock, even in cold and rain, to chat with other owners, with jockeys and barmaids and canteen help.

A fisherman once reported that a lady in high rubber boots fishing the other side of a salmon river in Scotland held a shouted conversation with him. They did not introduce themselves and it was only later that he realized that his fishing companion was the Queen Mother.

LIKE MANY Scots she is intensely proud of her homeland, hence the piper who parades around the garden of Clarence House three times a week playing tunes the Queen Mother learned to whistle in her childhood days at Glamis.

Chi Omega President Active In Various Volunteer Groups

Mrs. Les Vogel Jr. of Kentfield, who has been elected president of the Marin Chi Omega Alumnae for the year, has lived in Marin only four years, but she has found time to become active in many phases of volunteer work with local organizations.

Having two youngsters, Leslie, 3, and Philip, 2, she is a member of Pixie Parents, and, being well versed in fashion modeling, is a Marin Mannequin Leaguer. She also works for the Mothers Milk Bank in San Francisco and the Entertainment Guild of Sunny Hills.

She also was co-chairman of the committee to organize TARS—Teen-age Republicans in Marin and enjoys political volunteer work.

Cheryl Vogel teaches a church group of primary grade children and enjoys music, the theater, reading and water skiing, even though her home remains a central interest and she finds enjoyment being with the children and doing some cooking in her Kent Woodlands home's kitchen.

MRS. LES VOGEL JR.

As to Chi Omega business she is well versed, having served the organization as secretary and vice president. This year she looks ahead to fund raising in February to provide camperships for blind children, to help an American Field Service exchange student and contribute books to the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum, where a story hour is planned.

Other officers who will serve with her this year are Mesdames Myles W. Clute, vice president; John Hale, recording secretary; H. W. Henderson, corresponding secretary; Robert Berry, treasurer; Robert Rhoads, Panhellenic representative; Ralph Bernhardt, fund-raising chairman and Edward J. Ruff, member-at-large.

His Bravery Is Affected By What You Do When Child Hurt

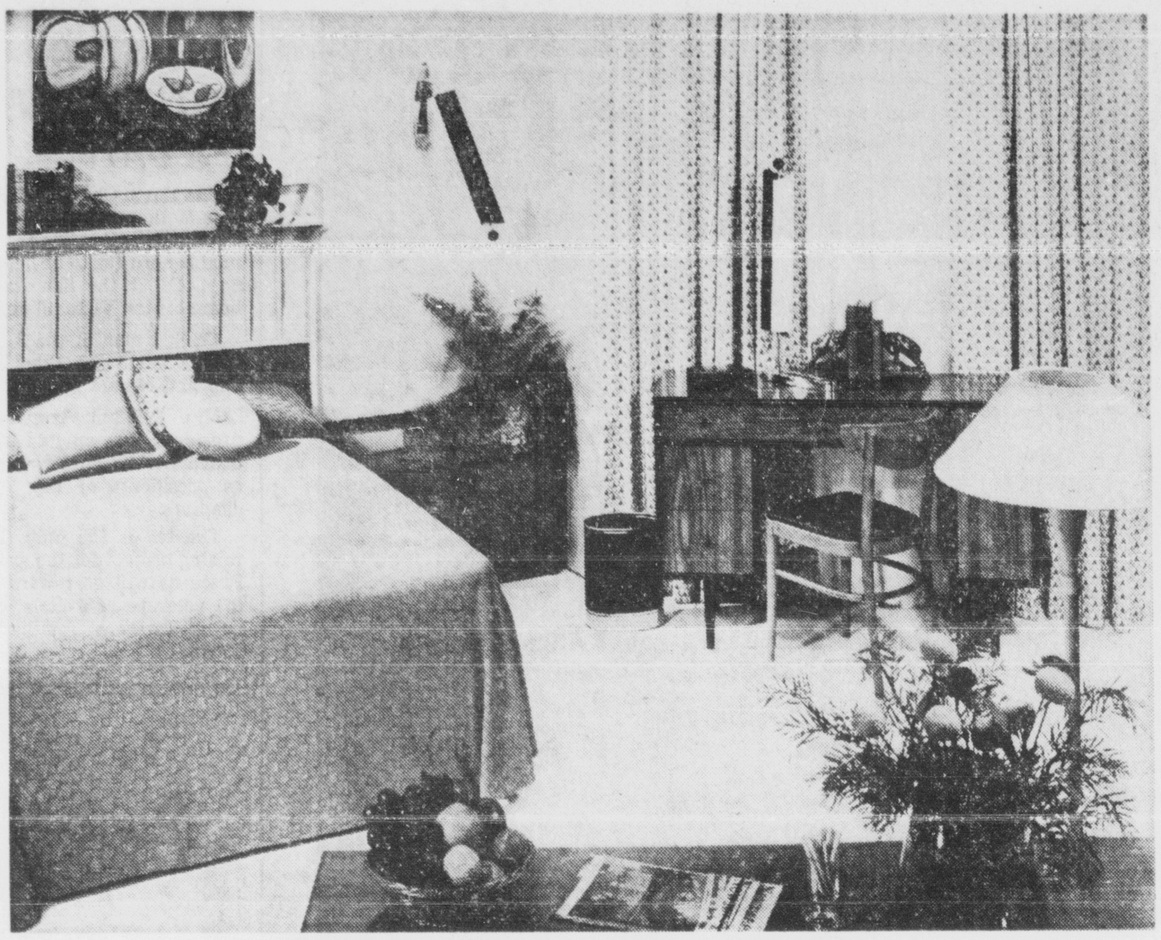
Want your children to be brave? Then be careful what you do when they hurt themselves. Here are Mrs. "Brown" and Mrs. "Jones." Can you tell which one is teaching her son to be brave?

Mrs. Brown's boy "Billy" is three. I saw him trip while running and get pavement burns on his knees and elbow. He yelled bloody murder. Mrs. Brown picked him up and carried him into the house. She got out the first aid kit and sterilized his wounds. She hugged Billy for about two minutes, until the pain began to subside. "Okay, Billy," she said, "now you'll be all right." Then she sent him on an errand. Billy forgot his tears and trotted off. He was happy once more.

Mrs. Jones' son, "Henry" is also three. He tried to climb on a bike and pulled it down on him. He was bruised and scratched in several places. He screamed. Mrs. Jones came out and pulled the bike off him. She leaned over and saw that the wounds were not deep. Reassured, she turned and walked away. Henry called to her. "Don't be a baby," she replied and kept on walking. Henry huddled forlornly on the cement, sobbing. I started to comfort him, but Mrs. Jones stopped me. "I'm teaching him to be brave," she said. "I don't want anybody to baby my son." When I left Henry was still sobbing.

Was Mrs. Brown right? Or Mrs. Jones?

The answer is Mrs. Brown. Your children need your love and support. They need it especially when they're scared. If you overdo it, you'll make them into lifelong scaredy-cats. The thing to do is to help and comfort them until they're over the most painful part of the accident. Then direct their attention to something else. Good luck!



CONTEMPORARY BEDROOM

The coordination of crisp colors in the fabric, bedspread and walls; plus the softening touches of greenery establish a feeling in this room which might be termed "warm modern." Accents of black and white on the trim of the furniture and the lamps give sharp contrast and interest to the scheme.

Tots Are Urged To Learn By Dialing

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Learn by doing is one of education's maxims. Paul Kwartin and Norman Cousins would like to add another—learn by dialing.

Kwartin, opera singer, cantor, and television producer, and cousins, author, editor of the Saturday Review and amateur pianist, have teamed in an educational project which could put callouses on the index fingers of millions of children.

Operating on the theory that children naturally love to dial (look at the way they start for the telephone the minute they can toddle), Kwartin and Cousins are producers of a series of educational records in which children put their dialing skill to use.

THE SERIES already is in the Westport, Conn. public schools, has been tested for use in Bryn Mawr, Pa. schools, and it is Cousins' and Kwartin's plan to offer them to schools around the country.

The secret of the "window of knowledge" is in the jacket, which enables the children to dial pictures appropriate to the music being played. Every time a bell rings on the record, the youngsters must push the dial to change the picture that appears in a small window at the top.

Two records designed for the three to six age group teaching counting and the alphabet—"A is for the animal zoo, B is for the dancing bear, C is for the most cuddly, curly cat we ever saw . . ."

Two other records, for the five to nine year olds, teach astrology and geography—the latter with a group of English translations of folk tunes around the world.

KWARTIN, A baritone, does the narration and singing. He said Cousins was the business brains of the partnership which actually is more of a family affair. Kwartin's wife, Maggie, helped guide content of the records. She is founder and director of a school in Westport for three and four year olds. The school serves also as a "model" where student teachers from Yale University and the University of Bridgeport get classroom experience.

To make sure they are on the right track educationally, Cousins and Kwartin also work with the staff of the Book of Knowledge Encyclopedia, and with Leo and Sylvia Israel, of the Child Study Assn.

Some top Broadway talent will go into the second of the record series to come out in the fall. Elliot Lawrence, who wrote the music for "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," is writing the music for the next series. His wife, Amy, is doing the lyrics.

Hot dogs and burgers are festive when spread with mashed California avocado zipped with Tabasco, lemon juice and salt.

FAMILY FARE

Teaching Toddler To Eat Takes Patience, Variety

Kitchen-counter breakfasts, tray lunches, help-yourself-suppers often overtake us all.

If this modern informality makes meals enjoyable and relaxing, who would be against it?

But what food customs should mothers not be casual about?

Milk; vegetables; fruit; eggs, meat, fish or poultry; cereal; and bread and butter — these are daily diet essentials for all children.

SMALL BOYS and girls in particular need the rhythm of regularly spaced mealtimes, including midmorning and midafternoon fill-ins. To these youngsters the world is a wide and wonderful place made for all sorts of experimenting, and in contrast routine events offer pleasant reassurance and stable satisfactions.

But do be informal about the "how" of eating when it's time for boys and girls to exert their independence at tabletime. Children aren't born with table manners; in time they acquire them.

Before they're a year old, babies learn to pick up food with their fingers. In the beginning this is a matter of trial and error, with lots of messes and spills. But any sensitive mother, catching the sober look of concentration or the beam of triumph on a toddler's face when he finally masters the eating ritual, is bound to feel the smeared-mouth-and-table and crumbs-in-the-hair period was definitely worthwhile.

Of course this period is trying at times, but it's cheering to remember that agility with fingers eventually leads to deftness with baby spoons and forks.

BE CASUAL, too, when your youngster is ready for foods of varying textures, size and flavor.

Babies have a surprising capacity for boredom! Sometimes they act distinctly blase about certain familiar foods. These may be the moments to try out something different. When you do introduce a new food, give your child plenty of time for exploration.

Babies are artists. When Junior is presented with a new food for the first time, he may want to give it the good old once over. He may pat it, pinch it, sniff it, pick it up and throw it down again—all before he puts it in his mouth.

When he's finally tasted it, don't expect him to eat up every bite. If you bide your time, the next meal the food is served that honey-child of yours may just welcome it as a long-lost friend.

Be a politician. Some foods most children like. If, following in Papa's steps, they go for meat and potatoes, you can offer a less popular food with that tried-and-true course.

Ever watch a toddler snatch at a bright red truck or run toward a vivid yellow train? Color and design interest him. Present food simply but attractively, and the chances are it will appeal to him.

NEW TODDLER FOOD—Meat sticks join the parade of things designed to appeal to youngsters' appetites. A combination of pork, beef, dry milk and seasoning, they come can-packed.

Patrols Find Grandest Scale Of Sharing Is In Demonstrations

By SKIP SHAPIRO

Roundup is a new way of life for Girl Scouts, with new friends and ways of doing things 2,000 miles from home. Roundup is a city of tents and grass streets; a city of girls; a city of uniforms. Roundup is a city where everyone is welcome everywhere and most of all, the 12 days of Roundup are a time of sharing.

Everything in the encampment is shared; chores, food, play, visiting, discussion. But the grandest scale of sharing is the demonstration, when each patrol tries to show a little bit of its home town and state to girls who may never see more of it.

Many of the demonstrations have been prepared and rehearsed for months. The girls employ special costumes, which they make themselves, and learn such skills as glass-blowing and blacksmithing. The demonstration is of native skill, industry or sight of each patrol's home area. Some girls do folk dances from their area, others show development of industry or enact folk legends.

THE DEMONSTRATIONS are presented on the Village Green, a central area which resembles a vast fair, crowded with girls and visitors, with over 100 live demonstrations by the girls, as well as others by the Vermont government and industries. The latter include a milking demonstration with cows described by patrol leader Lynda Smith as "simply huge, in fact, taller than I am," and exhibits from Vermont's Shelburne Museum. Vermont's marble and granite industries have set up exhibits and are staging demonstrations by Girl Scouts from Proctor and Barre quarries.

Some of the demonstrations visited by Marin County girls are a "Fashion Show Through the Years" by Charlottesville, Va., girls, and a Shaker dance put on by a patrol from Cleveland, O. Other girls dry fish and make quilts, churn butter and make leather goods. Others make and distribute primitive pottery, and corn husk dolls. Girls from Syracuse, N.Y., paint china. A patrol from Ipswich, Mass., tie fishing nets, and Augusta, Me., puts on an Indian pageant.

There are far too many demonstrations going each day to see them all. The girls must pick what they like best from the vast selection of living exhibits. Some of the girls visited the "Picture Your Home Frontier" exhibit, where paintings by Scouts from all over the United States, including Marin County, are shown.

ONE OF THE things that makes the spirit of Roundup as vibrant and magnificent as it is, is the adult volunteers who serve, helping in a multitude of ways, to make the encampment a memorable experience for each of the 8,500 girls. Without the 1,700 volunteers, it would be impossible to operate the Roundup, but they do more than just do their job; they become friends in a very special way, making the girls feel that Roundup is a special, personal experience.

Many of the volunteers are married couples, or other family groups, sisters, mother and daughter, cousins. Some came because their daughters are campers here, some come because they have been as campers to another Roundup, and want to share in one again. Some have attended or worked at all three Roundups. Nearly all gave up their vacation to work without pay at manning essential encampment positions.

Roundup jobs are as varied as the volunteers. The women work as nurses, troop leaders, hostesses, guides, international consultants, camp directors, as well as administrative secretaries and mail and food sorters.

Men with specialized knowledge such as photography or geology serve as program consultants to the girls; others work as health superintendents, commissary managers, drivers, postal assistants and maintenance men.

APPLICATIONS FROM would - be Roundup helpers poured into headquarters as soon as the 1962 Roundup was announced. It was as difficult to pick staff as to select campers, and careful consideration was given to choose adults to work with the girls. Many of the adults served with the girls as Roundup trainers prior to the encampment.

Among Marin adults at the Roundup is Mrs. Robert DeBrecht, who serves as a troop leader in another section. The Marin Patrol had Mrs. DeBrecht as a special dinner guest. A husband - wife team from Marin County serving together at Roundup is Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schoff. Mrs. Schoff works as a troop leader, Mr. Schoff as a maintenance man. Three of the girls, Sue Klarkowski, Jill Nelson and Skip Shapiro, are members of Mariner Ship 132, led by Mrs. Schoff. Mrs. Harold F. Green, president of the Marin County Girl Scout Council, is also at Roundup, writing Scout publicity.

EACH TROOP in the encampment is sure that its troop leader is the best, and troop 1, Camp B, home of the Marin patrol, is no exception. Any wonderful "Freddie" is to all the girls. She advises the patrols, helps with personal problems and does everything possible to get the activities each girl desires be it folk-dancing, swimming or just showers.

Adults plan Roundup with the help of the girls, and each volunteer who serves helps make Roundup a success for every girl by willingness to serve and friendliness.

Sausalitans Are Hosts For Parties

It has been an active summer socially in Sausalito. The two most recent large parties were those given Sunday by Dr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenblum and by Kenneth Logan.

The Rosenblums entertained at a cocktail party and barbecue honoring new residents in medicine at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco. One hundred and two doctors and their wives attended.

For entertainment during the evening there was dancing to music provided by some of the Rosenblums' friends who are professional musicians, and Dr. Rosenblum entertained at the piano.

The party hosted by Kenneth Logan was an unusual one. Owner of two adjoining houses on San Carlos Avenue, he has been living in one and renting the other to the family of the French Deputy Consul General of San Francisco, Jacques de La Ferriere.

In order to make it more convenient for him to do some extensive work in the garden of the de La Ferrieres' home, Logan and the de La Ferrieres exchanged residences, and the party was in the nature of an announcement of the change.

Some 50 guests attended the party, which took place in both the homes and gardens.

A reception in the San Rafael Carpenters Hall followed the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended College of Marin. She is the sister of Joan Moyer and Mrs. Barbara Dumas, both of San Rafael.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. M. J. Seymour of San Anselmo, was graduated from Tamalpais High School. He is employed at the Vacaville Medical Facility.

Following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe, the newlyweds will make their home in Vacaville.

Return Of Marin Reserve Unit Well Worth Noting

Soon to return from 10 months' military service that began when the Berlin crisis was a Crisis, Marin men serving in the 94th Quartermaster Platoon deserve a warm welcome home for their part in keeping the Cold War cold.

They were summoned to the colors in October as part of President Kennedy's nationwide call-up of National Guard and Reserve units that had demonstrated combat readiness in their training. It meant family disruptions and disruption of education and leaving their jobs. And it wasn't pleasant to be put into uniform while the nation was at peace.

But into service they went, in obedience to their enlistment oaths. And at the time, there was the chilling prospect of a major conflict involving the Free Nations and the Communist bloc. The Berlin border was a tinder-box, which could have exploded through any irresponsible action on the part of either side in those tense days of 1961.

Those benefits that the nation showers upon the returned war veterans will be missing in the case of the reservists coming home from the call-up. They will need jobs, or will make a late start in resuming school.

But home from months of intensive training in Fort Lee, Va., soon will come our men of the 94th Quartermaster Platoon. They deserve every consideration, if not a real hearty welcome home.

That these men have not forgotten their beloved Marin County was touchingly attested last week in a letter signed by more than a score of Marinites with the unit, thanking the Independent-Journal for sending complimentary copies to them at Fort Lee.

"The Independent-Journal is an integral part of Marin County, and reading it has made us feel just a little closer to home and to feel that we are not forgotten," reads the poignant missive.

They have not forgotten Marin. And Marin has not forgotten them. It would be well to show them we're glad they are with us again.

'YOU'RE CRAMPING MY STYLE'

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

WHEN "OLDSTERS" GET TOGETHER

Two hundred and six birthday candles would have been required if a joint celebration were held recently by a couple of old friends.

The two men celebrated their 103rd birthday within 16 days of each other. One of them sent a card to the other for his most recent birthday. It read:

"We have had a few birthdays in our time, guess that's easy to see. So I'll button my lip about your age, if you'll do the same for me."

Whether our life span is 33 years, 63 or even 103, it is at best comparatively brief in comparison to eternity.

How long you will live is a difficult question to answer. God does not specify the year, day or hour that He will summon any of us.

Keep more concerned about "how well" you live rather than "how long" your life may be and you will always be ready to render an account of your stewardship.

"Come, blessed of My Father, take possession of the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."
(Matthew 25:34)

Let me live every day on earth, O Lord, as if it was my last.

'How To Lose Weight While Cooking Civil War Over H-Bomb'

NEW YORK (AP)—Suppose you were having a distinguished Eskimo to dinner, and you found out his favorite dishes were walrus stew and boiled owl.

Would you know how to go about cooking a walrus or boiling an owl?

Or suppose this very important Eskimo hinted that he doted most on bear feet or soured seal liver. Would you know how to prepare these tempting Far Northern delicacies?

The four most popular literary topics today seemingly are dieting, the hydrogen bomb, the Civil War, and cook books of all kinds.

Perhaps the perfect title for a best-seller today would be "How to Lose Weight While Cooking the Civil War Over a Hydrogen Bomb."

But while the market has been flooded with cook books, the fine old culinary skills found in Arctic Circle igloos have been overlooked completely.

This lack has been remedied by the publication of a small paperbacked cook book of age-old Eskimo recipes. The students of Shishmaref Day School in Shishmaref, Alaska, got the recipes from their mothers.

Eskimo cookery is simplicity itself, and any harried American housewife wanting to fix a quick easy meal for her family might find this recipe for frozen flounders just the answer for her problem:

"After the flounders are caught, let them freeze. Eat as much as you want of it."

That dish has another advantage for budget-minded wives—it cuts down on the gas bill.

Now about that walrus stew:

"Cut the walrus in small pieces and also cut up the skin and blubber. Then put them together in the pot to boil. Add salt and water."

As for that boiled owl:

"Take feathers off from owl. Throw away feathers. Clean owl and put in cooking pot. Have lots of water in pot. Add salt to taste."

"MOST OF THE people like the bear feet better than the meat," the cook book observes. "We cook them well, add salt. Four feet would take about one teaspoon of salt. Take them out of the pot and let them get cool. Eat them with seal oil."

To appreciate the taste thrill of soured seal liver requires a palate truly educated to the nuances of Eskimo cooking.

The student who submitted this recipe said:

"SOURED SEAL liver is made in the summertime. Place liver in enamel pot or dish and cover with blubber. Put in a warm place for a few days until sour. Most of the boys and girls don't like it, except the grown-ups and old people. I don't like it either."

The cook book was prepared by the students to raise funds for handicapped children. You can get a copy by sending 60 cents to the Alaska Crippled Children's Association at Anchorage, Alaska.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

U.S. Foreign Aid Criticized

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

To support his demands for more "Foreign Aid" funds, President Kennedy said that at least 80 per cent of the money would be spent in the U.S. (It would be interesting to know how much of that is for salaries of bureaucrats.)

Escapees from the Tyranny assure us that the "Aid" which is sent abroad strengthens the slave masters, instead of helping the slaves, which the American people whose money is being approriated for the purpose have been led to suppose it would do.

It's hard to believe, but we are told that aid is now being withdrawn from Nationalist China (one of our best friends), and that it was withheld from Laos in order to force a "neutralist" government there (which always proves advantageous to the Communists). One wonders what sinister influence forced us to vote against Portugal and Angola; to remain silent when Goa was taken over; to support the disgraceful attack on Katanga; to withdraw aid promised for the Cuban invasion.

In the name of "Foreign Aid" we send vast amounts of wheat to Poland, which is fed to their hogs and sent back to us in the form of choice Polish hams. We supply modern factories and "know-how," then subsidize the importation of their slave-labor products.

It is most disheartening to have our tax money given, as "Foreign Aid," to Communist governments, also used to train their pilots and technicians here, and to subsidize the free delivery of tons of their printed matter.

So-called "Foreign Aid" has caused inflation both here and abroad. We all know what hardships that means.

In his State of the Union speech, President Kennedy quoted: "Righteousness exalteth a Nation,"—although he failed to say the rest of its,—"but sin is a reproach to any people."

There is no substitute for morality.

People Get What They Deserve

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

May I thank Anne Smart and F. P. Sherry for independently coinciding to form an exact picture of the fastest growing governmental problem in their July 24 "Say"; criticizing a local school board for hiring an "expert," and having heard "nothing but talk about entrance" to the south side of San Rafael, respectively? The "know how" which got us where we are has certainly ballooned into a "Go How?" fad today.

Our government is supposed to get the necessary things done through elected and appointed officials. Results are contingent upon these agent's abilities, and our willingness to pay the bill. The local "watchdog," or press, reports on this. All the means are here.

Individual reaction such as theirs determines direction. With proper application, of course. By firing hired hands, furnishing the money, or cancelling newspaper subscriptions.

In any event, we are not without that irrefutable and most profound part of democracy. People get the government they deserve.

Light Industry Needed In Marin

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

. . . I should like to suggest that the recent defeat in Novato of a proposed increase in the school tax rate, might be a worthy subject for an editorial.

The negative result of this voting has been blamed on a lack of full understanding by the voters as to what the proposition entailed. A more logical interpretation would seem to be that the voters understood only too well what was involved, and that this, and similar results throughout the county, were actually protests against the lack of effort to broaden the tax base by those responsible.

One doesn't have to be an expert to know that a narrow tax base means high taxes—that light industry could broaden a narrow tax base—and, that the climate of Marin County officialdom could not be called inviting to light industry. While the expressed aim to "Preserve the character of Marin County" is a worthy one, examples of light industry complexes exist nearby which have certainly not destroyed the "character" of their locale. Common sense indicates that our county could profit by these examples. It also indicates that the expression of an individual opinion will not have much effect on prevailing attitudes.

But, if the Editorial Voice were to amplify that opinion—thereby might hang a different tale. It's all yours—if you want it.

W. W. BEEBE

Novato

(ED. NOTE: The I-J has with considerable regularity supported those things which would bring orderly and valuable development—including light industry—to broaden our tax rate; and we have consistently opposed those which we thought would have the opposite effect. Sometimes we have felt that ours was a lone voicce. Bully to Reader Beebe for letting us know that our views are shared by others.)

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Lillian Roth, starring in "I Can Get It for You Wholesale," says that a story that never failed her in a pinch concerns the elegant lady who boasted, "Look what my friend gave me! An alligator bag! An alligator belt! And these alligator shoes!" "Goodness," exclaimed a bystander. "Your friend must be a philanthropist." "Oh, no," replied the elegant lady. "He's an alligator."

What is the fate of people who give away the solutions to good mystery stories? Vincent Starrett has one answer. Ten years ago an Agatha Christie whodunit called "The Mousetrap" opened in a London theatre. The next day the London Sunday Dispatch in its review revealed the identity of the murderer—a dastardly trick. The producers moaned, "That does us in: we'll close Saturday night." But wait . . . this isn't what happened at all. Fact is, "The Mousetrap" recently registered its 4,000th performance, and is still packing them in. And the Sunday Dispatch has gone out of business!

The late Stephen Leacock took a dim view of retirement. "Have nothing to do with it," he sternly warned a conclave of Montreal business men. "Retirement is like this, gentlemen. Have you ever been out for a late autumn walk in the closing part of the afternoon, and suddenly looked up to realize that the leaves have practically all gone? And the sun has set and the day gone before you know it—and with that a cold wind blows across the landscape? That's retirement."

Fog Is Confusing; People Can Be Lost In It When Sun Is Shining

BETWEEN THE mental and physical fog these Marin mornings it's a wonder I grope my way to the office. Someday I mean to miss it and see if the boss misses me. But so far my courage has failed.

Much of my misspent life has been a search for adventure. In Mill Valley at this season I've finally found how to have exciting fun without being shot at.

Long ago it was carefully explained to me why our fogs come in during the summer. Wife Agnes, a native Californian, went into detail about how the rising hot air of the interior sucks in cold air from off the ocean.

The next thing was that we got some fog when there was cold weather inland so I had to laugh and show my ignorance. But undoubtedly the suction story is right; it's just that fog is complicated like everything else nowadays.

WHEN IT'S COLD inland there is always plenty of hot air rising from Marin County city halls and courthouse. And I notice that practically everybody thereabouts is in a fog, even when the sun shines.

Agnes feels responsible for not only educating me on fog, but making me like it.

When the mist is blowing across our high ridge like the high snows of Tibet, and I'm tottering down the walk blinder than an umpire, Agnes will come to the front door and inhale as though there was a hot steak nearby.

"People from the valleys love this!" Agnes will say. "They come to the coast and rub this stuff on their faces like cats with catnip!"

Let us have no San Fernando Valley cats caterwauling in Marin County back yards.

IT SEEMS TO ME I've tried most of the weather currently available on our globe. On the whole, what we have here rates high.

No fog I've ever run into could compare with what used to boil into Shanghai from over the Whangpoo River and in from the China Sea. Trying to drive to my office from the western areas of Frenchtown, I've found myself in a wrong street heading a wrong way and no idea how I got there. London may do it better but I doubt that.

There is a lot to be said about the full force of a Manila typhoon, but it's mainly unprintable.

The warm sticky "nyubai" weather of Tokyo can be just about intolerable but just go 1,500 miles up the Yangtze to what was China's wartime capital of Chungking. There you'll find something that really IS intolerable.

WHEN I BUILT a Colorado house 7,600 feet up I ran into some cold weather; but not as cold as Montana where I was brought up, which wasn't as cold as Minnesota where I was born, and I think the coldest of the lot was the unheated top-floor dormitory I once occupied in Madison, Wis.

I've been south of Hobart, Tasmania, and north of Anchorage, Alaska, but I'd match Minneapolis or Madison against both.

On the other hand I grew meteorologically malcontent during three years on and about the beach at Waikiki. Somehow I never could stand too much comfort.

Marin County gives us weather of just the right kind, never really bad and usually mighty good.

I can live with it if it will live with me.

Voters Not Apathetic On U.S. Issues; Just Ask First Things First

WASHINGTON—Two fashionable political opinions now sprouting in Washington need to be questioned.

One is that the American people are indifferent to social reform and that this is the reason President Kennedy is having a hard time with his domestic program in Congress.

The other is that the President made the mistake of trying to twist congressmen's arms instead of persuading voters to do so.

IT STRIKES me that the controlling reason the great body of American voters do not leap to tell Congress they want what Kennedy says they should want is not that they are indifferent to new social legislation, but that they apply a sense of priorities to the legislative timetable, while the White House asks everything at once.

In due course there will be a medicare program which Congress can approve; new farm legislation costing less than $7 billion a year.

There is no evidence that voters demand that these things happen overnight or that they are annoyed at Congress for indicating that Kennedy should slow down.

The answer may well be that instinctively the voters—and taxpayers—are intent upon putting first things first.

They put first the military, economic, and political conduct of the cold war. In this field public opinion strongly backs everything the President has asked and Congress given the President just about everything he has asked. These include sizable economic-aid funds, substantial defense budget increases, support for U. S. cooperation with the European Common Market; whatever is needed to equal and possibly pass the Soviets in outer space.

Nothing is held back where it is most needed. But on controversial domestic matters, such as medical care, public opinion is not demanding speed. By refusing to push Congress it applies a sense of priority different from that of the President.

THE SUGGESTION that Kennedy ought to go to the country to generate heat under Congress implies that he hasn't been doing so. If he has failed, it isn't from lack of trying. He has steadily used his press conferences for this purpose. He is the most fully reported, most widely and frequently TV-exposed president in American history.

Mr. Kennedy's dilemma is this: how can he persuade voters to defeat Republican opponents of medicare without simultaneously persuading them to defeat Democratic opponents of medicare?

I think the country broadly supports some kind of medicare and other social reforms, but the priorities of the cold war unquestionably come first.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Horse And Buggy Rules No Longer Apply In Bridge

If you listen to older people, you'll get a lot of bad advice. They'll tell you to watch out for the horsecars and to play third hand high. If you're still living in the horse and buggy age, you can afford to follow both of these warnings.

Opening lead — ♠ 2

Here's a typical situation in which it is fatal to play third hand high. It's a very common position, but most players mishandle it.

OPENS DEUCE

West opens the deuce of spades, dummy plays the nine, and East usually flubs the hand by following a horse-and-buggy rule.

If East plays high in third position, by putting up the jack, South makes the contract.

See what happens. East plays the jack, and South wins with the queen. Now South can get three spade tricks, since he can win a finesse with dummy's ten and eventually can cash dummy's ace.

MODERN PLAY

South can easily develop two heart tricks and one diamond to add to the three spades and the three sure clubs. Thus he runs home with nine tricks, making the game and rubber.

The result is quite different if East makes a modern, intelligent play. East plays the encouraging seven of spades at the first trick instead of giving up his jack.

This allows dummy to win the first trick with the nine.

CONTROL SUIT

Declarer leads a heart from dummy, losing to the ace. West, understanding what is going on in spades, returns the king of spades. This forces out dummy's ace and South's queen, but East still has the jack of spades to control the suit.

Now South gets only two spade tricks. He falls one trick short instead of winning the game and rubber.

Don't be in a hurry to play the jack in third position when dummy has A-10-x or A-10-9.

You probably cannot stop declarer from getting two tricks in the suit, but you can prevent him from winning all three.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 1, the 213th day of 1962 with 152 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning starts are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1907, an aeronautical division was set up in the office of the chief signal officer, U.S. Army, marking the formal creation of the U.S. Air Force.

In 1946, the Atomic Energy Commission was established.

A thought for the day: English author and playwright Oscar Wilde said: "No woman should ever be quite accurate about her age. It looks so calculating."

Flying Curtailed For Defense Test

All civilian aircraft will be grounded from noon to 5:30 p.m. (PDT) on Sept. 2 to clear the air for a Sky Shield exercise of the North American Air Defense Command, it was announced today at Hamilton Air Force Base.

This will restrict all commercial flights over continental United States, including Alaska and Canada.

The exercise is called Sky Shield III. It is the latest of a series to test the North American Air Defense System as a whole.

A similar exercise was held on Oct. 14, 1961.

Physicists' Lost, Found

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Dr. E. O. Hartig, a Phoenix physicist, noticed his boss, Robert Mayne, was wearing a new wristwatch.

"Where did you get the watch?" Hartig asked.

"I found it at a swimming pool and never was able to locate the owner," Mayne answered.

"Is that watch inscribed 'Love to Bud'?" Hartig inquired.

Mayne said, "It sure is."

"May I have my watch back?" Hartig asked.

Delinquents Talk It Over

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Essexfields, an experimental center for juvenile delinquents, gets the kids together to talk over their problems and deficiencies.

Selected boys gather for 80 sessions of group therapy over a four-month period. They chip and blast away at each others' lies or pretentions, and the effort to reform becomes a matter of group pride.

"You're a punk here if you're not trying to solve your problems," says Essexfields director Saul Pilnick.

Mill Valley Pianists To Play Concert Duo

Milton and Peggy Salkind, Mill Valley duo concert pianists and teachers, will appear Friday at 9 p.m. on TV station KQED's summer music festival.

Their program will include compositions by Johann Christian Bach, Ravel, Mozart, Schubert, Bizet, and Seymour Shifrin.

STARTS FRIDAY

'Henry V' To Play For 4 Weekends

Shakespeare "Henry V," will play for four weekends on the amphitheater stage at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, starting Friday.

The Marin Shakespeare Festival's second production this season ("Twelfth Night" was the first) is directed by Old Vic graduate Jack Aranson. King Henry V is played by John Brebner.

Curtain time for the Friday and Saturday night performances is 8:30. A matinee is scheduled for Aug. 19 at 4 p.m.

Many of the performers in the first production will be seen in "Henry V." Also in the cast are actors from Actors Workshop in San Francisco.

On Sunday at 4 p.m. the Festival will present a performance of motets, madrigals and folk songs by the Winifred Baker a Capella Chorus at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Also at the special performance, Elizabethan solos by soprano Selma Brix, accompanied on the harpsichord by Margery Bagshaw, will be performed.

Tickets to the special performance are available at the box office. For the play, tickets may be obtained at the Sherman Clay box office in San Francisco and San Rafael.

High School Girl Does College Work

Nancy Ann Larsen of San Rafael is one of 62 gifted high school students in the Bay Area who this year completed courses at the University of California in Berkeley while at the same time following regular high school studies.

The program, started two years ago, is open to all qualified high school seniors and to some exceptional junior students. Miss Larsen, who graduated from San Rafael High School in June, completed a beginning course in classical archaeology.

Enrollment from Marin County is limited, according to Dean Johnson, university information officer, because of the length of time in traveling to Berkeley. The students are expected to complete a full high school program at the same time.

Larkspur Council To Eye Sewer Bids

Bids for laying a new sewer line in Doherty Drive will be opened at the Larkspur City Council meeting at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The council will hold a hearing on an application by Niels Schultz Sr. to annex about one-half acre of his Greenbrae Marina subdivision.

The council will consider erecting a stop sign at La Cuesta Drive and Paseo Way.

Auto Makers On Their Marks For Renewed Wheelbase Race

After three years of compacts, there's a feeling American car manufacturers are trying to get customers back on longer wheelbases. Some models will be lengthened in 1963 lines and designers are working to make the swing to longer dimensions more pronounced in 1964.

Even American Motors which has held to conservative style changes and the premise that compact preference is good for 50 per cent of the market seems reconciled to some modification. Rambler American's wheelbase in 1964 is expected to be lengthened six inches.

There's some talk that the Chevy II line will be dropped in 1964 and replaced by a new one comparable to Ford Fairlane, Buick Special, Olds F-85 and Pontiac Tempest. This would become the standard-size Chevrolet. Inasmuch as Chevy II has done unusually well since coming out last fall (arriving at second place in the compact market), one wonders where the logic is.

ALL OF WHICH is encouraging European car manufacturers once more to recover that part of the American market which likes its cars small and well engineered, according to Bud Oden of Marin Triumph, San Rafael.

Bud recently returned from a month's trip, taking in the Lions' International Congress at Nice, and then traveling 3,000 miles throughout England, France, Italy and Switzerland in a Triumph TR-4 hardtop. Making visits to the Triumph factory and those of Fiat and Alpha-Romeo, he saw Triumph's new Vitesse due here this month as "Triumph Super-Six."

Other factories, too, are getting new sports and sedan models ready for the American market. The tendency is to raise their horsepower and size enough to compete in our compact field—or occupy it if it is abandoned. They will still hold to economy in fuel consumption, however.

One way or the other you'll still be able to get a compact.

THREE San Rafael merchants were the subject of feature stories in Fairchild national trade publications last month. A fourth and fifth are expected to be added shortly.

Sidney Schwartz of Schwartz's, Inc. men's wear and Ron Varney of Junior Esquire Shop made print in the Daily News Wear. Jon Robert Meyer of the new Jon Robert store in Montecito Shopping Center had a story in Women's Wear Daily. Still tabbed for writeups are Ken McKenzie of Children's Bootery in Footwear News and Tom McGruder in Daily News Record.

There's a good reason, of course. Al Morch, reporter who did the stories for Fairchild Publications, recently moved to Marinwood and he's getting the feel of the county.

WE HEAR that one paint manufacturer has gone so far as to give its latex formulation the smell of lemonade to make do-it-yourself jobs more pleasant.

That may be but Charles Goeppner of Sherwin-Williams in San Rafael says the important thing with water-base paint is having the right undercoat. Just any old primer won't do, he cautions. Use the wrong one and after a few years the whole job will "smell."

College May Ask Help Picking Site

Marin Junior College District trustees will decide tomorrow night whether to name a committee to advise them on selection of a second campus site. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in room 61 of the art building.

A second campus, in North Marin, was approved by voters last June 5 when they passed a 10-year, $11,305,000 College of Marin Expansion.

Trustees will hold a hearing on the fiscal 1963 budget, which now calls for outlay of $2,869,983.

'Crazy Dayz' Sale Set For Novato

Novato merchants will hold a city-wide "crazy dayz clearance" sale tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

They will offer more than $2,000 in prizes during the three-day event. Drawing will be held approximately every half hour at participating stores. Winners must be present to collect their prizes.

This is the fourth annual sale staged by Novato merchants.

Commendation Medal

Maj. Walter J. Meyer Jr., son of Mr and Mrs. Walter J. Meyer Sr. of 508 Shasta Way, Mill Valley, was recently awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal at a ceremony at the Ballistic Systems Divisions command post in Los Angeles.

He was awarded the medal for meritorious service as aircraft commander of the Ballistic Systems Division staff aircraft.

Marin Delegation To Attend Bar Sessions

San Rafael attorney Carlos R. Freitas will be a delegate-at-large to the state bar convention in Beverly Hills, Sept. 17-21. He is a past member of the state bar executive committee.

Delegates from the Marin County Bar Assn., headed by chairman Wallace S. Myers, are Mrs. Ann L. Diamond and Albin L. Bjorklund Jr. Alternates are William R. Talley, Charles W. Pierce and Jay R. MacMahon.

If there is a line of other flags in a procession, the National Flag should be front center of that line.

"A banner Deal"

The deal I made with Ames Ford on a new Econoline Van was as trim as the banners decorating their new service area at 619 Francisco Blvd. A nice outfit to serve and to deal with.

PAST IN PICTURES— C. V. (Jack) Brennan, retiring tomorrow from 31 years of service as a San Quentin prison officer, shows a few of the photographs he made in connection with varied duties he performed. Some of his work has been published in national magazine features about the prison. (Independent-Journal photo)

PRISON OFFICER RETIRES

Part-Time Job Lasts 31 Years

By RICHARD CARBONEAU

Cyril V. (Jack) Brennan retired officially today from a job he took as part-time work during the depression 31 years ago.

The 64-year-old San Quentin Prison records officer, who is nimble enough to enjoy water skiing, has just finished moving into the house he and his wife bought eight years ago at 14 Sunview Drive in San Anselmo.

In the years since he started as a guard on June 29, 1931, Brennan has seen many changes at San Quentin. Guards are now "correctional officers" and convicts are "inmates," although a new trend may change the designation to "patients."

"But I'll buy it," said Brennan, who looks on California's correctional system as a model for the world even though "we make mistakes."

Brennan lived on Morningside Drive in San Anselmo and was in the real estate business in 1931. He went with a group of real estate men on an appraisal trip to San Quentin, where he met James Houlihan, who was then the warden.

"The depression was on," he recalled. "There was no business. So I asked Houlihan about a job.

"He thought I was kidding. He said, 'You're not tough enough.' But I told him I was, too; I was brought up in the 18th Ward of Chicago. I went to see him again and he hired me."

After being a guard Brennan became a jute mill officer, worked in the shipping department at the waterfront, and then went into the prison's identification section when it was discovered he formerly had been a professional photographer.

The jute mill, where burlap grain sacks were made, was then the "training school," Brennan said. As far as preparing inmates for work on the outside was concerned, it was "entirely wasted effort." There was no group counseling as such, he said, "but "I was closer to the 40 or 50 men under me than I would be today; I knew them cover to cover."

California prisons, before the establishment of the Department of Corrections, were "monarchies of their own," Brennan said.

Better record system, elimination of the "con boss" system, a better vocational training program, and better-qualified personnel are among the improvements Brennan has seen. But he said shortcomings of the old system were due largely to lack of money to do a proper job.

The great transition at San Quentin began with Warden Clinton T. Duffy, who instituted such things as a hobby shop, radios, a better canteen, and improved visiting and letter-writing privileges for inmates, Brennan said.

It certainly is not a dull place to work," said Brennan. "There's always something going on." He said he has been "in the middle" of every big happening at San Quentin in 31 years.

An example was a 1935 scandal in which a counterfeiting ring was uncovered in the prison photo shop. In its wake, Brennan, with his phographic experience, was assigned to help set up the section in such a way as to forestall a recurrence.

"We just did away with the photoengraving," he said.

Brennan's career enabled him to put his stepson, Dr. Louis Arnaud of Walnut Creek through four years at the University of California and additional schooling at Stanford.

Now that Brennan has retired, he and his wife plan to split their time between Marin County and Palm Springs, spending six months in each by wintering to the south in a trailer.

After having lived 25 years on the prison reservation, the Brennans said there is a different feeling living "outside."

"You don't get the same feeling of security," explained Mrs. Brennan.

Vacationer Returns, Finds Liquor Stolen

A one-week holiday cost him $18 in choice Scotch and bourbon, Lloyd Williamson Forbes of 302 Montford Avenue, Mill Valley, told the sheriff's office Sunday.

The liquor was kept in a closet built outside of his house. When he returned from a trip out of the county he found the wooden door ripped off and the liquor gone.

Burglar's Loot Valued At $300

A thief broke into a home in Reedlands and stole about $300 worth of appliances and jewelry, the owner reported Monday.

Miss Jennifer B. Rhoades of 6 Greenwood Court, told Sgt. Guy V. Gibbs that she got home about 2 p.m. yesterday and found the porch door broken.

Missing are a tape recorder, numerous records, two small cameras, a radio with two speakers, and necklaces and earrings. Miss Rhoades and Miss Patricia M. Conway occupy the house, which is owned by Frank M. Gibson, who is now in Japan.

Mattresses, Raft Taken

Several air mattresses and a two-man life raft were stolen over the weekend from a Sleepy Hollow poolside, owner Ruth Deane Crawford of 36 Tappan Court told Deputy Sheriff William N. McKillop Monday.

Auto Workers May Get Shares Of Stock

DETROIT (UPI)—Each American Motors Corp. worker may get six shares of AMC stock this fall because of the firm's historic profit sharing contract with the United Auto Workers Union.

Based on AMC's nine-month financial report issued last week, the profit sharing agreement is now worth about $260 extra for each of the firm's 25,000 workers.

Some of that money will be paid out in stock, but two thirds of it will go into a special fund to finance employee benefits like pensions, health insurance and short work week payments.

The agreement was negotiated last summer by UAW President Walter P. Reuther and AMC Vice President Edward L. Cushman. It was the first contract negotiated in the 1961 auto talks and gave the union a mighty lever against the Big Three of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Both Reuther and Cushman called the agreement an historic one since it was the first profit sharing contract ever negotiated with a major automaker.

The pact links most employee benefits to AMC profits. The formula provides that from annual profits before taxes, an amount equal to 10 per cent of the company net worth of 220 million dollars be set aside for stockholders. That would be 22 million dollars.

Of the remaining 10 per cent would be placed in a progress sharing fund and another 5 per ment would be set aside for stock issued to employees.

The first computation will be made after the present AMC fiscal year ends Sept. 30. To finance benefits during this, the first year of the contract, AMC transferred three million dollars from an insurance fund to the progress sharing fund.

The formula works out this way the first nine months of the AMC year: The firm has made 65.5 million dollars before taxes. From this, subtract 22 million dollars for stockholders equity, leaving 43.3 million dollars.

Of that total, $450,000 or 10 per cent, goes into the progress sharing fund, and $2,175,000 or 5 per cent is earmarked for employee stock. The total 6.5 million dollars equals $260 per worker.

AMC profits are running 50 per cent above last year. In the fourth quarter last year, the firm made five million dollars. Thus they could make 7.5 million dollars in the last quarter this year.

Marin City Homes Find Ready Buyers

Twenty-four Marin City families have made deposits on three and four-bedroom homes with Barrett Homes Inc., it was announced today by Bert Klahn executive director of the Marin County Redevelopment Agency.

All now live in the "temporary" World War II housing.

Grading of the first lots for the new homes began yesterday.

"Most of the people have been waiting for an opportunity to buy a home in Marin City almost 20 years, Klahn said. "Now that they are available, it's like a gold rush."

Pile and back are 100% finest cotton, vat dyed and color fast! Pre-shrunk and fully washable—the size you buy is the size it stays! Luxuriously thick pile—just 1/16th short of ONE INCH HIGH. At this sale price only limited amounts of each color—but enough of every one for three average size rooms or more—so hurry in and choose from all the colors—muted beige, sand beige, moss green and gold, ancient ivory, or buff.

This is the famous carpet made from continuous filament 501 nylon... it's the toughest carpet yarn ever made! It wears and wears and W-E-A-R-S! Because the dyes are included before the fibers are made, the colors are fade-resistant as never before! Random hi-lo loop pattern as illustrated above, choice of popular colors of frosted cocoa, Montego sand, or limestone. On sale for three Dollar Days only—order now and save!

The Francis Beardsleys of Carmel are proud of their first child, Joseph John Beardsley—even though the youngster increases their family to 21 members. Average Income Resort Vacations Predicted Soon

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)— Resort vacations, now out of the reach of many average income families, will be in the budget plans by 1970 of an estimated 50 to 75 per cent more citizens, according to a Michigan State University tourist specialist.

"National studies show that families earning over $4,000 per year after taxes spend a lot more on leisure and recreation than those with lower incomes," said Robert McIntosh.

In 1957, the American Institute for Economic Research estimated about 24.3 million families earned more than $4,000 per year. By 1970 this figure is expected to reach 46 million families, McIntosh said.

The estimates were based on the assumption that production per person will rise about 3 per cent each year between now and 1970, just as it has since 1946, and that the growing population will boost the man hours of labor about 1.2 per cent each year.

"Putting these together, America's production of goods and services should increase nearly 50 per cent by 1970," McIntosh said.

In 1970, the tourist and resort specialist predicted, American families would earn about $225 billion above what they will spend for "necessities." This would be almost double the amount now available for "luxury" expenditures.

"All this paints a bright picture for resorts," McIntosh said.

Police Called Fifty Years Behind Times

NEW YORK (UPI)—One reason American business — and society—pay such a big price for crime every year is that our police departments are 50 years behind the times, the president of American Society of Criminology says.

"The scientific lab procedures you see on the big TV crime shows just aren't used by real life police to any great extent—not even in our biggest cities," said Donal J. MacNamara, who also is dean of the New York Institute of Criminology. "The FBI is the only detective force in the nation with a real high scientific standard—although many of the state police forces are improving steadily in using scientific methods."

MacNamara said also the police detective of real life bears little resemblance to the brilliant and highly educated sleuths who serve as the heroes for the most entertaining British and American detective fiction.

"Instead, he's a chap without too much education who only got to be a detective after serving an apprenticeship in a squad car or pounding a beat by dint of a single act of valor or perhaps a little pull," said MacNamara.

We have only one full time university school of criminology, at the University of California, although perhaps 100 colleges have survey or program courses in criminology, he said.

"A youngster with a degree in criminology who joins one of our metropolitan police forces has no better chance of being promoted to detective under the present system than a husky chump who flunked out of high school," said MacNamara. "Hardly any of our police forces employ any full time criminologists or use their services on a consultative basis. As a result, criminologists teach or work for defense lawyers or for foundations and corporations."

MacNamara said there is no doubt that if the police forces would catch up with what the criminologist has learned about scientific detection and preventive measures, more offenders would be caught and law enforcement would be much improved.

But that will take a lot of doing. "Chicago not long ago engaged O. W. Wilson, former dean of the University of California School of Criminology, as its superintendent of police," MacNamara said. "But Wilson has had a rough time getting the high ranking career cops to accept his ideas."

MacNamara thinks the first step to bringing police forces up to date is to modify seniority rules and promotion procedures so the skills of a youngster with a degree in criminology will not be wasted while he pounds a beat. "Ironically," he said, "New York City pays a patrolman $7,900 a year after three years—that's enough money to attract the university trained man if he were allowed to use his educational skills immediately."

The second, and perhaps the more important step, MacNamara said, is to send police detectives with some years of practical experience to the universities at public expense to study scientific criminology. "That would really pay off fast, I'm convinced," he said.

Art, Science Strange Result

ATLANTA (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy M. Van Schleven is a seventh grade science teacher who wants her pupils to understand the relationship between the sciences and the arts. She asked her class to create something using common objects around their homes.

Bobby Wood took his material from a biology laboratory and his technique from the avant garde. This is how he came up with a nonrepresentational painting:

"I took some plain old fishing worms and dipped them in paint. Then I took them out with tweezers and let them wriggle across a piece of plywood that I had painted white. Then I dipped the tweezers in the paint and flung the paint across the board.

Student Art For 'The Speling Bea'

MEMPHIS (AP)—A high school art class prepared the banners to be worn by contestants in the Shelby County spelling bee and were justly proud of the 122 neatly lettered labels.

But students of Scenic Hills Elementary School may have trouble recognizing their representative. His banner reads "Senic Hills."

El Paso Mayor Ralph Seitsinger wonders which hat to wear, the Mexican Sombrero or the Texas type, as he receives word of improved Texas-Mexican relations. Folks in that neck of the woods often speak Spanish, too. (UPI photo)

Fallout Shelter Going Under Front Lawn

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Bespectacled Abraham David Kaner is building his family fallout shelter under the front lawn exactly where he tried to put it three years ago when, he said, "bureaucratic officials" in suburban University City wouldn't let him.

"They owe me an apology," said Kaner. He said he had been "shuted from pillar to post" seeking a permit "for a fallout shelter Civil Defense wanted people to build."

Kaner, 64, said the city officials gave him the "proverbial run around," because "they didn't want the shelter in front of the house."

He said he was told to build in back of his house, but he pleaded that excavating machinery couldn't maneuver in the limited backyard space.

"I even sent telegrams to the Civil Defense in Washington and President Kennedy," Kaner said.

Things are different now. Kaner has won his case.

The crux in the matter was the University City zoning laws, which banned obstructions in front of residences.

Kaner, a construction man, explained to officials that the only obstructions would be "two exhaust pipes," which he offered to reduce in height from 10 to 3 feet and that he would even disguise the black steel pipes to make them look like lanterns.

"But they said 'no' again," Kaner said. "Finally, they said it was all right to build underground on the front lawn if I would extend the pipes to the back of the house.

"But that would cost an additional $300, so I said 'no.'"

Kaner complained that "they were even making fun of me."

He said during one of the many times he pleaded for a building permit, an office secretary greeted him "do you think we are going to be bombed?"

"So I told her it's not what I think but I do not know what Khrushchev thinks," Kaner said.

All the time, Kaner said, he hoped officials would see his thinking in the matter.

"My wife Ruth," he said, "wanted to give up. She said 'let's move to another community.'"

Kaner told her that "men cannot change houses as they exchange a pair of gloves."

"What made them change their minds about building in front of the house?" Kaner was asked.

"Time changed their thinking," he said, "and I didn't give up."

Of his three-year fight, Kaner said "I don't want to be a slave."

"The world is divided into two ideologies," he said. "Not just Russian and American. It's the free man or the conquered man."

Grand Jury Foreman Took Time To Tell

ATLANTA (AP)—A Fulton County Grand Jury had been in session for about four months when its foreman, Jack Isenberg, was replace with another foreman.

Isenberg lived in an adjoining county and was ineligible to serve.

Young Congressman Brings House Down With Magic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On April 26, 1956, a wavy-haired young congressman, just finishing his first term, made an obscure bit of legislative history. He performed magic in the House.

So fas as Rep. Kenneth J. Gray (D-Ill.) can find out, no one before and certainly no one since has used prestidigitation in a speech on the House floor.

Doing a sleight-of-hand trick in Congress would hardly seem to be the kind of legislative accomplishment most members would relish. But Gray is an uncommon kind of lawmaker.

He was only 28 years old when voters of the 25th district in southeastern Illinois sent him to Congress. Although he originally planned to return to private life next year, Gray now has decided to seek a fifth two-year term next fall.

In addition to being the "baby" of Congress in 1954 Gray also was the only former professional automobile auctioneer and amateur magician. He performs magic only for civic or church groups in his home district.

Perhaps the most noteworthy of his private showings was the night Gray, with Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), performed the classic levitation trick, using former Sen. Allen Frear (D-Del.), now a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, as his subject.

Gray's magic moment in the House came during debate on the 1956 Federal Interstate Highway Act—the law that set up the nation's 41,000-mile system of superhighways.

Gray, a member of the House Public Works Committee, took the floor, carrying a pot of red roses to the lectern with him. He recounted the "rosy" prospects for the superhighway system the year before and said they were killed off by the demands of one pressure group after another.

As he spoke of the lobbyists who had nipped off part of the program, Gray snapped off red roses from the bouquet. Finally, only bare stems were left in the pot.

But then, he said, things began looking up again for the highway program and, with the bill then ready for passage, the roses were growing again. And so they did, as a full set of white roses budded and grew from the barren stems.

Gray says his performance "brought the House down," but when the late Speaker Sam Raburn, who was not in the chamber, asked him later about the pot of roses in the cloakroom, the young Illinois congressman realized he had better refrain from an encore.

"He didn't say don't do it again, but you remember that look of his," Gray recalls.

She Makes Hats From Corn Husks

GROVES, Tex. (UPI) — If you think a person can use all of an ear of corn except the shucks, you have another think coming.

Mrs. Holton E. Rasco makes the shucks into hats.

This sprightly 62-year-old woman has been making hats from corn husks since she was a child.

An hour and a half of work and patience separates 120 strips of corn shucks, a piece of cloth and some artificial flowers from the finished hat, Mrs. Rasco says.

She takes corn shuck strips about four inches long and one inch wide and folds them into a pattern that links them together. Then she sews on a lining of cotton or silk, a flower or two for color and a streamer of ribbon to tie the hat around the wearer's neck, or for an added decoration.

Mrs. Rasco dries the corn shucks in a clothes dryer to get them ready for hatmaking.

Square dance groups like the hats for costumes. Other women find them right for beach wear.

Mrs. Rasco says the usual price for a corn shuck hat is $3, but adds: "Shucks, I give lots of them away."

Explorer Probes Past From Airplane With His Camera

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traditional archeologists poke into the past with a pick and shovel. They would have to look up to American explorer George Michanowsky.

High above the Amazon jungle in a Bolivian air force plane, Michanowsky's group has probed the past with a tool of the present—infrared aerial photography. He is considered the first to have used the new tool successfully for archeological explorations.

Infrared aerial photographs taken during a recent expedition in Bolivia brought into view, Michanowsky reported, segments of a prehistoric road unseen in modern times. The road linked sites of a pre-Inca civilization with what Michanowsky believes was a shrine area in the dense jungle below.

The explorer, who plans to return to Bolivia in the near future, hopes to make even more significant finds with his infrared equipment.

"Where there are roads there must be things the roads led to and from," he said. "The roads weren't built just because there was a cousin who was a contractor."

Discovery of the road has convinced Michanowsky that one archeological theory "needs to be completely re-evaluated." The theory holds that pre-Inca and Inca peoples developed a civilization in the Andes, somewhat separate from jungle dwellers far below them geographically and culturally.

"We should talk about an Andes-Amazon complex," Michanowsky maintains.

This past summer, the thin dark line that showed up on photographic paper after his flights confirmed what Michanowsky had long suspected. "There had to be a road," he said.

Michanowsky's other aerial photography surveys since 1956 had uncovered segments of a pedestrian road in the high Andes. He suspected that the road led to the confluence of two Amazon river tributaries and to the jungle sanctuary he had discovered on a previous expedition.

But the road disappeared into the jungle-covered foothills of the Andes. Exploration on foot appeared virtually impossible, Michanowsky said, in an area where "the highest peaks of the Andes drop into the green hell of jungle at sea level."

Ordinary aerial photographs would not penetrate the haze, clouds and thick jungle cover. Michanowsky decided that infra-red photography, with light waves longer than those in visible light, might be as effective in archeology as it had been in military reconnaissance.

With the enthusiastic cooperation of the Bolivian air force he photographed the area with infrared equipment. The photos showed clearly the route of the road.

Infrared aerial photos also brought out, for the first time, the configuration of a cloud-shrouded peak at the airlane approaches of El Alto Air Base, highest airstrip in the world at some 13,500 feet above sea level. Planes had crashed into the slopes of the peak.

Testimony to the value of Michanowsky's photographs came from a high Bolivian air force officer.

"These photographs," he wrote, "the first ever taken to show El Centinela without the camouflage of clouds and in its geographic relationship to the principal peaks of the Andean chain in this area, will be of vital navigational assistance to our Andes-Amazon air bridge program."

Michanowsky is president of the Amazonia Foundation, which he established in 1952 to explore prehistoric Andes-Amazon civilizations and to strengthen inter American cultural cooperation.

Crowd Makes Up Grandparents

TULSA (AP)—The young twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dutsch don't lack for grandparents. They have 12.

Darryl Dean and Delor Dwayne, both April 26, have maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Harkreader and maternal great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Staub and Mrs. O. H. Harkreader.

On their father's side, the list is longer — grandparents Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Dutsch, great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dutsch and Mrs. J. O. McMichael and great-great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McMichael.

All the grandparents live in Tulsa except Mrs. O. H. Harkreader, who lives in Salem, Ore.

Courthouse Moonshine

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP) — Jackson County authorities had some fast explaining to do when a cache of well-aged bootleg whisky was found in the basement of the county courthouse.

The liquor, discovered during a house cleaning, apparently had been seized during a prohibition-era raid.

Must Have Been Something He Ate

WELLINGTON, Kan. (AP) — George Sandell Jr. fell while working on a scaffold. He was taken to a hospital but doctors said his back was not hurt.

But when Sandell complained of a severe pain, the doctor decided it might be from a bad appendix. It was.

Operating, doctors found two buckshot in it. Sandell had been eating rabbit, shot on a recent hunt.

Tool Industry Competition

NEW YORK (UPI) — Foreign competition has killed off 41 per cent of the jobs in the American hand tool industry since 1947, according to Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

About 100 American hand tool producers have been affected by the "hardware disease" — imported hand tool price competition due largely to the lower comparative wage rates which favor foreign producers of hammers, screwdrivers, pliers, wrenches and other hand tools, the publication said.

EXAMPLES

A major mail order company catalogs automatic screwdrivers from abroad at $1.98 while the American-made original sells for $4.28 at local hardware stores, Steelways said.

"With his average total hourly remuneration now hitting about $2.90 an hour, the American hand tool worker may be the envy of his 28-cent an hour Japanese competitor or even his $1.18 an hour Swedish competitor — but the competitors have the jobs and the American worker has paid for his enviable status either with the very job that created it, or with a reduction in his working hours," the publication said.

DISCREPANCIES

Steelways said, however, that labor cost discrepancies are not the whole story. It cited two other factors contributing to the competitive handicap facing domestic hand tool producers as:

1. Trade mark and other design and sales deception practiced by foreign producers — such as pirating of costly product design and sales packaging.

2. Impulse "price buying" by consumers which tends to obscure such quality advantages as American tools have over imports.

LITTLE 'GIRL' NOW BIG BOY

By looking at Bryon Howell you would never have guessed he was a boy with his long blond hair. However, mother Joan took him to the barber in East Point, Ga., for the first time in his two years of life and got him a man's haircut, even if it did cause mother to cover her face and shed some tears. Won't Take Nyet For An Answer

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— Some months ago Elliot Sherwood received a circular saying a series of reference was being reserved for him, the first volume to be on Russia.

An enclosed return address card asked whether Sherwood wanted to buy the books. He wrote "nyet" on the appropriate line and mailed the card.

Someone in the publishing firm apparently didn't know "nyet" was Russian for "no." One by one Sherwood has received the reference volumes, which he has kept unopened to await developments. His correspondence from the publisher comes addressed to "Nyet Sherwood."

The company apparently has sold its mailing list, because Sherwood now is receiving circulars from other companies addressed to "Nyet Sherwood."

Farmer's Loss Turns To Gain

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — Eighteen pigs taken from the Gus Glenn farm were recovered by officers three months later.

All had gained weight. Glenn figures he made a profit since he didn't have to pay for their feed during the three months.

New Babies, Old Names

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)— Old names are still favorites when it comes to naming boys here.

The most popular names given to boys born at the Atlantic City Hospital in 1961 were John, David, Michael and James, in that order.

Patricia, Donna, Mary and Elizabeth were the names most frequently given to girls.

House Fly Is Not What It Used To Be

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — The house fly is not what it used to be, according to a University of Kansas research scientist who cited 40 known mutations in the insect's hereditary background.

Dr. Robert E. Sokal estimated he and his assistants have examined more than 100,000 house flies during four years of research at the university's house fly genetics laboratory, the only one in the United States. Its work is complemented by research at the world's only other such laboratories, at the University of Pavia, Italy, and the University of Osaka, Japan.

Sokal and his staff have discovered 15 of the 40 known mutations resulting from the advent of DDT in 1947 and later development of residual insecticides.

Sokal said that soon after a new insecticide is introduced the fly becomes resistant and the insecticide offers little control. Now, he said, "there are very few fly populations over the world that are not resistant."

His research, for which the Army's Research and Development division recently made a $17,637 renewal grant, is a long-range study to discover how genetic resistance to insecticides builds up. His aim, of course, is ultimate discovery of means to nullify this resistance.

Sokal commented hopefully that "the time may come when we will know enough about house flies to control them effectively."

Underground Passages Discovered In Rome

ROME (UPI) — A series of underground passages that may be the place where St. Peter hid from pursuing Roman legions almost 2,000 years ago have been uncovered by workmen.

The subterranean chambers were found beneath the garden of the Church of St. Potenziana, reputed to be Rome's oldest church. It is located near Capitoline Hill, where the ancient city of Rome was founded.

The underground chambers were discovered by workmen bracing the walls between the sunken gardens of the church director's quarters and the main cathedral. The walls had begun to sag and a complete renovation was decided on to keep them from falling.

Workmen began an intricate series of wooden braces. One of them struck what he though was a rock and hit it with a pickaxe. The "rock" fell in. It proved to be the ceiling of an underground chamber.

Archaeologists were called in and immediately began their work. So far, they have uncovered about six rooms. But they believe the underground chambers may cover at least the entire church grounds. They now are digging a second entrance on the opposite side of the church.

The archaeologists said it is entirely possible this is the place where St. Peter hid until he was captured and executed on the site of what is now St. Peter's Basilica.

The gardens of the church has been sealed off as a result of the archaeological work and only the central building, housing the cathedral, is open to visitors. After the excavations have been completed and necessary safety precautions taken, the underground passages probably will be opened to the public.

The Church of St. Potenziana was built in the second century but has been rebuilt and renovated many times. However, some of the buildings date back many centuries.

Why Fisherman Had Problems

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Howard Gillelan was at a trout pond in Baltimore County when a stranger offered him a good-sized trout he had caught.

The stranger said he had a couple of good reasons for not keeping the fish himself:

1. The fish had swallowed cheese bait, so he couldn't toss it back in the water because removing the hook would kill it.
2. He couldn't take it home because his wife thought he was working.

Wild Goose Gets Cooked

CHARLOTTE HARBOR, Fla. (AP)—A wild goose cooked his own goose, and the lights went out.

Deputy Sheriff John Shannon said a wild goose flew into a high tension line stretched across the Peace River. In an instant, the goose was well done. And electrical power throughout the Charlotte Harbor area was out for nearly an hour until a crew could repair the damage.

SHE WRITES POPE ASKING 48 CENTS

ROME (UPI)—A woman who claims to be a descendant of Michelangelo has written to the Pope because she has a small claim on the Sistine Chapel.

Elina Castellucci, 79, has not asked for the return of the chapel. She wants just 300 lire (48 cents) in cash, the price of a ticket to the Vatican Museums.

"I want the satisfaction of seeing the Sistine Chapel free," she said. "Why should I buy a ticket to see something a member of my family painted? That's what I'll tell them in the Vatican."

The white-haired woman has had no reply to her letter to the Pope.

She traced her ancestry back 398 years to the great Italian artist Michelangelo Buonarroti. Elina Castellucci's uncle, a butcher and namesake of the artist, gave her the family tree "This proves that I am a great-great-great-great-great great grand niece of Michelangelo," she said.

The old lady lives with her daughter and truck driver son-in-law less than 20 miles from the city of Florence, where Michelangelo created some of the world's great masterpieces.

Many years ago, she paid her only visit to the Michelangelo Museum in Florence.

"I hope I can see the Sistine Chapel—free—before I die but I'm very old now and Rome is far away," she said.

The first Michelangelo Buonarroti, who has gone down in history just as "Michelangelo," was born in 1457 and died in 1564.

The ceiling in the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican is considered to be his greatest work. He was commissioned to decorate the 133 foot long and 43 foot wide chapel by Pope Julius II in 1508. The work took four years and most of it had to be done while he was lying flat on his back on scaffolding.

Tourists Pass Through 'Bewitched' Shinto Gate

TOKYO (UPI)—The thousands of tourists coming to Japan each year don't know it, but they've been passing through a "bewitched" Shinto gateway whose "evil spell' has cowed construction workers, Japanese bureaucrat and the U. S. Air Force.

So say officials at Tokyo International Airport.

The officials want to remove the gateway. It's obstructing the construction of a new, badly needed, parking lot. But they're having a tough time finding someone who will defy the evil powers of the Shinto gateway ("Torii").

Workers constructing the new parking lot refused to have anything to do with tearing down the Torii.

"Do it yourselves," they said.

The officials said they did not want to do it, recalling an attempt years ago by American airmen to remove the Torii.

"We are not superstitious," one official said. "But it's a question of who is going to place a bell on a cat's throat."

The way the officials tell the story, some American airmen tried to take away the Torii when the airport was used as an American air base in occupation days.

The Air Force authorities, airport official said, thought the gateway was "ugly" and that it was ridiculous to keep it.

But they reckoned without the "fox's divine power," the Japanese officials said.

When an airman climbed on it to begin the job of tearing it down, he slipped and fell to the ground. He was injured. The Japanese officials said other accidents happened. They said Air Force officers decided to let the Torii stand.

The Torii was said to be about 100 years old. According to legend, it was able to stop flood waters from Tokyo Bay and possessed other powers.

THEY REALLY GOT SCALPED!

Boys will be boys, as the saying goes, and these two little "Indians" are no exception. With summer vacations in full swing, Denny and Nathan Cowger of Niles, Ohio, gave themselves Indian haircuts! Denny, 8, is on top, while Nathan, 10, is below. Wonder what mother said? Probably got a good laugh out of it. (UPI photo)

Weather Forecast Just Call Away

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For millions of Americans, the latest weather forecast is just a telephone call away.

In 12 major cities now, any resident with a telephone who wants to know what's next in the weather line just picks up the phone and dials WE 6-1212 or some close variation.

Weather forecasts — brought up to date on new recordings every hour—are available in Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Washington and Los Angeles.

Los Angeles was the latest addition. The weather service was installed there last December.

The first city to have it was New York, back in 1939.

Before the weather number was installed, forecasters were burdened with an avalanche of calls, especially during harsh winter weather. In many instances the calls kept them from the primary business of forecasting.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says total figures for last year won't be available for another month or two, but there was one individual 1961 statistic that sticks out: the weather number in Washington was dialed a record 477,000 times on a January day after a provisional heavy snow warning had been issued.

In 1960 there were more than 200 million calls placed to weather bureau numbers. New York City handled 34 million, Detroit, 31 million, and Washington, 25 million.

The daily average in 11 cities—Los Angeles wasn't in the set-up at that time — was nearly 51,000.

People in every walk of life find the recorded forecast useful. The Weather Bureau says restaurant owners order supplies by the weather; building supervisors order fuel and merchants call to find out whether they should feature umbrellas or sunglasses.

Prospectcs are slight that the weather number will be available to every American in the near future. The telephone companies, which absorb the entire cost of such installations, do it only in cities where there is a chance the service will pay for itself by calls from limited-service phones.

This is a service in which the phone user pays extra for every call above a certain basic number.

Many big cities—Dallas, for instance—don't have limited-service phones, and some cities and towns probably aren't big enough to justify the expense.

'Hall Of Issues' Is Open To Anyone

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 200 art-minded Greenwich Village residents responded to an announcement posted in coffee houses and brought about a "different" kind of art gallery.

"The Hall of Issues will be open to anyone who has any statement to make about any social, political or esthetic concern," the announcement said.

The bulletin said a would-be exhibitor should "bring that statement — in the form of paintings, or poems, or posters, or essays, or a sentence, or a sculpture, or a newspaper clipping, or photos, or an assemblage—and pin it, tack it or tape it, hang it or set it up, anywhere in the hall he chooses until the space is filled."

The announcement advised that each weekly showing would be run four days with a meeting for discussion of the issues on the evening of the last day. It said none of the exhibits would be for sale and that the exhibit fee was 25 cents. Tacks and tape were provided without charge.

That is how the Hall of Issues was born in a church meeting hall early last December.

Most viewers agreed the exhibits were unusual. Such objects as a 100-pound surplus bomb, a rubber bathroom plunger, a baby's shoe and a coffin were part of the displays.

The first week a discarded automatic clothes dryer highlighted the show. It rumbled, whirred, revolved, flashed lights and hung from the ceiling of a hall contributed for the exhibitions by Judson Memorial Church.

The dryer had a coat of red and white paint and was equipped with a number of old curtain rods. It represented a "satellite sputnik," said Phyllis Yampolsky, a 29-year-old painter and housewife who is the prime mover behind the Hall of Issues.

The dryer, Miss Yampolsky said, symbolized "with a terrible noise, that no matter what goes on these days there is a premonition of things in the sky foreboding the future."

Among exhibits shown one week were displays concerning the McKaren immigration act, opposition to nuclear testing, the world labor movement, proposed federal subsidies to the performing arts, integrated housing and an international referendum system.

Miss Yampolsky said she got the idea for the Hall of Issues because "I felt there was an overwhelming cynicism among artists about the things that go on today."

She wrote about her idea to President Kennedy, Atty Gen. Robert K. Kennedy and others, including the Rev. Howard R. Moody, minister of the Judson Church. Moody replied with the offer of the hall.

Critical appraisal of the effort has been limited. But one art magazine described the gallery in a recent issue and Miss Yampolsky said a man from the Dallas Museum of Contemporary Arts visited the hall and said it would be nice to start a similar institution in Dallas.

Ruined By Demon Drink

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Norman King had a flourishing business—until he won a contract to paint a whiskey distillery.

"That was the beginnig of my downfall," he told a bankruptcy court in Inverness.

"Instead of working on the job my men were lying around drunk or playing football."

Master-painter King said he lost 400 pounds ($1,120) on the distillery contract and that put his business on the decline. He went broke with debts of 1,166 pounds ($3,265) against assets of 964 pounds ($2,292).

ARRIVALS FROM SOVIET UNION

Blind Repay Investment

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Russell Bowers, though blind, has been a quality control inspector for 19 years.

The Sharples Corporation, where Bowers works, has developed an attachment for him for a gauging stand widely used in industry. The attachment has a control unit that measures to within five ten-thousandths of an inch. Oversize parts sound one buzzer, undersize parts another and those within allowable tolerances a third.

Sharples says the cost of eqiupping a blind inspector is $150 more than for a sighted person. However, the company says the investment usually will be repaid quickly since blind persons generally can be trained to out-produce sighted persons in this type of work.

Metal Paperweight Made By Mencken

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Polytechnic Institute has its first memento of its most famous graduate.

It is an octagonal metal paperweight which was machined in a Poly shop class in 1892 or 1893 by H. L. Mencken. August Mencken, the writer's brother, made the presentation.

Rainwater Slept There

CAINES STORE, KY. (AP) — Fred Rainwater recalls that he slept in Abe Lincoln's log cabin exactly 100 years after the late President's birth there.

He had walked about 50 miles to see the Feb. 12, 1909, ceremony at Hodgenville consecrating the cabin a national shrine.

Rainwater, then a 21-year-old training school student, arrived early and fell asleep by the fireside in the cabin.

A guard put him out before the centennial ceremony began. Rainwater now lives in Pulaski County.

Airline Official Raves About Another Carrier's Orient Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Not too long ago a U. S. airline official came back from the Orient and committed the ultimate sin for any airline official.

He raved about another carrier's plane.

"I've never seen an aircraft cabin interior like it," he marveled. "It's got anything in this country beat a mile."

The airliner in question was a Convair 880 jetliner, operated by Civil Air Transport (CAT) — the Formosa-based airline founded by the late Gen. Claire Chennault of Flying Tiger fame.

CAT's Convair is dubbed the "Mandarin Jet." And its unique interior has impressed more people than just the aforementioned official.

The predominant color is brushed gold. The seats are a deep black threaded with silver and gold. Above the windows, splashed in rich colors of Chinese black, red and peacock blue, is a series of murals depicting the story of Confucius' travels.

There are nine central figures in the procession ranging from a two-wheeled cart to flag and pike-carrying Oriental knights.

The cabin bulkheads are decorated with authentically-styled moon-gates, dragons, lion-knobs and a Chinese Phoenix. The jet's exterior is only slightly less colorful. The big plane is painted in CAT's traditional colors of beige, silver and gold with a five-toed Dragon emblazoned on the front end of the fuselage just under the cockpit windows.

The interior of this flying Oriental palace is so unusual that when the 880 was being built, Convair employees kept sneaking over to the assembly line to see if it was true.

The "Mandarin Jet" in a sense has kept faith with Chennault's dreams, plans and hopes for the struggling airline that was born Oct. 25, 1946.

That was the date Chennault signed a contract with the China National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration for the job of airlifting food, clothing and medical supplies into war-weary China.

In those days, Chennault's baby airline was called CNRRA Air Transport but was later reorganized under the name Civil Air Transport. The postwar revolution forced CAT to evacuate 30 bases on the mainland before reaching Taiwan (Formosa) early in 1950.

Today, CAT is the officially-designated airline for the Republic of China, with a payroll of 3,000 and serving seven countries in the Orient. Its flight crews are both American and Chinese.

A LOT OF HELP HE'D BE IF YOU'RE LOST

"Abbey," an eight-week-old St. Bernard puppy, looks a little lost outside his $1,000 dog house at a Lake Geneva, Wis., resort. The resort is equipped with a string of doghouses where guests can board their pets. What will they think of next? (UPI photo)

Eliminating Competition

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — City hall employes got free ice cream when a local vendor read that they were churning their own.

Said one of the employes, police Lt. D. W. Whaley:

"I think he (the vendor) was afraid we would go into competition with him, so he closed us up."

Real Success Story

LYNNFIELD, Mass. (AP) — John R. Zappala of Wakefield was a waiter at the Ship's Haven Restaurant six years ago.

He now heads a corporation that recently purchased the place for more than $250,000. Zappala is considered an expert in restaurant operation.

Grandmother's Advice To Lovelorn

CHICAGO (UPI)—A grandmother who turned detective, trapped the slayer of her sister-in-law and wrote a book about it has a word of advice for the lovelorn:

"If someone offers you flattery or things you're not entitled to by reason of your age or appearance, be suspicious."

Mrs. Eleanor Dabrohua, whose only daughter and her three children live in North Carolina, said that may explain what happened to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Putney.

Mrs. Putney, 73, was wooed by Larry Lord Motherwell, then only 41. Mrs. Dabrohua said she feels her sister-in-law was killed when she discovered she was being made the victim of a "con" game.

Mrs. Putney, whose husband was a State Department attache until his death in 1929, was courted across the country by Motherwell, whom Mrs. Dabrohua described as a "boyish, disarming man with a steady income from females."

Mrs. Putney was not heard from after she wired the Dabrohuas Aug. 15, 1959, that she was being married. When police could offer little help, Mrs. Dabrohua and her husband began investigating.

Her book, "Chronicle of a Crime," published last November, tells the story of how the Dabrohuas checked at Sarasota, Fla., where Mrs. Putney had withdrawn money from a bank; at Corpus Christi, Tex., where Mrs. Putney and Motherwell had stayed, and at Las Vegas, Nev., where they spent 10 days.

Mrs. Putney's body was found one year later in the high Sierra and Motherwell was convicted of murder. He now is in prison in California and will be eligible for parole in several months.

Mrs. Dabrohua said she and her husband started investigating on their own when police were reluctant to do more than issue "missing person" flyers. She learned that Motherwell once had rented an apartment from Mrs. Putney and gradually built up a case against him.

"I decided all women ought to be warned," Mrs. Dabrohua said. "Or perhaps their families. When a woman meets a Motherwell, often it's too late to warn her."

Mrs. Dabrohua (pronounced Dah'-broh) wrote the book with the help of Ray Brennan, a Chicago newspaperman. Mrs. Dabrohua, who formerly lived in Winnetka, Ill., now lives in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Don't Step On That Poor Spider

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Division of Beaches and Parks has launched a quiet campaign to stop park visitors from stepping on spiders.

An unsigned article in the division's monthly newsletter says most people's reaction to a spider is: "Look at the ugly thing! Quick, step on it!"

But spiders, the article says, can be interesting if a person instead "takes time to observe or pry into a spider's private life."

Governor Is Going To Try To Beautify City Of Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI)—The quest for peace, disarmament and other global matters aside, the man with one of the most difficult tasks in 1962 is Tokyo Gov. Ryutaro Azuma.

He's going to try to "beautify Tokyo."

In a recent interview with a leading Japanese newspaper, Azuma was asked to name the one project he wanted most to carry out in 1962.

"There are many things which should be done and which I would like to do," he said. "But as I am called upon to talk about one, I would like to see the fructification of the 'let's beautify Tokyo' drive . . .

"In a nutshell, my plan involves the elimination of dirt and filth, removal of the garbage and trash and planting of flowers so that the city will not become bleak . . ."

Azuma played a key role in getting the 1964 Olympic games for Tokyo, has a number of other accomplishments to his credit and generally is known as a man who can get things done. But there are some who believe he may be taking on a bit too much by planning to "beautify" Tokyo.

One of these is a newspaper critic, Tatsuo Mitarai, who has indicated that Azuma is not reckoning with the attitude of the citizens. In a recent article lambasting Tokyoites for their "lack of public morals," Mitarai said:

"In all the civilized countries of the world, there is no big city dirtier than Tokyo. Our streets and our parks are a disgrace to our capital."

He lamented that "the beautifully paved streets of Marunouchi and Ginza are littered with waste paper and fallen leaves. Garbage boxes overflowing with trash and covered with flies and maggots attracted by the stench line the streets side by side with the trees . . .

"The Tokyo Governor and the Welfare Minister should take a look at what they can find under the elevated tracks at Yurakucho and Shimbashi . . . Canals flowing through the city have become trash dumps and garbage disposal areas for those just living in them."

The reason, said Mitarai, is simple: "There are tens of thousands of Tokyoites who are more degraded than a dog."

Azuma said he recognized he was taking on a difficult chore. "This may sound simple," he said, "but it is not easy to do all this . . . When the citizens and the Metropolitan Government should be cooperating, I occasionally get the impression that they are like enemies . . ."

He More or Less Gave Fire Alarm

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Eddie Lee Manista, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Manista of Phoenix, wandered out of his bedroom shortly after he was ordered to take a nap.

When his mother asked why he wasn't in bed, Eddie answered, "Can't sleep for that smoke."

Mrs. Manista found a fire had started in a pile of clothes, before it could spread to other rooms.

What Does The Word 'Proof' Mean On Whisky Bottle Label?

LONDON (UPI)—Ever pondered over the small print on a whisky bottle label and the origin of the word "proof?"

Liquor men will tell you it's the technical standard by which the spirit's strength is measured. In Scotland and England the measurement these days is done by a form of hydrometer devised by one Bartholomew Sikes, a long-dead secretary to the Board of Customs throughout these islands.

But back through the (Scotch) mists of time, "proof" was measured by mixing whisky with gunpowder and then putting a light to it. If the gunpowder flashed then the whisky was "proved." Should there be no ignition, then the spirit was too weak.

The Distillers Co., Ltd., a giant among scotch and gin producers which operates 41 malt whisky distilleries and six grain whisky distilleries and manufactures gin in many parts of the world, describe "proof" this way:

"The spirit at a temperature of 51 degrees Fahrenheit weighs exactly 12/13th of a volume of distilled water equal to the volume of the spirit. It is, in fact, a mixture of spirit and water of a strength of 57.1 per cent of the spirit by volume and 42.9 per cent of water. Proof spirit is also described as spirit of 100 per cent proof; that is, it contains 100 per cent of the foregoing mixture of spirit and water."

The gunpowder proving sounds simpler—but no matter which way it is done Scotland sells millions of gallons annually, with the United States by far the largest overseas market. Distillers Co., Ltd., says Scotch embraces a worldwide market, its leading brand names are famous on six continents "even if they are not always pronounced according to Scottish usage . . ." "Scotland's princely gift to the world is Britain's most traveled ambassador."

In the early days when Scotch first broke out from its home in the Highlands, over the English border and down to London and tough excise duty saw smuggling develop alongside illicit stills.

Whisky experts here say that as late as 1820 at least half the Scotch output came from illicit stills, some 200 of them operating in the Glenlivet area alone.

The Duke of Gordon, the greatest landowner in the Highlands, was perhaps the true founder of today's industry. He told the House of Lords his people were "born distillers," had imbibed whisky from time immemorial and while tempted by high duties would continue selling it illicitly. Why not, Gordon asked, enact a law making it impossible to produce whisky as good as the contraband product on payment of a "reasonable duty?"

Given such a law, he and his fellow landlords would encourage legal distilling and kill smuggling. The government took his advice in 1823.

PLAYING IT COOL IN CHICAGO

After a recent spell of cold, wet weather in Chicago, the sun finally returned. It was warm enough so this flamingo decided to cool off in the Lincoln Park Zoo. (UPI photo)

Teen-Agers Do Go Steady —But One Time's Enough

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most teen-agers have at some time "gone steady," but for a majority of them, once is enough, if a recent survey is any guide.

In one of a series of questionnaires submitted to more than 1,000 members of Junior Achievement (at their recent annual meeting) the boys and girls were asked whether they had gone steady and how they felt about it.

The replies went something like this: 417 said they had gone steady and 277 said they had not. The rest did not answer. The average length of time for going steady was 11.7 months. A total of 407—almost the same number that had gone steady—said they were against the practice and 292 were for it.

Delegates were divided almost evenly between boys and girls. They represented 71,000 junior achievers in 43 states and three Canadian provinces, with an average age of 17 to 18. Most of the young people, representing nearly one-fourth of the 4,500 Junior Achievement companies, were high school seniors.

As members of Junior Achievement, the youngsters operate small-scale companies for a year to learn the working of business. They sell stock for a few cents a share and put a product on the market.

In answer to one of the questionnaires submitted at the convention, the delegates reported average earnings of $15 from their Junior Achievement participation. More than half the teen-agers said their ambition in life was to make a contribution to society. The rest hoped to get rich.

The teen-agers had definite views on a number of matters. They were almost unanimous in agreeing that juvenile delinquency had been over-emphasized and a large majority favored inclusion of young people on civic councils as advisers and to contribute in other ways.

Business was the favorite career of the delegates but the largest number believed doctors were the highest paid professional people in North America.

The surest way to raise the country's standard of living, according to the teen-agers, is to increase business. They felt business had done more than government or labor unions combined to improve American living standards.

More than half the youngsters indicated they would join the Peace Corps if they were given the opportunity. Even more agreed that the United States has an obligation to protect West Berlin, even at the risk of war with Russia.

Slightly less than half the delegates maintained savings accounts, most of them to finance college educations, which they estimated would cost a total of $10,000 each.

Answering questions about their personal lives, most of the teen-agers confessed they never counted calories and they were divided almost evenly between those who considered the nutritional value in foods before eating.

A good many said their schools or churches offered sex education courses, but about half said they would rather receive this guidance at home.

Radiation Guard For Your Home

NEW YORK (UPI) — Something new in do-it-yourself gadgetry: a plug-in Geiger counter for the home.

It keeps a round-the-clock guard against a sudden increase in radiation levels and, if this should occur, warns the householder with an audible signal.

For $30 or a little less, the radio hobbyist can build a transistor circuit which gives a loud click every time a radioactive particle strikes it.

A sudden increase in the radiation count is the signal to turn on your regular radio and check the news.

Production, Use Of Steel

NEW YORK (AP)— If the nation's steel makers hope to expand sales and production, they must find new markets—and some of the best ones may be overseas.

According to Steelways, publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, between 1950 and 1960 the Japanese increased steel production 357 percent; West Germany, 143 per cent; Czechoslovakia, 127 per cent; Brazil, 176 per cent, and the United States 3 per cent.

The magazine said steel consumption in other countries also is growing by larger per cents than in the already highly developed U. S. economy. It asserted that major sales and growth prospects for American steel makers, therefore, are in international markets.

Education Has Its Ups, Downs

LAGRANGE, Ga. (AP)—Education at LaGrange High School has its ups and downs. When a yo-yo craze swept the school, teachers didn't discourage students. They encouraged them to bring their yo-yos to school.

Contests were held for two days, with winners receiving $5 in cash.

Just In Time To Save Chicken

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP)— An egg saved a chicken's life.

A stray chicken had awakened the household of Mrs. Rudy Fernetti, Pittsburg police clerk, each dawn for several days.

Mrs. Fernetti thought it was a rooster and had just about decided to roast it to get rid of the nuisance when the fowl laid an egg.

Now she's decided the layer can live.

In Market For Black Widows?

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP)— Anyone in the market for 1,000 Black Widow spiders can get immediate results by contacting 11-year-old Michael Meadows of Calhoun, Ga.

Michael, who has been handling spiders, snakes and practically every other animal for several years, became the proud owner of the spiders recently when the eggs hatched on the back porch of his home. By count, the youngster now has 4,299 spiders.

ISRAEL PRODUCES FIRST SPORTS CAR

Are Donald Duck, Superman Harmful?

ROME (UPI) — Is Donald Duck a war monger?

Are Mickey Mouse and Superman causing Italian youngsters to neglect good literature?

Are American comics in general inciting Italian youths to violence and lawlessness?

Some Italians say yes, some no. The battle of opinions has been raging since the end of World War II brought American comics back to this country to the delight of Italian children (and many adults).

Whatever view is taken of them, the comics are doing thriving business. Latest estimates place the number of comic books or papers published in Italy at about 6 million copies a week, or 312 million copies a year. Money spent annually on comics by Italian children is estimated at 15.6 billion lire ($25 million).

Italian daily newspapers, which until a few years ago hardly ever printed a comic strip, now are using them in increasing numbers.

Most of the comics are American, some of them poorly and hastily translated.

Many of the most popular characters have been given Italian names. Mickey Mouse is Tofolino (little mouse), Donold Duck is Paperino (little duck), but many others retain their original names. Sounds such as "boom" or "bang" are not translated, which is often confusing to Italian children. "Boom," if read the Italian way, come out "bawawm" and "meow" comes out "may-ov."

Apart from linguistic shortcomings, the comics have come under fire from both Catholics and Communists for a variety of reasons. Some 10 years ago the Chamber of Deputies debated a bill which would have set up censorship for comic books. The bill was rejected on grounds it could have been the first step towards censorship of the adult press.

The Communists dragged Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck into the Chamber debate.

Friend Donald, the Communist organ L'Unita' said indignantly, had appeared in a comic "as a Marine . . . dressed in khaki, with puttees, with a machine gun hanging from his neck and a hand grenade in his pocket."

Mickey Mouse the Communist paper complained, was shown going "behind the iron curtain . . . into a country clearly identified as Russia, and fighting with a terrible police chief.

As for the "Masked Marvel" and "Superman" L'Unita' disposed of them with one word—"Fascists."

Catholics have spared the Walt Disney characters—as a matter of fact the Mickey cartoons are favorites in parish movie houses—but hit some of the crime comics very hard.

Other critics complain that the comics have caused Italian children to read less good literature and lowered their intelligence standards.

Giovanni Mosca, a leading Italian humorist, quipped that an Italian boy drowned in a river because passersby didn't understand his shouts — he yelled "Help!" in English, Mosca said, "as he had learned from the comics."

Airport Problem For The Birds

BOSTON (AP) — Sharpshooter Warren Altman says the difficulty in shooting down seagulls at Logan International Airport is that "four more come to their funeral."

The birds are shot to avoid ingestion into engines of planes roaring out of the airport.

Altman, one of those assigned to bring down the birds, says for every bird shot, four more become curious and hover over the remains.

Three Bears: Today's Style

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mrs. C. H. Branch was reading a bedtime story to her young daughter when son Steve, 8, sidled up.

"Whatcha reading?" he asked.

They told him "The Three Bears."

"Oh, sure, I know them," Steve said. "Smokey, Yogi and Pooh."

These Fishermen Tell On Truth

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fishermen don't exaggerate when they tell Theo Carter about their prize catches.

Theo operates a fish mounting firm and $21 a foot she says her customers speak only the truth when they bring in specimens for taxidermy work.

The Search For Sailing Records

LONDON (AP)—Valuable record books of the old-time sailing ships, volumes once thought lost forever, have been recovered from forgotten library corners following a worldwide appeal by Lloyd's Register of Shipping.

So far, 17 of the missing volumes have been found, in libraries and private collections. The recovered volumes are copied by Lloyds and returned to their owners.

Now only 12 editions still need to be traced to complete the series of Lloyd's registers running back to 1764.

Fleeting Fame For District Attorney

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Fame has been fleeting for Leonard Walker, who served six years as U. S. district attorney.

On a visit to federal court, where he was the prosecutor, Walker was stopped by a deputy marshal until a thorough check could be made of his identity.

Firm Is Marking First Birthday

Smith's Men's and Boys' Clothing firm at Corte Madera Center will soon mark their first anniversary at the center. The firm has an interesting history, dating back to 1836, when it was founded in Oakland by William Smith, father of the present head of the company.

Advertising himself as "Money-Back" Smith, the elder Smith was known to generations of Northern California buyers.

H. B. Smith Jr., the present president of the company, is carrying on the tradition of "be satisfied or we'll give you your money back," and the firm has grown into the largest such organization west of Chicago.

Stephen Smith, the other Smith son, is vice president of the family-owned firm.

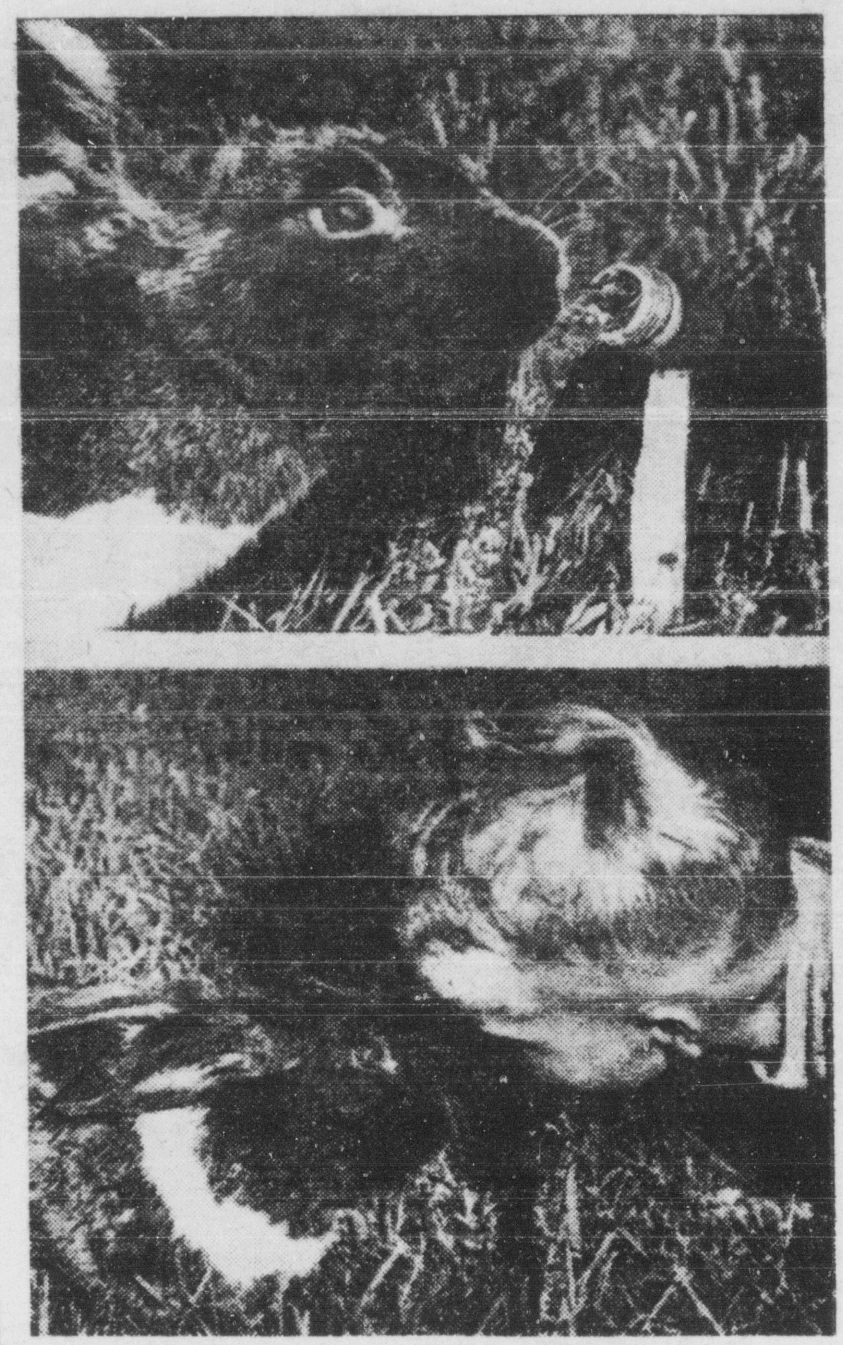
The Thom McAn family shoe store in Corte Madera Center has been completed and in operation for half a year this month. The local store is one of nearly 900 Thom McAn shoe style centers located in 500 cities from coast to coast, although it is operated by a local company—Corte Madera Thom McAn, Inc.

Thom McAn is the largest integrated manufacturing retailing organization in the shoe industry and has pioneered in the development of family shoe style centers where personal service, ample parking and spacious interiors make shopping easy and convenient.

Manager Joe Rossett states the Corte Madera Thom McAn store carries a complete selection of dress and casual shoes for the entire family—men, women, and teen-agers—plus, color-coordinated handbags, hosiery and other accessories.

Several hundred shoe styles for all ages are exhibited on open displays and customers can make their own tentative selections before being seated for fitting in separate departments for men, women and children.

Rossett especially points out the new collection of high fashion shoes reflecting the latest style trends and silhouettes for women.



ENOUGH WATER FOR TWO

Water for two. It was a warm day and Ricky Ferguson, 2, looked into the backyard and saw his pet rabbit, Harvey, getting a cool drink of water from the garden hose. Ricky decided he was thirsty too (bottom picture) and Harvey obligingly drew back a bit to let Ricky share in the refreshment. Ricky is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Ferguson of Richfield, Minn., a Minneapolis suburb. (AP Wirephoto)

WHAT'S POPPIN!

Back To School Clothes

By JANET POPPIN

One more month to go, and it will be back to school. Of course, no one has to be informed of this, as one can merely look into any store window and see all the beautiful clothes with signs saying those three little words—back to school.

All kinds of woolens and broadcloths are featured along with real and fake suede.

Cute little jackets with both long and three-quarter length sleeves have been topped over the hip hugger, straight, pleated, and full skirts.

Longer versions of the jacket (or shorter versions of the coat) are coming out for this fall with a new name—Bermuda coats! These shorties are made of all kinds of cuddly materials to keep a snow bunny or just a cold person warm.

You're probably wondering how you can keep warm with such a short coat on. The secret is boots. Yes, the things that you wouldn't have been caught dead in two years ago. The new knee boots are fast gaining popularity because they are made of soft suede, warm wool, and shiny patent. The ankle boot is still considered to be "in," too!

Sweaters, bulky style, please, may be mixed and matched with both straight or pleated skirts. Cardigans, each with a special way of buttoning, add a touch of individuality. The ever popular V-neck sweater has a sister making her debut this fall. She'll be known as the U-neck sweater.

Short skirts are here again in such styles as the kilt and jumper. The kilt and pleated skirts are being emphasized with, of all things, suspenders! The suspenders, like the knee boots, were once considered "out" but, again, they're "in."

Those who like to sew and design their own clothes will be interested in knowing that the stores are full of new fall patterns, as well as materials. Solid and plaid woolens in various colors as well as cotton knits are on the top of buying lists for back to school clothes.

One manufacturers has come out with paints and remover for shoes. The harmless multicolor paints may be used over and over. One bottle paints four pairs of shoes.

Acres And Acres Of Free Parking

One of the features of Corte Madera Center that shoppers have always appreciated is the acres and acres of protected parking available free.

Completely closed off with steel fencing on the side facing the Redwood Highway, the parking area is arranged so that it is only a short walk to any store in the Center.

Some of the planned landscaping has been completed, and new improvements are planned. Architect John S. Bolles of San Francisco is working now on a new parking plan, and work on the parking area is expected to be started soon.

The ready access to the Center from the Redwood Highway at Bob's of Marin is still available, as well as the several entrances from Madera Boulevard.

MURPHY AND MYRTLE CLOWN AROUND

Murphy, a Boxer dog owned by Paula Ann Golden of Monroe, Mich., wears a sad expression while his head is used as a perch by a baby robin named Myrtle. Paula found Myrtle wet and waterlogged after a recent rain. Dried and fed, Myrtle took immediately to Murphy and started riding around on his back. But, as at right, Murphy rebels and Myrtle has to take to the air. Myrtle will be released soon. (AP Wirephoto)

Herbert Sherbet New Owners

The new owners of Herbert's Sherbet Shoppe in the Corte Madera Center are Ron Cararra and Les Kuhr.

Ron is from San Francisco, attended George Washington High School and San Francisco State College. He then worked for several years as a retail butcher, and finally went into business for himself in the amusement machine field. He serviced his own juke boxes and pinball machines and still maintains an interest in this business.

Ron has lived in Mariner's Cove for four years. In his spare time he enjoys skin diving, and hunting for deer and elk.

Les Kuhr, Ron's partner, is a career officer in the U.S. Army and will be retiring this fall. He holds the rank of lieutenant colonel, and is the inspector general at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Former Marin residents, Les, his wife and two children, lived in Terra Linda several years ago, before a tour of duty in Korea. At this time they lived in San Francisco.

In addition to sherbet . . . which comes in more flavors than you can imagine . . . Herbert's features fountain specialties, hot dogs and sandwiches. Another Herbert's is planned for Terra Linda sometime next year.

GIRL SCOUTS FOND FAREWELL

Girls from the four corners of the nation join in four-way handshake as they prepare to head back home from two-week stay at National Senior Girl Scout Roundup at Button Bay, Vermont, last week. Some 8500 scouts scouts and 1500 staff members headed for their homes from the camp site on the shores of Lake Champlain. Girls are, from left) Elena Wong, Alea, Oahu, Hawaii; Pearl Johnson, Nome, Alaska; Jan Amez, Fort Fairfield, Maine, and Jean Scott, Largo, Florida. (AP Wirephoto)
